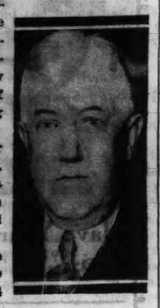
'BEWARE RULE BY BUROCRATS,' DAVIS' WARNING

Democrats' Leader in 1924 Talks.

University, Va., July 10.—(AP)—In a defense of the "old order," John W. Davis warned tonight against the death of representative democracy "by the slow strangulation of an engirdling burocracy."



JOHN W. DAVIS.

If the old order must die, he said, "it would die a nobler death in the lightning and storm."

"Surely we have warant to believe," the 1924 Democratic presidential candidate told the institute of public affairs at the University of Virigina, "that within the framework provided by the old order progress is still possible, reforms are still practicable, and recovery is still attainable.

Proof Rests on Radicals.

"In the court of reason, in the light of history, the burden of proof rests wholly on those who would persuade us to the contrary."

The New York attorney said he was speaking "neither for nor against the 'New Deal' in the present use of that alluring phrase. Under that title good has been done, no doubt, which no one would wish to undo."

"And I share the general admiration evoked by the energy, promptitude, and driving power shown by President Roosevelt," he continued.

"On the other hand, to approve or reject any policy or group of policies in mass and without analysis is an act solely of emotion, not of reason."

Faith in Human Reason.

Declaring that he did not wish to be regarded "as an opponent of change" and that "as a liberal I put my faith now and always in the freedom of the human mind," Mr. Davis said:

"I am aware that one who comes as I do to lay his humble wreath at the feet of the old order runs serious risks. Some one is sure to denounce him as a Bourbon and others perhaps to baptize him as a Tory.

"He may be invited to be silent until he can bring forth some new thing of his own; although it is not quite clear why one who sees his friend driving headlong toward a precipice must wait to warn him until he can produce a road map of the district."

In emphasizing his precept that a greater faith and practice in democracy should obtain, Davis said the "Supreme court has sanctioned the doctrine that congress having passed a reasonably specific statute may commit to an administrative department the duty by rules and regulations of 'filling out the details.'

Warns of Harsh Penalties.

"But that inch having been given, the ell that is taken runs in final statutory form not entirely unlike this; 'Something is wrong in the country which ought to be put right; it is hereby made the duty of the executive to find out what that something is and to promulgate such rules, regulations, edicts, and decrees as he or it may deem useful to correct it.' Draconian penalities are not infrequently attached to discourage those who otherwise might imprudently resist.

"Some state legislatures have out-Heroded Herod in point of self-abnegation by enacting that the law of the state shall henceforth be whatever congress has adopted as a recovery act, together with any codes, agreements, licenses, rules, and regulations made effective thereunder.

Surrenders State Rights.

It stands to obvious reason, Mr. Davis added, "that no man, whether the President of the United States or another, either the present high-minded and industrious occupant of that office, or one less gifted, can carry out such commands of himself."

This brings into being, Davis said, the burocracy that threatens the existence of democracy.

"For," Mr. Davis said, "be it remembered that, while there are, according to the latest computations I've seen, some 644,000 employes of one grade or another on the federal pay roll, no single man or woman in the United States has ever cast his or her vote for more than five persons in all that mighty host.

"These five are the President, the Vice President, two senators and one

JOHNSON ASKS OWN RELEASE AS NRA CHIEF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.]—Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, the blustering showman who has run the NRA since its beginning a year ago, is ready to turn his brain child over to an impartial commission of which he is not a member.

Gen. Johnson announced today he had recommended to President Roosevelt that the NRA be placed in the hands of a committee instead of continuing as a one man dictatorship. Johnson added that he preferred not to be a member of the new commission.

Will Stay for Congress.

Until January, however, Johnson feels that he must remain at the helm. To shift the Blue Eagle régime from a one man command to a commission would require action by congress, Johnson feels.

"Don't get the idea that I'm getting out, or anything like that," the peppery general snapped at newspaper men this afternoon. "I will stay just as long as the President thinks he needs me."

The general made it clear, however, that he would prefer to retire, carrying out his much talked about return to private business. There is little doubt here that the President will drop him.

Wouldn't Be a Member.

"I have definitly recommended that this be not a one man job when it passes from the organization to the administrative era." Johnson told reporters. "A board or a commission or something like that should be appointed to administer NRA. If I could avoid being a member of such a board I should be glad."

Johnson has still before him several vital codes, such as shipping, power utilities, and the general code for small industries. When these are approved, the NRA will have completed its code making and will turn from promotional to administrative work. With this change Johnson would be out of place, it has been felt in high circles.

"I'd like to see it set up before congress gets back," Johnson said, continuing to discuss the board he has recommended to President Roosevelt. "If Mr. Roosevelt approves, I'd like to see the new board appointed within the next month or two."

Should Be Nonpartisan.

Johnson said he thought the NRA commission should be nonpartisan and that it be composed principally of men acquainted with NRA problems. He added, however, that the commission form of control would have to be approved by congress before it could actually take command of the NRA. A summer commission, therefore, could only act as a board of directors for Johnson.

Johnson said he expected to start his much discussed western speaking tour with an address at Waterloo, Ia., on Thursday, "unless the President tells me not to." He would then go to Portland, Ore., on July 15, and to Los Angeles on July 20, and might stop in Chicago on the way back to make an address, the general said. All these plans are contingent upon President Roosevelt's approval.

CANADA DIGS UP TWO 66,000,000 YR. OLD LIZARDS

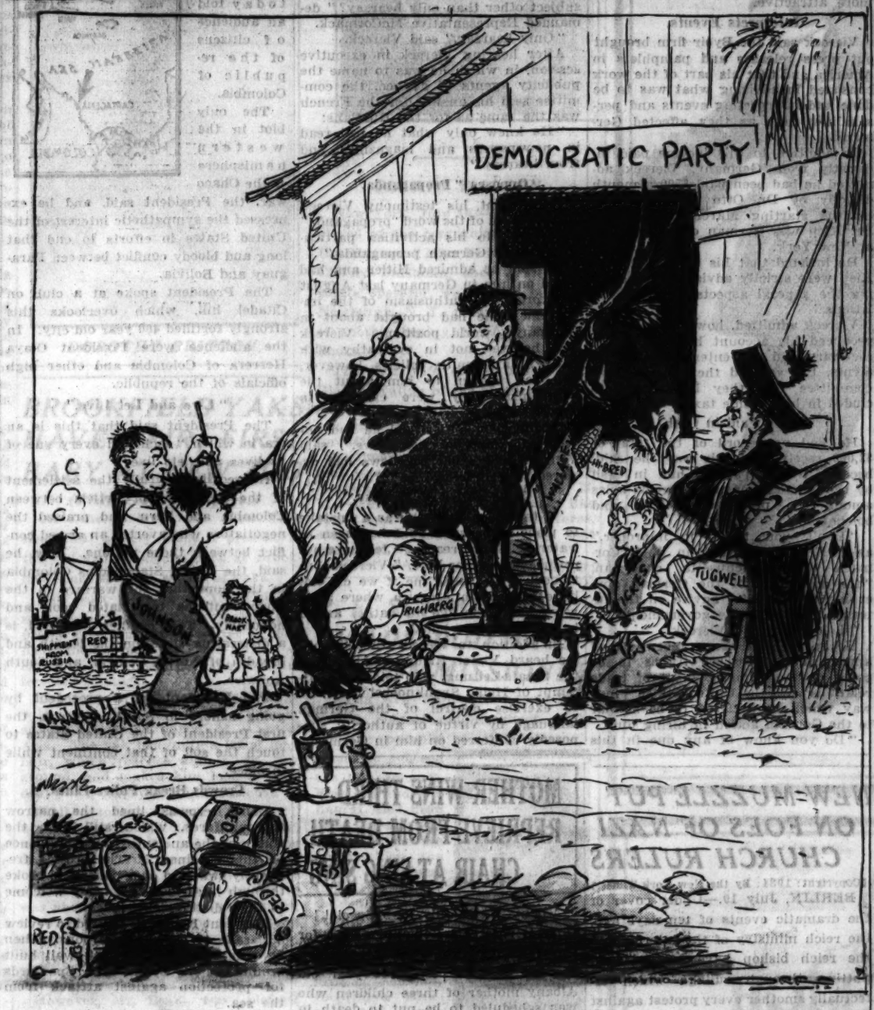
MORDEN, Man., July 10.—(AP)—Two lizards of the underseas that lumbered about the prairies 66,000,000 years ago, when water covered central North America, were being unearthed near here today.

The fossil remains of the prehistoric monsters were found in the bentonite clay belt seven miles west of Morden. C. M. Sternburg, member of the geological survey of the National museum at Ottawa, who is supervising the excavation of the underwater mammals, said they were the best example of the mosasaur found in Canada so far.

One fossil is 32 feet long, and 28 feet of it have been fully uncovered. The other is a little smaller. They were located about eight feet below the surface by J. E. O'Day, representative of a United States firm, who was digging for bentonite, a commercial clay.

The mosasaur was a sinuous creature with overlapping scales and "v" shaped head and four flippers and a tail half its entire length.

GETTING REDDER AND REDDER



Mississippi Is First to Vote for Dry State

Jackson, Miss., July 10.—(AP)—By a steadily increasing majority Mississippi voters tonight apparently had turned down a proposal to repeal the state's quarter century old prohibition laws. With a third of the 1,596 precincts heard from, representing every section, the May-Roberts act, providin a state controled liquor store system, was trailing by nearly 17,000 votes.

Of the 57 counties from which returns had been received, only eight were listed in the repeal column. They were Coahoma, Washington, Tunica, Warren, Sharkey, Hancock, Harrison, Sunflower, and Leflore.

Nullifies Counties' Poll.

Defeat of the proposal to repeal the state prohibitory statutes would automatically nullify the vote of the individual counties on sale of intoxicants within their respective boundaries, since the former proposal had to carry before the latter was effective.

However, the vote on the two propositions ran hand in hand, with the county dry majority holding a slight lead over the state-wide dry vote.

First to Keep Laws.

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—Mississippi, which was the 30th state to vote on state liquor repeal was the first to stand by its dry laws.

Although 37 states voted for repeal of federal prohibition, some have not yet legalized alcoholic beverages within their own borders.

The next state liquor ballot will be taken on Aug. 28, when Democrats in South Carolina, which with North Carolina, voted against the 21st amendment, ballot on a proposal to advise the legislature to legalize sales. The legislature passed a resolution April 10 for the people to express their opinion in the primary before it meets again.

Maine voters on Sept. 10 will decide whether the prohibition clause in the state's constitution is to be repealed.

Seven Vote in November.

In the general election in November Florida, Idaho, Kansas, Nebraska, South Dakota, West Virginia, and Wyoming will vote on repeal or amendment of prohibition clauses in their constitutions.

The states where sales have been legalized so far are:

TESLA FINDS RAYS TO HALT AIR FORCES AT THE FRONTIERS

New York, July 10.—(AP)—Nikola Tesla, inventor, celebrating the 78th anniversary of his birth, declared today he has discovered force rays which can be set like a wall around a nation's borders to render it impenetrable to military attack.

Tesla said he plans to place his inventions at the disposal of the Geneva conference in the interests of peace.

The new rays, he said, would be made of particles, probably dust of some sort, microscopically fine, driven electrically and projected in the form of vast curtains miles high and 100 miles each in length. The particles would travel with the unheard of velocities of 50,000,000 volts.

Their effect would be so devastating, he claimed, that 10,000 airplanes flying into one of these curtains, would be destroyed to the last machine. He drew a picture of force projecting plants set up every 200 miles along the border. Each would shoot rays 100 miles on either side. The dust beams would travel in straight lines.

MORGENTHAU TO TOUR PACIFIC IN PATROL BOATS

San Pedro, Cal., July 10.—[Special.]—Orders received today sent the coast guard patrol boat Hermes from the local base to Seattle where on July 16 it will take Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau to an unannounced destination in the Gulf of Alaska. At the Alaskan destination, Morgenthau is scheduled to board the coast guard cutter Chelan for a further trip.

Lieutenant Commander C. W. Thomas, commander of the coast guard base and skipper of the Hermes, said he had not been informed regarding the object of the treasury official's visit to Pacific waters, nor of his ultimate destination. It is believed here, however, that the Chelan will take Morgenthau to Honolulu, where President Roosevelt is scheduled to dock July 22.

Only 33% Vote at Poll on Philippines Freedom Plan

MANILA, P. I., July 10.—(AP)—With most Filipino voters more interested in keeping out of the rain than participating in this first step toward their independence, 202 delegates to a constitutional convention were elected today. Only about a third of the 1,500,000 eligibles balloted for delegates. The convention will draw up a constitution for a commonwealth government which will wean the Philippines gradually from the United States and allow complete freedom ten years hence. When approved by President Roosevelt, the constitution will be submitted to the Filipino people for ratification, probaly within six months.

U. of Oklahoma Co-ed on 'Date' Is Found Dead

Norman, Okla., July 10.—(AP)—Twenty-two year old Marion Mills, daughter of a University of Oklahoma professor, was found dead in the home of Mrs. Hazel Brown, a fraternity house cook, today. Summoned by telephone, Dr. E. F. Stephens made a hasty examination which he said failed to disclose the cause of death. There were no marks or bruises upon her body, he said.

Police were seeking Neal Meyers, El Reno pharmacy student, who, they said, was reported by Mrs. Brown to have been the girl's companion at her home last night.

Meyers Left House.

Mrs. Brown's 16 year old son, Richard, told officers Meyers telephoned Dr. Stephens and then left the house immediately, saying he was going to the university infirmary for another physician.

The girl's parents said they had believed their daughter was at a Tulsa, Okla., house party.

Mrs. Brown told police that when she arrived home from work at 3 o'clock last night, Meyers, whom she knew, and the girl, whom she did not know, were in the house.

Meyers introduced the girl as his wife, police said Mrs. Brown related, and asked if they might stay all night.

Sleep in Separate Rooms.

Mrs. Brown told police she consented and that Miss Mills slept with her; the young man in another room.

Dr. Stephens, who was called at 3 o'clock this afternoon, said the girl, lying fully clothed on a bed, was dead when he arrived.

The girl was a member of the Delta Gamma sorority and prominent socially. In 1931 she was selected by the engineering students as their queen at the annual engineers' ball. She was graduated from the university last month.

Her father is Elbert M. Mills, associate professor of civil engineering.

Memphis, Tenn., July 10.—(AP)—Nature today stepped in to dislodge fragments of a peanut from the throat and lung of John Stringfellow, 19 months old. The irritation caused a form of pneumonia. Pneumonia washed away the obstruction. With the irritation gone, the pneumonia disappeared.

Four Killed in Crash of Italian Bombing Plane

ROME, July 10.—(AP)—Antonino Domenico, well known civil aviator, and three Italian soldiers were killed in the crash of a bombing plane at the Montecelio airport today. Domenico was a war ace and a holder of several prizes for altitude records with cargo.

Wind Sweeps Jacksonville; Many Injured

Jacksonville, Ill., July 11 [Wednesday].—[Special.]—A tornado struck here at 10:30 last night, injuring scores of persons, plunging the city into darkness, and causing damage estimated at $500,000.

The storm, which lasted for forty minutes, tore the roofs from homes, damaged the business section and Illinois college campus, and cut off all communication for more than two hours. Hail and rain accompanied the wind.

At the State Hospital for the Insane the damage was estimated at $75,000. The gymnasium and other buildings on the Illinois college campus were damaged. A greenhouse was razed. None of the inmates at the asylum was injured.

Circus Badly Damaged.

A circus which was in town suffered damage estimated at $50,000. One of the circus employés, Edward Perry of Imlay, Mich., was critically injured when a telephone pole fell on him.

The circus in which Tom Mix, movie star, and his horse Tony had appeared had given a performance during the afternoon.

Throughout the residential district plate glass windows were blown in and roofs were caved in or torn from the tops of buildings. Trees were uprooted, many of them falling on homes and automobiles. Telephone and electric light poles also were down. More than 1,500 telephones were out.

50 Buildings Damaged.

More than fifty buildings in the business section were heavily damaged by the storm.

All buildings on the north side of the square in the business district were damaged. The front of the Montgomery Ward building was demolished. Other damaged buildings included a Woolworth store, the Myers Brothers' clothing store, and the Armstrong building, two blocks south of the square. The roof was torn off the Armstrong building.

Fear Persons Trapped.

Although no fatalities were reported, the police and firemen were working slowly to rescue persons who might be trapped in the destroyed homes. Three persons who suffered injuries when their homes were destroyed were brought to hospitals. They are Arthur Davidson, James McManus and Mrs. Paul Defrates.

The storm was general in Morgan county, but Jacksonville received the worst of it. Winchester, to the west, reported slight damage, and Virginia, 15 miles north, was hit by the tail end of the storm, but suffered no heavy damages.

HITLER DEFENDS NAZI SLAYINGS, FLAYS PRESS

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, July 11.—The Daily Herald, which for some time has been banned from Germany, tomorrow will publish the following: "Reports current in diplomatic circles in London last night said Chancellor Hitler is suffering from a severe nervous breakdown and will likely be unfit for work for a long time. It is believed his place will be taken not by Vice Chancellor von Papen but by Rudolph Hess, who, though only a minister without portfolio, is officially 'deputy for leader' of the Nazi party. At a late hour no confirmation of this report was obtainable either in Berlin or London."

Explains Killings

PARIS, July 10.—(AP)—Chancellor Hitler contends that his stern repression of Nazi rebels saved Germany from civil war and Europe from chaos, he said in an interview with Prof. Alfred J. Pearson of Des Moines, Ia., which is published today by the Paris edition of the Herald-Tribune.

Leaders high in the service of the German government, Hitler was quoted as saying, "plotted to overthrow the government."

"There was only one thing to do, and that was to put them out of the way where they can do no harm," Prof. Pearson said he was told by the chancellor. "Our action saved the German people from the tragedy of a civil war which would have caused confusion not only in Germany but throughout Europe."

The chancellor was quoted as saying, "The government will turn neither to the left nor the right, but will follow the course it has pursued in the past—which means going forward in a straight line."

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

BERLIN, July 10.—The Nazi government, through its minister of propaganda and public enlightenment, Paul Joseph Goebbels, today launched a bitter attack against the press of Europe for its reporting of Chancellor Hitler's bloody purging of the Nazi party, in which hundreds of persons were ruthlessly shot down.

Goebbels directed most of his attacks on the French and British press and broadcasts over Russian radio stations. He did not attack any American correspondent.

Threatens to Expel Writers.

In his speech, which was broadcast to the world, Goebbels charged that a large part of the foreign press had "embarked upon a campaign of lies which in its maliciousness can be compared only with the campaign of atrocity tales that were set against Germany during the war."

He threatened foreign correspondents who "misrepresent" German events in the future with expulsion. As he concluded his address he applied the term "pfeu teufel," the superlative of "phooey," at the newspapers which have incurred his wrath.

Goebbels' speech was regarded as the curtain raiser in a campaign to be waged by the German government to justify in the eyes of the world its harsh suppression of all opposition. The second act of this campaign is scheduled to be enacted Friday, when Hitler will go before his "rubber stamp" reichstag, which is 100 per cent Nazi, and explain the bloody events of June 30 and the week following.

Will Tell Future Program.

Hitler summoned the reichstag today for this purpose. It will be the first time the reichstag has met since Jan. 30, when the chancellor called it into session to place its approval upon the acts of his régime up to that date.

Nazi leaders assert Hitler in his declaration will emphasize "the fact that after crushing the Roehm conspiracy law and order is stronger in Germany than ever before." He also is expected to outline the government's future program. Energetic measures to regulate the distribution of food—an economic dictatorship entrusted to the minister of economics, Kurt Schmitt—figure in this program. Alarmists assert Hitler will announce a return of potato cards, and possibly bread cards, as during the war, but this is energetically denied in official quarters.

The government, meanwhile, continued its "purging" campaign. The Storm Troops, Hitler's private army of Nazis, which was instrumental in placing him in power, was given orders to turn in all its arms. This order was regarded as the second step in a move to disband the Storm Troops. The first step was sending them on a "vacation" for the month of July.

The government today also continued its drive against communism. Numerous arrests were made in various parts of the country.

Minister Goebbels' Speech.

Goebbels in his speech today said:

"I call you all to witness that there have been cases of lies, slander, and misrepresentation of the true facts such as are almost without parallel in journalism. A large part of the foreign press has embarked upon a campaign of lies which in its maliciousness can be compared only with the campaign of atrocity tales that were set against Germany during the war.

"June 30 passed off without friction, without the slightest domestic tremor. With his authority and with remarkable brevity, der fuehrer (Hitler) quick as lightning suppressed the revolt of a small coterie of saboteurs, ambitious men afflicted with a malady.

"Peace and order were disturbed nowhere in the entire country. Daily life proceeded in its normal course. The people of Germany went on a holiday as though nothing had happened, or else continued their work without interruption.

Says People Welcomed Action.

"The people in their entirety, however, welcomed with a sigh of relief the liberating deed of der fuehrer, which saved Germany, and thereby the entire world, from dire catastrophe.

"A huge wave of confidence welled up in the entire nation for Adolf Hitler because of his heroic acts. If anything in Germany changed, it was possibly this: that the German people are devoted with even greater love to der fuehrer and to the political régime represented by him.

"One is nauseated as one gains a complete survey of the entire foreign press comment.

"Even if sheets like the London Times declare that a mutineers' revolt is suppressed with gangster methods, and if one compares with that how dignifiedly, nobly, and decently events abroad are treated in the German press, one can only say with perfect serenity: 'Ah, how much better human beings are we savages!'

"What has been done in reporting this situation has nothing to do with freedom of expression.

"Many countries in Europe during the past months were shaken by convulsions much more serious than Germany's 'second revolution' of June 30.

"Yet, the German press in each case dealt with events abroad with due reservation and with limitation to the purely factual.

"No Excuse for Incorrect News."

"There is no excuse whatever for incorrect news about Germany, because the German government with unexampled candor laid the events of June 30 before the world. It kept back nothing and spoke the truth in everything.

"It believes its suppression of the revolt would best be understood by the nation and the world if the background and consequences which would have ensued if her fuehrer had not interfered were brought to the attention of the public in unvarnished form.

"I believe I am speaking in the name of the entire German people if I protest with indignation and disgust, and if I declare quite plainly that the German government does not propose henceforth to tolerate foreign correspondents in Germany who in this manner set people at loggerheads and who create an atmosphere that renders impossible every honest and impartial relationship among nations.

"With unscrupulousness that is without parallel, professional manufacturers of lies are here poisoning the world's opinion, and the peoples themselves will, in the last analysis, have to pay the bill for this action.

"Let us thank our fate that we were given a chance to weed out of Germany this sort of lying journalistic scoundrels. The German press and the German radio may be proud of having been taken out of this compromising company."

Correspondents Are Angered.

BERLIN, July 10.—(AP)—Maledictions and accusations, heaped upon the foreign press tonight by propaganda minister, Goebbels, met with widespread resentment among foreign correspondents.

The executive committee of the Foreign Press association called an extraordinary session for tomorrow to consider as a matter of professional honor the strictures made upon them by Chancellor Hitler's aid.

The correspondents were particularly exercised by the intemperate language Goebbels used. He employed the German expression "pfui-teufel." The English "phew" is mild in comparison. The German "pfui" is indicative of extreme disgust and distaste.

The German people, Goebbels declared with reference to foreign news reports, "turned from these lie fabricators with nausea and horror, and gave expression to loud "pfui-teufels."

KILLINGS WEAKEN POSITION OF NAZI PARTY IN AUSTRIA

Reaction Grows in Favor of Dollfuss Regime.

Cabinet Resigns

VIENNA, July 11 [Wednesday].—(AP)—The government of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss resigned today to make way for a new government concentrating even greater dictatorial powers in his hands.

In the new cabinet Dollfuss not only will be chancellor but he will take over the portfolios of foreign minister, minister of defense, public security, and agriculture.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, July 10.—Austria's position as a buffer and independent state against German expansion to the south has been definitly strengthened as a result of Chancellor Hitler's shooting bees last week, and Chancellor Dollfuss' position as head of the Austrian government thereby has been fortified.

Revelations of what National Socialism really is has dampened the tendency of Austrian Socialists, who have a grudge against the Dollfuss government for last February's shootings here, to become Nazis. Close observers say that in a fair plebiscite Dollfuss might now poll half of the country's votes. He could not have done that two months ago.

Bomb Throwing Eases Up.

The little chancellor now is able to tell his listeners, "I told you so," with regard to the Nazis. Six months ago the Nazis were threatening to gobble up Austria. And Dollfuss has been doing just that with great effect. In fact, there has been a definite relaxation in the bomb throwing in the last three or four days. This is pointed out as evidence that the Austrian Nazis have been thrown into a state of hesitancy.

Dollfuss has a definite program of stumping the country once a week. He is now an honorary citizen of every good sized town in Austria. Taking his cue from the rebuff to national socialism in Germany, Dollfuss is telling his hearers that he never will allow any arrogant dictatorship to be established here. In a vague way he announces the same thing that his vice burgomaster of Vienna, Ernst Winter, did in a recent speech—namely: that fascism of the type of his friend, Premier Mussolini of Italy, is not applicable here.

Still Faces Hard Problems.

The main criticism heard of these stump speeches by Dollfuss in the past has been that he has had his head too much in the clouds and talked too much about "the Christian spirit" as a restorative of the country's ills.

Helped, therefore, unexpectedly by the Nazis, Dollfuss has, it is generally admitted even by those who approve of him as chancellor, consolidated his position since last February in having made progress in healing the wounds of the Austrian civil war and in breaking down some Socialist animosity.

But he still has several difficult problems to deal with, and probably he will have them on his hands for a long time. The economic situation has not improved. Vienna looks more indigent than it did four months ago.

Free Socialist Leaders.

Several peace gestures by the Dollfuss government were signaled from the provinces tonight. At Linz, which is the big industrial center where the first shots were fired in last winter's civil war, Mayor Euler, Vice Mayor Pracht, Deputy Weisner, Dr. Korell, and twenty other Socialist leaders who have been in jail for five months were released by the government upon their written promise to abstain from future political activity.

At Leoben the trial of 40 members of the Schutzbund, military organization of the Socialists, was concluded with sentences ranging from 12 to 14 months.

Viereck Tells Quiz Group of Job as Nazi Publicist

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—George Sylvester Viereck, writer and publisher, who admittedly did his best on behalf of Germany to keep the United States out of the world war, was called to the witness stand today by a congressional committee investigating "un-American activities" to explain his more recently admitted services here in behalf of the Hitler government of Germany.

He admitted he was at present receiving $1,750 a month through the American publicity firm of Carl Byoir and Associates as a result of a contract which Viereck said he had urged on the German ministry of propaganda. The contract, he explained, actually was made between the German Tourist bureau and the Byoir firm, to produce publicity in America which would make travel in Nazi Germany more attractive.

Interprets Events.

Viereck said the Byoir firm brought out press releases and pamphlets in America and that his part of the work consisted in advising what was to be done and interpreting events and personalities here as they affected Germany.

In addition to this income paid in directly from Germany, Viereck admitted he had been paid $500 a month directly by Dr. Otto Kiep for four months starting March, 1933, while Dr. Kiep was German consul general at New York.

He insisted that his services to Dr. Kiep were strictly advisory "concerning the general aspects of public relations."

Viereck admitted, however, when he produced his account books that his secretary had not entered these payments, but assured the congressional committee that they had been included in his income tax.

$2,000 Paid in Cash.

He had no record of the total of $2,000 received in this way, he said, because it was paid to him in cash by the German consul "to avoid spies among the professional Jews and bolsheviks."

"Don't you think it improper," asked Representative John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, chairman, "for an official of the German government to pay for advice on the internal affairs of this government?"

"I do not," said Viereck.

He said that France recently had appropriated 80,000,000 francs to be spent on the "improvement of trade relations with the United States" in a way which he declared to be similar to the German action in hiring him.

"Do you know of any one in this country who has received any of that money?" Representative McCormack demanded.

"I think I do," said Viereck.

Representative McCormack announced that Viereck would be questioned about French propaganda in closed session first "because we are not going to have the reputation of people destroyed by hearsay."

In support of this position Representative McCormack pointed to his experience earlier in the interrogation when Viereck declared it was all right for Germans to hire a publicity agent "if it was right for the Russians to hire Ivy Lee."

McCormack's attempts to find out what basis Viereck had for the suggestion that Lee was hired by the Russians was reduced to a declaration "that was the impression to be had from the newspapers."

"Have you any knowledge on the subject other than only hearsay?" demanded Representative McCormack.

"Only hearsay," said Viereck.

After hearing Viereck in executive session, in which he was to name the publicity agents of France, the committee said his answer for the French was the same as for the Russians:

"He knew only what he had read in newspapers and magazines and from hearsay."

Opposes "Propaganda."

He said he admired Hitler and had called on him in Germany last August to express his enthusiasm of the improvement he had brought about in Germany's world position. Viereck said he was not in sympathy with Hitler's anti-Semitic policies, however, and had spoken to him about the antagonism they were creating in America.

"Chancellor Hitler said he had not declared war on the Jews," said Viereck, "but that the Jews had declared war on him.

Tells Hitler of Mistake.

"I told Mr. Hitler it was a mistake to place signs such as I had seen at watering places, reading 'Jews are not permitted to bathe here,'" Viereck continued. "He asked me if we did not have beaches in America where Jews were not permitted to bathe, and I had to admit we had."

In addition to Viereck the committee heard Victor Ridder, publisher of the Staats-Zeitung, who told of the attempt of Heinz Spanknoebel last year to exercise control of the German language by virtue of authority supposedly conferred on him in Germany.

NEW MUZZLE PUT ON FOES OF NAZI CHURCH RULERS

BERLIN, July 10.—Under cover of the dramatic events of ten days ago, the reich ministry of the interior and the reich bishop have succeeded in putting through rulings which effectually smother every protest against the Nazi church government and make of the Protestant National synod an obedient instrument for legalization of the Nazi policy.

The first ruling, Minister of the Interior Wilhelm Frick's decree prohibiting public discussion of church policy and all publications dealing with the subject, was issued yesterday. Today's edition of the Evangelical Law Journal prints a church decree placing the Protestant press entirely under the control of the central church authority and forbidding any pastor or church official to act as editor or publisher of any church organ without express permission from the reich bishop.

Strangely reminiscent of the days of Henry VIII. of England is the interpretation placed by the reich church government on the ministry of the interior's decree against public discussion of church problems. According to the reich bishop's associates, even if the opposition in the church did decide to found an independent Protestant body on the order of American sectarian bodies, it would be forbidden to hold public assemblies or to publish any appeal for, or defense of, its views.

MOTHER WINS THIRD REPRIEVE FROM DEATH CHAIR AT SING SING

Albany, N. Y., July 10.—[Special.]—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman stayed for the third time today the execution of Mrs. Anna Antonio, 28 year old Albany mother of three children who was scheduled to be put to death in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison Thursday night for plotting the murder of her husband. The stay is effective until the week of Aug. 6.

At the same time the governor announced he had asked Chief Judge Cuthbert W. Pound of the Court of Appeals to convoke the state's highest court in special session at an early date to determine if it would hear a reargument of the woman's case by her counsel, former Judge Daniel H. Prior.

The stay also will postpone the scheduled execution of Vincent Saetta, who issued an eleventh hour statement intended to absolve the woman from any complicity in the murder of her husband.

It also postponed the execution of Sam Faraci, who was convicted with Saetta of the actual killing, which, it was said, had been prompted by the wife to obtain $5,300 insurance money on her husband's life. Saetta and Faraci also had been scheduled to die Thursday night in the death chair.

ROOSEVELT HITS AT CHACO WAR IN TALK TO LATINS

Guns Salute as President Lands in Colombia.

CARTAGENA, Colombia, July 10.—(AP)—A new era in the relations of nations of the American continents is dawning, President Roosevelt today told an audience of citizens of the republic of Colombia.

The only blot in the western hemisphere is the Chaco war, the President said, and he expressed the sympathetic interest of the United States in efforts to end that long and bloody conflict between Paraguay and Bolivia.

The President spoke at a club on Citadel hill, which overlooks this strongly fortified 400 year old city. In the audience were President Olaya Herrera of Colombia and other high officials of the republic.

"Live and Let Live."

The President said that this is an era in which "each and every one of us lives and lets live."

He recalled joyfully the settlement of the ownership of Leticia between Colombia and Peru, and praised the negotiators who averted an armed conflict between those nations. Now, he said, the United States joins Colombia in the hope that the warfare in the Chaco will be terminated soon and honorably. That conflict, he added, is a distressing situation the length and breadth of North, Central, and South America.

The President set a precedent by going ashore in South America, the first President of the United States to touch the soil of that continent while in office.

Crowds Break Police Lines.

Dense crowds lined the narrow thoroughfares, which still bear the stamp of the ancient Spanish influence on this continent. The crowds frequently swarmed over police and broke through lines to give a noisy welcome to their distinguished guest.

President Roosevelt paused to review a parade of Colombian troops. Then he rode on top of a thick wall built around the city by the early Spaniards for protection against attack from the sea.

Just before dinner the President reboarded the Houston, which, at sunset, started over a choppy sea on the 200 mile run to Colon, Panama. The President will pass through the Panama canal tomorrow on his journey to the Hawaiian islands.

Panama Reception Ready.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, July 10.—The program for the reception in Panama of President Roosevelt tomorrow will begin with the booming of 42 guns—21 from the Cristobal mole and 21 as the cruiser Houston nears Gatun locks.

There will be an escort of planes as the Houston anchors in Cristobal harbor. Secretary of War George H. Dern, and other officials will go aboard.

At Gatun locks, 3,000 troops will parade as the President's ship goes through the canal. American Boy Scouts also will honor him. At Miraflores Locks golf course the army's Pacific sector of 4,000 men will salute the President while 21 guns boom.

The President will leave the Houston at Balboa at 4 p. m. He will be driven to Panama City to a state banquet with President Harmodio Arias. The Houston will leave for Hawaii at 5:30 p. m. Thursday.

SPAIN STRIKES AT FASCIST "PLOT", NABS 240 IN RAID

Leaders of Movement Hauled to Jail.

MADRID, July 10.—(AP)—The Spanish government struck today at Fascism, arresting young José Antonio Primo de Rivera, son of the late dictator and head of the movement, together with 240 of his followers.

All but about fifty of them were released later, including Primo de Rivera, after close questioning by Spanish authorities.

Police said they had acted on government instructions through a tip that a clandestine revolutionary meeting was being held at Fascist headquarters. There had been published predictions of an imminent rightist revolt.

Fascists Deny Charge.

The Fascists claimed their meeting was a regular scheduled assembly and denied it had any connection with "absurd charges of a plotted uprising, which were ridiculous and without foundation."

Among those apprehended in a sudden police raid were the marquis of Eliseda, the trans-Atlantic flyer, Capt. Julio Ruiz de Alda, and the noted writer, José Maria Alfaro. They were members of the Fascist directorate, which was carted off to jail in toto.

Police said most of them were released after a declaration had been made assuming responsibility for the meeting and for all persons present, together with arms, ammunition and literature discovered at the headquarters.

TWICE ASSASSIN TARGET.

Since he made the inaugural address of Fascism in Spain last Oct. 29, he has twice been the target of would-be assassins. Machine gun bullets meant for him killed two spectators and wounded several others while he was addressing Fascists at Cadiz. After the uproar Primo de Rivera calmly finished his speech.

Not long ago a group of extremists hurled a bomb at his automobile and raked it with pistol fire as he drove with friends in Madrid. Unscathed, the young Fascist leader leaped out of the machine, firing his own gun, and captured one of his assailants.

Recently he was reported to have made a secret trip to Berlin to confer with Chancellor Hitler.

WEATHER AGAIN DELAYS VOYAGE IN STRATOSPHERE

Rapid City, S. D., July 10.—(AP)—Another delay was put on the records today by the weather. Sponsors of the stratosphere flight again postponed the time of the takeoff. From China Commander T. G. W. Settle cabled his best wishes for success. Commander Settle, official holder of the United States altitude record, made a stratosphere flight from Akron, O., last November, reaching a height of about 11 miles.

Maj. William Kepner said no effort to take off would be made until at least Thursday morning, if there is a high pressure area.

L. Lucern Custer, Dayton, O., will observe the installation of the barograph, which will be sealed before the flight and afterward sent to the United States bureau of standards for calibration.

FRANCE SOLICITS BRITISH HELP TO UNSEAT HITLER

Would Cut Off All Credit from Germany.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 10.—Louis Barthou, French foreign minister, returned to Paris today after a two days' visit in London. Publicly he said he was delighted with his visit here, but privately he admitted that he was deeply disappointed.

When his trip here was first arranged, Barthou had hoped to bring Great Britain into an alliance with France against Germany. That scheme was destroyed by the outburst of British public opinion. Then it was said that the only object of his visit was to tell British officials what he had been doing on his recent trip in eastern Europe. He took two days to tell this. The final meeting was held this morning.

Appeals to British Chiefs.

The usual communique issued after this meeting said proposals for additional security in eastern Europe, the future of the Geneva disarmament conference, and preparations for next year's naval conference were discussed. THE TRIBUNE learns, however, that most of the time was occupied with an appeal by Barthou to the British to act as godfather for the expected French baby—an eastern Locarno pact.

The British, while not refusing, took the attitude that they would like to see the baby before agreeing to take the little creature under their wing.

Barthou also appealed to the British to withhold all credits, both national and commercial, from Germany for the present, and then, if events turn out in Germany as the French expect, coöperate in bolstering up a new régime there. Barthou is convinced that Chancellor Hitler is moving definitly toward the right and that in a few weeks the reichswehr [regular army] and the junkers will take charge of Germany, possibly without bloodshed. But he is convinced that they will take charge in any event. If this happens, the French would be willing to finance Germany in any amount.

See Peaceful Settlement.

The idea is that the reichswehr generals are realists who know that they would have no chance in a war and therefore are willing to come to a friendly settlement with France for many years to come.

The British again listened but made no promise.

It was announced that Francois Pietri, French minister of marine, who was to have returned to Paris with Barthou, has "private business" which may detain him in London for a few days. The first "private business" which he transacted was in the form of another talk late this evening with Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell, British first lord of the admiralty.

Norman H. Davis, American ambassador at large, and Arthur Henderson, president of the disarmament conference, conferred with Barthou before he left. Following their talk it was announced that Henderson had decided that the bureau of the conference could usefully be convened in September, when the league of nations assembly meets.

REPUBLIC STEEL BREAKS 20 YEAR TIE WITH UNIONS

Warren, O., July 10.—(AP)—The steel industry's third largest corporation—Republic—disclosed today it had thrown out its last contracts with unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

The corporation said its Warren district contracts with the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers had expired June 30 and would not be renewed because of the presence in that organization of a "radical element."

Say Others May Follow.

Heightening the uncertainty, unnamed steel company officials at the Pittsburgh meeting said they understood "other companies may follow" the lead taken by Republic.

Meanwhile at Portsmouth, O., the President's new steel board received its first case since it began functioning. The board and the amalgamated won at least a delay in a threatened strike of 5,000 employés of the Portsmouth works, Wheeling Steel corporation [over the discharge of a union official for fighting with a fellow worker].

The board and the union had asked the men for time to study their demands before calling a strike, and the workers acceded.

Follows Previous Ultimatum.

Republic's announcement today followed by less than two months a speech by Tom M. Girdler, its chairman, who declared:

"Before I spend the rest of my life dealing with John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, I'm going to raise apples and potatoes. We are not going to deal with the amalgamated or any other professional union, even if we have to shut down."

Republic's contracts with the amalgamated had endured for 20 years, mills here and at nearby Niles operating more recently with employé representation organizations and unions operating side by side.

Concludes Secret Session.

San Francisco, Cal., July 10.—(AP)—A secret discussion of a basis for ending the long walkout of Pacific coast maritime workers ended here early tonight with President Roosevelt's labor disputes board announcing it expected to hear from employers and ship owners tomorrow on what they could do toward settlement.

The trend of the meeting, held amid increasing threats of a general walkout of 100,000 union men in Portland, Oakland, and San Francisco, was not disclosed.

A briefly worded statement issued by the board, however, at least partly confirmed reports the group headed by Archbishop Edward J. Hanna was striving for some sort of truce by which a general walkout could be averted.

Ship owners and the strike strategy committee of the Central Labor council participated in the closed session.

Both sides went into the session carrying the answers to questions propounded Monday by the board, but the questions and answers were kept secret.

Says Situation Delicate.

"I would like to give them out, but the situation is so delicate it cannot be done until a conclusion is arrived at," said O. K. Cushing, spokesman for the board.

That the disputed question of control of hiring or dispatching halls still was the paramount point at issue was emphasized, however, with the insertion in morning newspapers of a full page advertisment relating the attitude of the San Francisco Waterfront Employers' association on the subject. It concluded with the assertion:

"A jointly operated hiring hall as provided in the June 16 agreement is fair and gives all that any fair-minded longshoreman can reasonably ask.

"We are willing to have the national longshoremen's board supervise its operation to insure that it is fairly operated."

Textile Strike Looms.

Birmingham, Ala., July 10.—[Special.]—A strike of 18,000 textile workers in Alabama may follow a meeting to be held here Sunday to consider a report of the research committee of the United Textile Workers of America, it was announced today by W. O. Hare, secretary of the Alabama Federation of Labor.

Hare said he had not been notified of a strike vote which has allegedly been taken by the 42 locals in the state. According to the reports, which emanated from Huntsville, one of the largest textile centers in the state, the vote was taken during the last ten days. Shorter hours, pay increases, and changes in working conditions are asked, it is reported.

PLANS DIVORCE

LUPE VELEZ.

Beverly Hills, Cal., July 10.—(AP)—The Lupe Velez-Johnny Weissmuller marriage is headed for the divorce courts, the little Mexican actress said today. She asserted she would file suit against the former Olympic swimming star immediately and would charge mental cruelty.

Miss Velez said she and her husband separated finally yesterday.

"I thought if I went away it would give us a chance to get off one another's nerves. Johnny followed in an airplane and then we decided we just couldn't make a go of it.

"Johnny and I still love each other."

RETIRING ROTARY CLUB PRESIDENT LUNCHEON GUEST

John H. Reynolds, retiring president of the Rotary Club of Chicago, was guest of honor at a club luncheon in the Hotel Sherman yesterday. Other guests were Robert Lee Hill of Columbia, Mo., president of Rotary International, his board of directors and directors of the Women of Rotary Club of Chicago.

The speaker was Maj. John L. Griffith, incoming president of the club, who declared a new period in national life demands a new type of philosophy.

"The government was the umpire whose duty it was to see that business men competed fairly. Great riches were not considered ignoble. The test that was applied was rather: Did the man who accumulated riches do so with a fine regard for the niceties of competition?

"In this period through which we have recently been passing it becomes clear that some of the players did not play the game according to the rules and that only too often the government umpires who were selected by the spoils system did not do a good job of officiating."

END FARM STRIKE BEFORE WORKERS LEARN ITS CAUSE

Professional Agitators Run the Show.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Bridgeton, N. J., July 10.—[Special.]—The fruitful fields of southern Jersey were the scene today of a spectacle both grotesque and pitiful, the culmination of a bloody farm workers' strike.

The bewildered hundreds who had walked off the 3,200 acre Seabrook vegetable farm near here two weeks ago at the behest of professional agitators from New York listened silently this afternoon as those same agitators told them they had won a glorious victory.

An agreement drawn up by John Moffett of the federal department of labor who arrived here today from Washington permits the workers to return to work tomorrow at the same wage scale which they formerly enjoyed. A board of arbitration is to decide future differences between employer and employés.

Do What They're Told.

Conversations with the workers, a majority of them Italians and the remainder Negroes, revealed one thing clearly. They did not know why they had struck and thereby precipitated a warfare in which hundreds of heads were broken and dozens wounded. Nor were they certain why they were returning to work and no change in wages or working conditions.

They knew only that smooth speaking men from New York had appeared in their midst a few weeks ago and warned them that their wages were about to be slashed in half.

The workers had been receiving 25 and 30 cents an hour and up for their labor in the vegetable fields and the cannery on the farm. They were informed by the New York agitators, who openly boast of their communist connections, that Charles F. Seabrook, owner of the farm, was about to cut these wages to 15 and 18 cents an hour. Seabrook denied this and pleaded with his workers to remain. But filled with a vague dread, they decided to heed the pleas of the strangers in their midst and strike.

Today, with hundreds of acres of cabbage rotting in the sun, with thousands of dollars of damage caused to other vegetable crops, the agitators advised the field hands to return to work. Meekly they complied.

Lose Two Weeks' Wages.

They stood under the burning July sun, anxious eyes gazing out of sweat stained faces, as David L. Horuvitz, an attorney, and Donald Henderson, an "organizer," lauded them for their courage. Here and there was a murmur concerning the loss of two weeks' wages, the pay roll for the strikers being $30,000 for that period. But in the main they accepted without question the dictum of the agitators.

Twenty-seven of their number remain in jail, charged with assault and battery with intent to kill. Many were absent from the meeting, laid up with broken bones received in scuffles with the state police or deputy sheriffs. Others were still white and sick from the effects of the nauseating "vomiting gas" used by the authorities to beat off picketers.

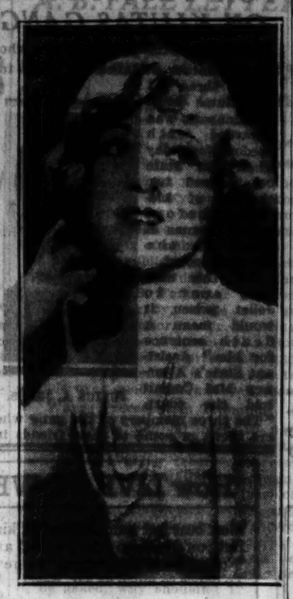
In hospitals were several police hurt in the bitter hostilities. Wondering if they will be able to stand the effects of the strike with its crippling of the cannery were farmers for many miles around. The strike, though comparatively brief, will leave a deep scar and one long to be remembered in Cumberland county.

Terms of Settlement.

The agreement drafted by Moffett provides that the strikers shall be reemployed without discrimination against them. Conditions shall remain as they were prior to the strike. The board of adjustment, which will arbitrate future differences is to be composed of Moffett, the county agent, a person to be appointed by the county judge and a representative of the farmers and workers.

THE MAN GOES TO JAIL

DOROTHY BRITTON.



GLADYS WALTON.

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Deprived of the companionship of Dorothy Britton, "Miss Universe" of 1927, Clifford Parliman, once wealthy real estate operator, was lodged in jail at Newburgh, N. Y., today at the behest of another beauty, the first Mrs. Parliman.

The first wife of the realty man, Gladys Walton of the stage, whom he married in an airplane over Manhattan in 1929, had her ex-spouse jailed for $420 back alimony.

Parliman, now an engineer on a real estate project at the old J. P Morgan home at Highland Falls, N. Y., denied he had "anything like $420," and the former Miss Universe, seen on the estate, backed up that statement.

BROOKFIELD YAKS HAVE HEIR; FIRST BABY AT NEW ZOO

On June 22 last, the New York Zoological society made a present to the Chicago Zoological park at Brookfield, consisting of a pair of yaks.

This was pleasing to the Chicago zoo, made the New York society feel pretty good, but was a matter of complete indifference to the yaks, because, at the time, the yaks were interested in storks.

The yak, as you know, is a large wild or domesticated ox of Tibet, or adjacent elevated parts of Central Asia. The yak has quite a lot of long hair, which reaches almost to the ground, and makes him look a good deal like a Jersey cow in a fur coat.

Well, visualize the surprise of Edward H. Bean, director of the park, when he visited the yak cage at the zoo yesterday and found three yaks.

The young yak, who may or may not have been brought by the stork, was about 18 or 20 inches high, didn't have as much hair as his father, and seemed considerably annoyed at not being in Tibet or adjacent elevated parts of Asia, where any right-minded yak ought to be.

However, Mr. Bean was pleased about the yak, since the little yak was the first animal to be born in the zoo since its opening on July 1. The creature was forthwith christened Yakolene.

No one has told any one of the three yaks about this, however, since the yak already has a name. It is really a poephagus grunniens, but few people call the yak that, because it is easier to just say "yak."

ASK LABOR BOARD AID IN LIMESTONE STRIKE IN INDIANA

Bloomington, Ind., July 10.—[Special.]—Appeals for intervention by the national labor board in labor difficulties in the Oolitic limestone district were made today by the sheriffs of Lawrence and Monroe counties, Frank Swango and Lester Bender.

Violence will likely result if union members carry out scheduled plans to begin picketing mills and quarries in the district Thursday night, law enforcement officers said. Resumption of picketing then, with 2,500 men participating, was voted at a union meeting in Bedford. One man has already been injured in a disturbance at the Hoosier mill of the Indiana Limestone company. Authorities were told the injured man was one of 200 pickets who surrounded company property.

Union officials ended the picketing temporarily by calling the Bedford meeting and explaining plans for making one final effort to obtain federal intervention.

'BEWARE RULE BY BUROCRATS,' DAVIS' WARNING

Clutching at Straws.

Asserting that "drowning men have clutched at straws ever since the world began," Mr. Davis said the "battle cry always has been the same: 'The old order has failed us'; 'capitalism definitly has failed'; 'away with it and let something better be put in its place.'

"Because in five brief, though painful, years we have fallen on evil days, are we entitled to say forthwith that capitalism has failed as a system? Is it not rather that those who in public or private life undertook to guide the course of events did not measure up to their duties and opportunities?

"Men in office—I am not speaking of America alone—as well as the voters behind them lacked vision; others lacked courage to follow the vision they had. Men in private station, drunk with the desire for easy money, cast off all restraint and forgot the rules of prudence, and some the demands of honor also. But to lay the resulting crash at the door of the capitalistic system is to blame the automobile for the collision instead of the man who drove it.

Property, Contracts Sacred.

"I am ready to concede that the capitalistic system is not foolproof, but I want more evidence than we have so far been given before it is abandoned as a proven failure."

The right of private property and the sanctity of contracts, Mr. Davis added, "are the twin pillars of the capitalistic system; they stand or fall together. American life, as Americans have known it hitherto, has proceeded upon these principles."

"Rugged" an Unhappy Word.

Of "rugged individualism," Davis said:

"It was an unhappy phrase. It lent itself so easily to the punning comparison with 'ragged individualism.' When 'ragged' was substituted for 'rugged' as a picture of the last five years, it focused public attention on the adjective, and whatever virtue there was in the noun was soon forgotten. Has individualism then nothing but rags in which to clothe its followers? If so, let us make haste to change them for the purple and fine linen of the new evangel.

"What is individualism? A prophet of the old order, who is still highly regarded in these parts, wrote years ago that the essence of Republican government is the right of men to be secure in their persons, their property and in its management.

"In his opinion, no government ever had proved wise or pure or unselfish enough to plan and regulate the details of men's daily lives without degenerating into tyranny. His countrymen received this gospel at his hands, and observing it they grew from insignificance into a rich and powerful nation of 120 million souls.

Drowning in Abundant Flood.

"It is asserted now that the vigor which this gospel lent has been its own undoing. Under the stimulus of individual initiative and enterprise, industry and invention have so expanded man's control over the forces of nature, so multiplied his harvests, so increased his power to supply his ever growing wants, so enlarged his earthly dominion, that he is drowning now in the flood of his own abundance. Some God-like wisdow is needed to save him from himself by curbing his self-destroying energy. Planned economy must take the place of the urge to better oneself, which so far has been the chief motive power in the world's advance.

"Let a planned economy come if it must, but remember that it does not spring like Minerva, full armed from the brain of Jove. It must be set up and operated by human hands and by the same sort of men, and no others whose strivings under individualism, as it is alleged, have proved so disastrous.

Where Is Such Wisdom?

"Where is sufficient wisdom to be found? Who will go bond that such vast power will be sanely used?

"The advocates of a planned economy will but deceive themselves and deceive others if they ask of men in or out of office more wisdom or purity or strength than providence has bestowed upon the race."

FACTOR STARTS TO LOS ANGELES BY AIR FOR REST

John Factor, wealthy speculator whose testimony against Touhy gangsters sent them to the penitentiary for kidnaping him, boarded a United Air Lines plane at the Municipal airport last night for a two months' vacation in Los Angeles. He will visit his mother, who is 82 years old.

"I want to forget all about kidnapings," Factor stated. "I don't want to have to go through life with a couple of bodyguards at my side. By the time I return to Chicago I hope the public will have forgotten all about it."

Factor said he would make his permanent home in Chicago and eventually open a brokerage office here.

Factor's younger son, Alvin, left for California by train earlier, accompanied by a nurse. His other son, Jerome, whose abduction preceded that of his father, will remain in Chicago to attend summer school at Northwestern university.

National Labor Board Meets

U. S. LABOR BOARD INTERVENES IN STRIKE AT PEKIN

Pekin, Ill., July 10.—(AP)—Carl Steffessen and the Rev. John W. R. Maguire, conciliators for the National Labor board, attended a conference today between strikers and officials of the Corn Products Refining company where employés have been on strike for more than two weeks.

The conference was called by Mayor R. L. Russell yesterday, but no agreement was reached. Both Steffessen and Father Maguire have met with representatives of the union and tomorrow will meet with H. B. Lawton, representing the company, in an effort to iron out the troubles. Pickets continue to patrol the plant.

Ernest Jones of Springfield, Ill., who was arrested Sunday following an argument with police at a meeting of the Unemployed Alliance, was ordered to leave town after he had entered a guilty plea to a charge of interfering with an officer and also to unlawful meeting.

NEW LABOR BOARD CALLS LIEUTENANTS TO DISCUSS PLANS

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—The national labor relations board has summoned the heads of its 20 regional labor boards to the capital for conferences on policies and procedures in handling labor disputes.

This was disclosed tonight by Lloyd Garrison, chairman of the labor relations board, which stepped into office yesterday to replace the old national labor board headed by Senator Wagner of New York.

Garrison requested the chairmen of the 20 regional agencies set up by the old board to come as soon as possible. He expects them to be here for conferences over the week-end.

During the day the new labor board got down to actual work on the docket of around 100 labor trouble cases it inherited from its predecessor. Garrison said it had to be determined which cases would be dealt with first, and also to settle the relationship of the new agency with other federal labor units.

FREE BABE JONES FOR TESTIFYING ON KLUTAS GANG

Julius Augustus [Babe] Jones, who turned state's evidence to send to prison three of the Klutas band of kidnapers, was rewarded with freedom yesterday when the state nol prossed two charges of kidnaping before Judge Thomas J. Lynch in the Criminal court.

JULIUS A. JONES.

"If this man were sent to Joliet prison it would mean a death sentence for him," Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coglan told the court. "The three members of the gang who are there, or some of their friends in the prison, would not rest until they had put Jones out of the way."

The prosecutor pointed out that although Jones had accepted $7,500 as his share of the $75,000 ransom paid by James Hackett, Blue Island gambler, he had objected to the abduction. In reply to a question asked by the court, "Babe" Jones said he now has "not a nickel."

The gang kidnaped Hackett twice, the second time obtaining only $1,500 for his release. The leader, "Handsome Jack" Klutas, was shot to death by detectives who discovered his hideout in Bellwood. Gale Swolley and Frank Souder were given life sentences a few days later, and Edward Dorow, alias Wagner, was sentenced to a term of 35 years three weeks ago. Two others, Edward Nolan and Edward Nickolsen, were killed in Joliet several months ago.

WOOD WILL SEAL STONE OF SEARS BUILDING TODAY

Gen. Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., will seal the cornerstone of the company's new south side store at 10 o'clock today. The store, of ultra modern design, is to open in November at 63d and Halsted streets. The absence of windows is one of the many departures.

Officials of the company have conducted a search for the oldest resident of the Englewood district, who is to be the guest of honor at today's ceremony. Another guest will be Louis Becker, founder of the store which occupied the site for many years and which was razed to make way for the new structure.

Publications, store records and other souvenirs of present day life will be placed in the cornerstone.

AMAZING New METHOD Produces thick, healthy hair

LATEST SCIENTIFIC METHOD

This new system marks greatest progress of the Century in the science of hair growing

Treatments for the hair and scalp are now given on an inclined table where one lies with the scalp encased in a soft rubber pad. With the head slightly lower than the feet, a moderate surge of blood is brought into the scalp. Under these advantageous conditions the Gro-Flex machine carries on a deep massaging action and a circulation of the blood in the scalp is obtained far better and more productive of hair growth than any other method.

HAIR LIFE COMES FROM WITHIN

Hair gets its nourishment from the blood vessels and oil glands of the scalp. To function properly the blood vessels and sebaceous glands must be kept active. Manipulating the scalp regularly will restore healthy conditions, and attractive hair will be the reward.

Gro-Flex System is based on a proven scientific principle. Scalp disorders quickly vanish and new hair appears. No hair oils, tonics or other nostrums foistered on you.

DOWN WHERE THEY GROW TOBACCO, in most places Chesterfield is the largest-selling cigarette. People know that because Chesterfields are made of the right kind of tobacco it is a milder cigarette, a cigarette that tastes better.

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfields are of finer quality (and hence of better taste) than in any other cigarette at the price.

G. O. P. CALLS ON YOUNG VOTERS TO SAVE NATION

Col. Roosevelt Rips Into New Deal Taxes.

Young Republicans of the nation were called on by their elders yesterday to join in the overthrow of the Roosevelt New Deal. Henry P. Fletcher, national chairman, and Col. Theodore Roosevelt Jr. sounded the summons before a conference of young men and young women of the party who gathered at the Palmer house from nineteen states.

In their turn the young Republicans asked a measure of representation on the national committee of the party and it was predicted last night that this would be granted in some form.

Other developments of the second day's conclave of Republican leaders in Chicago were:

1. Col. Roosevelt, in his address to the young Republicans, delivered a bitter attack on New Deal policies, asserting that they were piling up debts for future generations and imperiling the nation's liberties.

2. Sixty-five Chicago business leaders met last night at a dinner given for National Chairman Fletcher at the Old Elm Golf club. The affair was private. One of its purposes, it was reported, was to discuss raising of funds for the fall campaign.

Ask Two Nonvoting Seats.

The young Republicans formulated their request for representation on the national committee at an executive session last evening. They first decided to form state organizations, headed by junior committeemen and committeewomen. Then they voted to ask that their national chairman and vice chairman—the latter to be a woman—be allowed to sit as members of the party's national committee without voting power.

Some favored requesting the right to vote in the national committee, but the majority, it was said, felt that if they won official recognition by the senior party leaders they would have accomplished as much as could be expected at first.

Accordingly their request was formally presented to a subcommittee of the national committee headed by John D. M. Hamilton of Kansas. George Olmstead of Des Moines, chairman of the young Republicans, said that a reply was expected this morning.

Earlier in the day it was decided that the junior organization would open its membership lists to all voters and prospective voters from 18 to 36 years of age. Olmstead estimated that 46 per cent of the national electorate was included in these age limits.

Roosevelt Lashes New Deal.

The speeches of Chairman Fletcher and Col. Roosevelt were delivered at a luncheon of the young Republicans, which was also attended by several national committeemen and other party leaders.

Col. Roosevelt declared that young voters should be particularly concerned with the spending policies of the New Deal because they will have to foot the bill.

"You," he told the young people, "will pay the piper for the follies of the Democratic administration, for you will pay the debts they incur. You and your children will struggle under the laws they make and you should have a say in the party council.

"These are grave times. Our liberties are being violated, cast aside, and disregarded. Free speech and a free press are threatened, as well as the very spirit of the bill of rights.

Urges Fight on Burocracy.

"What does this colossal governmental scheme of regimentation mean? It means the forfeiting of everything for which the country has stood. It means a country frozen in classes and directed by an oligarchy. Colossal burocracies have always been the same—rigid, tending to corruption, and by their very strides perpetuating themselves. We should fight against them as we have never fought before."

Declaring that the Republicans must have plans of their own "which do not violate American principles and traditions," Col. Roosevelt said that the greater part of the people "are concerned with being assured an existence—and security." Insurance and old age pensions should be carefully studied, he said, for "although they would cost money they would not violate the constitution."

Chairman Fletcher was brief. "You can bring the country back to a sound democracy," he said. "I've lived in countries which enjoyed dictatorships and I've seen opposition parties put out of business and the press muzzled."

Turning to the financial side of the campaign, the chairman promised that it would be a frugal one. "Not one cent will be spent until we get it," he said. "When I was elected national chairman there was a $206,000 deficit, but enough money was pledged to wipe it out.

"How much has come in?" he asked, turning to George F. Getz, the national treasurer.

"About $50,000," replied Mr. Getz.

"So you see," continued Mr. Fletcher, "that I've got a $150,000 deficit to work with. When I went to Washington to take over the headquarters I found that there was $5.35 in the bank and that we owed five months' rent."

Dinner for Chairman Fletcher.

Plans to meet part of the deficit were reported to have been a topic of discussion at last evening's dinner for Chairman Fletcher at the Old Elm club. Earlier it had been rumored that efforts would be made to raise $100,000 from the sixty-five Chicago men who attended, but Silas Strawn, host at the affair, declined to confirm this. Treasurer Getz, one of the guests, said after the dinner that some individual contributions had been made to the party's war chest, but that there had been no organized drive for funds.

Some of those invited to the dinner were Sewell L. Avery, Lester Armour, Mark W. Cresap, A. B. Dick Jr., Rush C. Butler, Percy B. Eckhart, Charles H. Schweppe, John V. Farwell, Orville Taylor, Arch W. Shaw, Thomas E. Wilson, Seymour Wheeler, Howard Fenton, Donald Douglas, Fred W. Sargent, Frank Knox, Noble B. Judah, Kent Clow, Bertram Cahn, James L. Donnelley, Charles S. Dewey, George A. Ranney, Weymouth Kirkland, Sterling Morton, and Gustavus Swift.

Democrats to Meet Farley.

Cook county Democrats met in the Morrison hotel yesterday and made plans to send a big delegation to Springfield for the appearance there on Saturday of Postmaster General James A. Farley, patronage dispenser for his party.

Mayor Kelly, County Chairman Nash, and State's Attorney Courtney will lead the Chicago delegation. Ward committeemen, legislators, county officials, and ward and precinct workers will be in the party.

The delegation will travel on two special trains leaving early Saturday. Representatives of wards 1 to 20 and 41 to 50, together with south end country town Democrats, will travel via the Illinois Central. Groups from the remaining wards and from west and northwest country towns will go on the Alton railroad.

The trains will leave the Roosevelt road and Union stations at 9 a. m. daylight saving time. The delegation will have its headquarters in the St. Nicholas hotel at Springfield.

Chairman Farley will speak in the state fair grounds. Once the formal meeting is over, State Chairman Bruce A. Campbell of Belleville will hold a meeting of his committee and all county chairmen Saturday night to plan the fall campaign.

Glasses as Disguise

Attempting a disguise with smoked glasses, and declining to tell anything about her plans or destination, Janet Gaynor, wistful star of the films, arrived in Chicago yesterday on the Santa Fe Chief. She remained in her car until the train was about to be backed out the station, then entered a taxicab which was brought directly to the steps of the Pullman. It is understood that she is to leave today for Montreal.

PHONE COMPANY FACES MOVE TO CUT HIGH RATES

State Hearing Ordered by Commission.

The Illinois Bell Telephone company was cited yesterday by the Illinois commerce commission to show cause why its telephone charges in Chicago and the rest of the state territory it serves should not be reduced. The citation directed the company to appear before the commission on July 26.

Involved are the rates being paid by 1,148,606 subscribers, of which 805,117 are in Chicago. Some of the municipalities affected are Springfield, Elgin, Waukegan, Aurora, Joliet, Danville, Alton, Kankakee, Peoria, Rockford, Rock Island, Moline, Decatur, Quincy, and all suburbs of Chicago.

The action of the commission against one of the largest corporations in the country is an aftermath of the recent United States Supreme court decision which reversed a federal district court ruling, criticized as excessive the depreciation accruals by the Illinois Bell Telephone and directed the company to rebate some $18,000,000 to several hundred thousand coin box subscribers.

Several Angles Untouched.

The Supreme court decision sustained a commerce commission rate reduction order of 1923 on the coin box services. It did not, however, rule on a number of other important aspects of the telephone case since the depreciation matter was deemed sufficient for a reversal.

One of these items, for example, was the payments of allegedly excessive prices and fees to the American Telephone and Telegraph and the Western Electric companies. The A. T. and T. company, as it is known, controls both the Western Electric and the Bell Telephone companies.

Consequently, Chairman Benjamin F. Lindheimer of the commerce commission instituted a study of the court ruling and an investigation of the Illinois Bell Telephone company structure to determine if other than coin box services were not entitled to rate reductions.

As a result of reports by the regulatory body's lawyers, Ervin Rooks and Harry R. Booth, and of Dr. William A. Dittmer, public utility expert for the commission, the citation order was issued.

Indications were that an extremely wide scope of inquiry is contemplated by the regulatory body. Among other things, it was hinted, it intends to delve into the matter of tol charges, a prolific source of complaints from subscribers.

Investigate Toll Charges.

It is difficult, it was stated, for a resident of Flossmoor to understand why he must pay toll charges of ten to twenty cents to another suburb four miles away, when a resident within one extremity of Chicago pays only a nickel to phone thirty miles to a resident at another extremity within the city.

Another frequent complaint, for example, is a resident with a two party service in Austin, who is allowed fifty-five calls within the charge of $2.75 a month. Yet if the subscriber telephones Oak Park, just across the city line, he is billed 10 cents extra on his monthly statement regardless of whether he has used up his quota of fifty-five calls.

Subscribers maintain the Oak Park call should be checked off as two nickel calls against the quota, since the same company serves both Chicago and Oak Park.

SURFACE AND "L" LINES BALK AT PAYING FOR QUIZ

Protest State's Bill in Transfer Case.

Attorneys for the Chicago surface and elevated transit systems at a hearing before the Illinois commerce commission yesterday filed objections to being billed for expenses incurred by the commission in connection with the universal transfer and fare reduction cases, which were begun at the instance of Major Kelly last April.

This is the first time any public utility has contested this class of bills. They have been paid without formal objection of a number of companies including the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company and the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois.

The right of the commission to bill for expenses incurred in the investigation of rate cases was authorized in an amendment to the public utilities act by the Illinois legislature after Gov. Horner took office.

Bills Comparatively Small.

Only a nominal amount is involved in the transit cases, the total being $1,780 against the surface lines and $347 against the Rapid Transit company.

In their petitions Attorneys Harry P. Weber and James M. Sheean for the street car company and Attorney Cyrus H. Adams for the elevated set forth that the commission had no right to hire outside help in the investigation.

They asserted all records and data desired were available for examination by the commission's regular staf.

Attack Body's Authority.

In addition the lawyers attacked the right of the commission to entertain the petitions of the city for the universal transfer between the surface and elevated systems. In the petition of the Rapid Transit lines Attorney Adams stated it was futile for the commerce commission to carry on any investigation for reduced fares inasmuch as the company was scarcely making operating expenses.

Th objections of the transportation companies to the bills will be considered in a hearing set for July 16.

ICKES JUSTIFIES AD ORDER WITH A. B. FALL LETTER

But Admits It's Really Old Democrat Custom.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.]—New Dealer Harold Ickes reached back thirteen years today and brought forth a dusty precedent for his recent order that only good Democratic newspapers are to get government advertising of public land.

It was a Republican precedent, tattered and torn. It dated from the days of Albert B. Fall, that paragon of political integrity, whose term as secretary of interior under Harding led him finally to a prison cell. But Mr. Ickes needed a precedent, and Mr. Ickes, aparently, is not one to quibble over good ones and bad ones.

Waves Precedent in Triumph.

It did seem odd, at best, to find New Dealer Ickes embracing with such fervor a policy resurrected from the past of laissez faire Republicanism, and particularly from the past of Mr. Fall. But embrace it he did, and gratefully. Triumphantly he waved his precedent before newspaper reporters, whose dispatches he regards as critical. If the Republicans could do it, he asked, why shouldn't I?

Mr. Ickes had to admit, however, that the policy of restricting government ads to those papers in sympathy with the party in power, was really an old Democratic custom. It dated, he revealed, from the Wilson administration, when Franklin K. Lane, then secretary of interior, issued an order similar to that just sent out by Mr. Ickes. Mr. Fall perpetuated the idea with instructions that the Lane order be switched around after the Republicans got into power, and Mr. Ickes just reswitched them again so as to take care of good Democratic papers.

Piqued at Publicity.

Secretary Ickes seemed piqued today at the publicity given his advertising order. Last night he declined to comment. But armed with his precedent today, he was very assertive, indeed. He was eloquently indignant. He was ironic. He rose from his chair, puffed his cigaret rapidly, laughed scornfully at all who criticized.

"I bet the new chairman of the Republican national committee, that Harding Progressive, Mr. Fletcher, will make the welkin ring about this," he said, pausing to hear his listeners laugh. "I could even write a speech for him.

"Freedom of the press! Regimenting the newspapers! Col. Robert R. McCormick!" [Mr. Ickes was writing the speech for the benefit of his aids and the assembled reporters.] "And I bet Col. Frank Knox will froth at the mouth, too."

Plans to Extend Order.

A reporter inquired:

"Is there any other type of advertising to which this order or a similar order will apply?"

"I don't know if we do any other advertising," was the secretary's oh-so-forthright reply. "If we do, I'll extend the order, if that's what you're trying to find out.

"I am merely continuing the policy established by my predecessors," he went on, dragging out his precedent. "I wish the newspapers would search their files and refer me by date to the objections they made when Secretary Fall isued a similar order."

Mr. Ickes then read the letter written by Secretary Fall back in 1921, which letter, incidentally, referred to a letter written by Secretary Lane back in 1913.

WOMAN FLYER CRASHES

CRASH WRECKS PLANE, BUT GIRL PILOT ESCAPES

Losing control of her airplane 150 feet above the ground, Miss Dorothy Ring, 22 years old, 903 Lawrence avenue, came down in a pancake landing yesterday in an open field at 57th street and New England avenue. She was uninjured but the machine—an open Curtis fledgling biplane—was wrecked. Miss Ring said that she has a student flying permit and was trying to do enough solo flying to obtain a pilot's license. She has been practicing stalls and spins when the plane fell. The plane was owned by Pierce O'Carroll, 6332 South Kilpatrick avenue, an instructor for the Monarch Air service.

PORK PRICES UP, DEMAND SLUMPS UNDER AAA TAX

Butchers Tell of Evils in Federal Impost.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Pork prices are from 25 to 50 per cent higher than a year ago and the consumption of pork products is falling off. This condition is partly due to the federal processing tax levied on hogs under the Agricultural Adjustment administration corn-hog program, according to meat retailers interviewed in a two day survey made in the Chicago area.

Since March 1 the processing tax on hogs has been $2.25 a hundred pounds. Many of the retail butchers believe this burden on the consuming public is not helping the farmer and is injuring the meat business.

Sales Falling Off.

Retailers in various sections of the city and suburbs, including Highland Park, Wilmette, Evanston, Oak Park, and Berwyn, all report that pork sales have dropped off, in some cases as much as 30 per cent since the processing tax was imposed. While some of the decrease is seasonal, they charge much of it to the processing tax.

Butchers say that many consumers are so much opposed to a food tax in any form that they are turning away from pork and buying untaxed beef, veal and lamb instead, although prices of these meats are higher.

The processing tax on hogs, has been gradually increased from 50 cents a hundredweight at the begining of the program last November to $2.25. This tax has been reflected in increased retail prices of various fresh and cured cuts of pork since the early part of the year.

The revenue from the pork tax is sent to Washington, where it has accumulated until it now totals more than $59,000,000. The federal government is using this money to pay bonuses to farmers in return for their reduction of their corn and hog production.

All Meat Prices Up.

Federal records show that about 3 per cent fewer hogs were butchered in the first five months of this year compared with the same period a year ago. Market observers point out that the processing tax and the reduced supply of hogs is only one factor contributing to the increase in pork prices. An increase in the factory pay rolls has helped to put up prices. All meat prices are higher than they were a year ago.

Official figures show that retail pork prices were from one to six cents a pound higher during the first six months of this year than they were the first half of 1933.

With 26 per cent more cattle being slaughtered under federal inspection, beef prices are up from 1 to 4 cents a pound and lambs with 10 per cent reduction in supply are retailing at from 2 to 10 cents a pound higher than last year.

These figures are for the first five months of the year. Retail prices of pork, beef and lamb are even higher today, as indicated by figures supplied by butchers.

Butchers Tell Views.

Butchers interviewed generally believe that the processing tax is the biggest factor in causing higher pork prices.

Al Richter, manager of a chain of seven Chicago butcher shops, says: "The processing tax has added between five and six cents a pound to the retail price of pork. Our gross receipts for meats are about the same, but the amount of pork tonnage sold in our shops is 25 to 30 per cent less than a year ago.

"Many customers who bought pork before are now buying beef, veal, and lamb. Others that once called for pork chops and sliced ham are buying cheaper cuts of pork. If pork consumption continues to decline farmers will not benefit by the tax because they will not be able to sell their hogs at a higher price."

Sol Westerfield, owner of a West Madison street establishment which retails meats to hotels, restaurants and clubs as well as to individuals, says that a year ago his concern was selling 10,000 pounds of pork a week while now the sales have fallen to 5,000 pounds a week.

"The processing tax of $2.25 a hundred raises the retail price of pork twenty-three to twenty-five per cent," said Mr. Westerfeld, who is a former president of the Chicago Retail Grocers and Merchants' association and an officer of the National Retail Grocers' association. "There seems to be a subconscious protest against a tax on food of any kind. Cattle and lambs have increased in price over last year, but our butchers are selling more beef and lamb."

Little Profit in Pork.

Charles Reuter, head of the Mutual Markets, operating 14 butcher shops in the Hyde Park, South Shore, and Woodlawn districts, says his sales of pork have dropped 35 to 40 per cent recently. Beef, veal, and lamb sales have increased in all of the shops. He finds it necessary to add about 5 cents a pound to the price of pork and retails it at little or no profit. It is his opinion that the tax does not help farmers, retailers, or consumers.

John Gruenes of the Gruenes Brothers' shop on Lincoln avenue says: "The price of pork is from 5 to 10 cents a pound above last year. Our customers are now asking for the cheaper cuts. The sale of pork is almost profitless."

Carl Emilson, who operates butcher shops in Evanston and Wilmette, says that his increase in sales of lamb and beef amount to as much as 1,000 pounds a week, while he has had no increase in the sale of pork.

In the Smithfield shop in Oak Park the butchers have noticed a substantial decrease in the sale of pork within the last few weeks.

John Kriza, a butcher on Roosevelt road in Berwyn, has had a 20 per cent decrease in the sale of pork and credits half of it to the increase in price due to the processing tax on hogs.

Frank Kaulig, who operates a butcher shop in an Atlantic and Pacific company store on West Madison street, says his sales on pork have fallen off, while he has had an increase in the sale of both beef and lamb.

Farmers Are Wondering.

Farmers are now wondering how they will come out in dollars and cents under their AAA corn and hog reduction agreements. Hogs are now quoted at about $5 a hundredweight. This is what a farmer gets from the packer for his hogs, whether he signed the reduction agreement or not. The packer pays the $2.25 processing tax, making the cost to him $7.25 a hundredweight. From the $2.25 tax the government creates a fund from which it will pay a bonus of $5 a head on all hogs sold by farmers who signed and performed the reduction contract.

RARE OLD SILVER IS STOLEN AT DINNER ON LEITER ESTATE

Beverly, Mass., July 10.—[Special.]—While about 50 guests danced or played bridge a short distance away a thief stole more than a dozen pieces of silverware early this morning. The theft occurred during a fashionable dinner party at the estate of Mrs. Juliette Leiter, widow of Joseph G. Leiter, Chicago millionaire.

The silverware belonged to Mrs. Anna Allan, wealthy widow of Bryce J. Allan of Boston, and was highly prized by the Allan family for sentimental reasons. It had been borrowed for the party by Mrs. Leiter.

The thief removed the articles from the Leiter limousine, which had been parked outside the house preparatory to returning the silverware to Mrs. Allan. The stolen pieces included eight salt spoons, several pepper shakers, and a number of glass lined salt shakers.

COL. D. I. SULTAN IS TRANSFERRED FROM POST HERE

Announcement was made by the war department yesterday that Lieut. Col. Daniel I. Sultan, army engineer for the first Illinois district, is to be transferred to the board of engineers for rivers and harbors at Washington on July 24. He will be succeeded in Chicago by Maj. Donald H. Connolly.

Both engineers have been on detached service with the Civil Works administration, Col. Sultan having been in charge of all Cook county projects and Maj. Connolly of those in Los Angeles county.

The transfer of Col. Sultan is a promotion, although he had served with the board of engineers, as well as with the general staf, before coming to Chicago on Jan. 1, 1932. His principal duty here was the completion of the Lockport-Utica link in the Illinois waterway, which was opened a year ago.

Col. Sultan, before coming to Chicago, commanded the United States army troops in Nicaragua. Maj. Connolly has been an instructor in the command and general staf school at Fort Leavenworth. He served as district engineer at Memphis from 1923 to 1928.

DEPOSITORS HIT FEE OF $152,000 FOR ATTORNEYS

Bank of Commerce Charge Argued by Thompson.

Representing the depositors of the closed Chicago Bank of Commerce, Attorney Floyd Thompson appeared before Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher yesterday and complained that the attorneys for the receiver were demanding fees equal to the total of what six Circuit court judges would draw in salaries in twenty-two months.

His plea was for the judge to disallow the bill of $152,000 which had been submitted by the law firm of Schuyler, Weinfeld & Hennessy for 6,980 hours of work.

"These fees in connection with the liquidation of this bank, and the Union State bank and the Old Dearborn State bank, which it absorbed, are three times what they ought to be," Attorney Thompson charged. "The cost of this $6,000,000 liquidation is greater by far than the cost of the liquidation of the Foreman State bank.

"And, in addition, eight out of the ten solicitors which this firm put to work on the case were boys who have been out of school less than four years. Their charge for this work is equal to full time pay of six Circuit court judges for twenty-two months."

Attorney Thompson also charged that there was a duplication of fees involving the three banks. He declared that all the fees should come under one heading, because "all in effect are claimed for services against the Chicago Bank of Commerce."

After hearing the arguments Judge Fisher continued the case until July 20, on which date he ordered the attorneys for the receiver to answer.

URGES CHURCHES PAY $2,500,000 YEARLY TO NEW YORK'S RELIEF

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Dr. Charles Stelzle, former city relief director in Mayor John Purroy Mitchel's administration and founder of the Labor temple, suggested today the city's churches appropriate $2,500,000 a year toward relief, representing a cost per church member of two cents a week.

Dr. Stelzle made his proposal before the joint committee of the board of estimate and the board of aldermen which is considering ways of financing the $17,750,000 monthly relief cost.

He pointed out church property used strictly for religious purposes would pay the city $10,000,000 yearly if not tax exempt.

With a combined church membership of 2,500,000 in this city, he said it should not be hard to raise the $2,500,000.

U. S. LAUNCHES FEMININE CCC; PLANS 31 CAMPS

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—The federal government was shown today to be investing a sizable pile of dollars in a sort of feminine CCC plan, designed to fit women for jobs by a brief but intensive reeducation course.

Thirty-one camps and schools for unemployed, unattached women, each an experiment painstakingly adjusted to its community, will start functioning within the next four weeks. Each individual camp or school will receive on the average about $5,000, which will exhaust available funds. Enrollment will total about 1,700.

The camps are partially an outgrowth of an insistent interest on the part of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. Directed by Miss Hilda Smith of the Emergency Relief administration, the camps will stress a field in which she is expert, workers' education, and which she defines as "consideration of practical, economic problems wage earners will meet in their day to day working life."

HOW BIG A LUBRICATING JOB CAN A QUART OF OIL DO?

Five Quarts of New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil lubricated a motor nearly five thousand miles in a test against five nationally known, widely advertised motor oils . . . .

IF YOU are one of the many motorists who believe that a quart of any brand of quality oil is like any other quart, read this story of the "destruction" test made at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway under the strict supervision of the Contest Board, American Automobile Association.

Six strictly stock cars of the medium priced class, and six different brands of oil of the same S.A.E. grade were used in the AAA test to prove the motor protection and consumption of each oil. Simultaneously the cars were driven for an average of 500 miles a day at 50 miles an hour until the motors refused to operate. On the 4th day, three cars were out of the test, Oil No. 4 had gone 1,713.2 miles; Oil No. 6 had completed 1,764.4 miles and Oil No. 5 had finished 1,815.9 miles when their motors failed. On the 5th day, Oil No. 1, after going 2,266.8 miles, cracked up its motor and came to a screaming stop.

This left two oils competing. In defiance they ran the 6th, 7th, and 8th days, when Oil No. 3, after totaling 3,318.8 miles, wrecked its motor and crept to a stop. Oil No. 2 — New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil—carried on the rest of that day, through the 9th, and partially through the 10th day, piling up a total of 4,729 miles. More than 3,000 miles farther than the first oil to go out, and more than 1,400 miles farther than the last oil to fail.

New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil has much greater vitality, or film strength, to withstand great pressures and increased heat of modern automobile motors. It has great resistance to effects of dilution and the minimum of carbon and sludge. It has greater oily penetration called the "Hidden Quart," protecting your cold motor in starting, when most of the wear occurs. This oil is covered by recent United States patents and only Conoco can make it.

It was these superior qualities that carried New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil to a record of 4,729 miles on five quarts.

This was one of the most dramatic, convincing and unbiased tests ever made to definitely show motorists the differences in motor oils. Here is a record of motor protection and low consumption that conclusively proves how big a lubricating job a quart of oil can do. Drive to a Red Triangle Station, fill and know that you have the highest lubricating value in either miles or dollars that your money can buy.

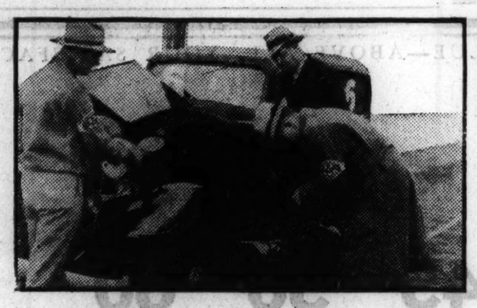
CONTEST BOARD AAA CERTIFIED TEST

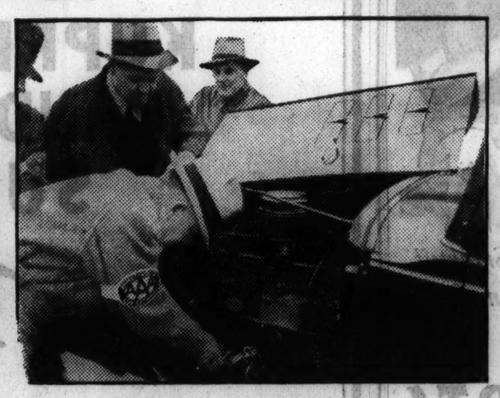
AAA SANCTION NO. 3001



Five quarts of each brand of oil of the same S. A. E. grade from measures checked by the Bureau of Weights and Measures, State of Indiana, were carefully put in the cars by AAA officials.

Here are the representatives of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association who supervised every detail of the test and attested to the records made.

Mileage and all final details were checked by these two AAA officials. Electrical timing instruments were used.



The official sealing of crankcases after fill of five quarts was put in. No addition of oil was permitted in this "destruction" test.

TO NEW CAR OWNERS

Some car manufacturers are using new types of bearings which will stand greater pressures and temperatures, resulting from increased power and speed. New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil has been exhaustively tested on these new bearings. The results indicate that it gives them greater protection against damage than straight mineral oils.

Protect your new car by using the motor oil you can be sure of.

ERECT CANOPIES TO KEEP CROWDS DRY AT THE FAIR

Cover Bus Stations and Sidewalks.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Mark Twain once remarked that every one talked about the weather but no one ever did anything about it. The Fair, in addition to the other startling things it is doing, has inaugurated a program to refute that statement and issues a challenge to the weather man.

Rain or threatened rain now will mean little or nothing to prospective visitors. In fact, to the serious sightseer, a cloudy day with rain indicated now becomes the best time to see the Fair.

The plan, as worked out by Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager, is complicated and involves the cooperation of transportation companies and large exhibitors. As it goes into effect this morning the plan provides covered transportation and protected walks from any part of town to the Fair and around the Fair to any location desired.

12th Street Gate First.

The 12th street gate, which draws the heaviest traffic, will get first attention, but within a week all other entrances will provide similar service. At the present time buses and taxicabs unload several hundred feet from the gates, but on rainy days they will be driven under a canopy at the gate, and from there visitors may pass to an intramural bus station, never stepping from under cover.

The intramural buses will unload at points on the grounds where canopies will protect the visitor to the entrances of buildings.

When rain begins falling, additional buses will operate on Leif Ericson drive. They will run slowly on both sides of the drive, will discharge visitors at any spot desired. The same system is planned for the Island.

Protect Outgoing Crowds.

The system will work in reverse for persons leaving the Fair grounds. Canopies will protect the visitor until a city bus is entered to take him to his home or to other transportation depots. During some evening hours buses may be entered within the grounds.

A book of instructions is being prepared for guides and bus drivers so they may tell visitors how to see the Fair and stay out of the rain.

"We have been told," Maj. Lohr said, "that thousands of people stay away from the Fair for fear of getting soaked. To remove this fear and to prevent inconvenience to guests within the grounds, the Fair has been in conference with transportation agencies for the past week.

"All of us feel that we have evolved a program doing away with practically all of the inconvenience of a rainy day."

The plan was tried in part yesterday when some rain fell during the morning hours. Surprised visitors were loud in praise of the transportation change and despite the unpromising weather rolled up an encouraging attendance. At midnight the official reading was 64,242.

FROM BURMA TO THE FAIR

CENTURY OF PROGRESS NOTES

Two citizens of the Midget Village, H. B. Williams and Grace Guadagno, will dare superstition Friday and will be married on the village stage despite the fact the day is July 13. Muncipal Judge Alfred O. Erickson will tie the knot.

It is expected that travel to the World's Fair from Milwaukee and suburbs will be greatly increased when the new schedule is put in operation on the Milwaukee road and on the North Western road next Sunday. The special daily trains will make the 85 mile trip in 90 minutes.

Sarah Haley Thomas, 19 years old, of Little Rock, Ark., recently crowned "Miss Arkansas," would have passed through the Exposition grounds Monday unheralded, except that a guide who heard it mentioned that she was a beauty queen. She was awarded her trip to the World's Fair for winning first place in a bathing beauty contest sponsored by a radio station in Little Rock.

Gen. Italo Balbo, who commanded the flight of 24 sea planes to Chicago a year ago, will address Fair crowds Sunday, speaking from Rome by radio. Gen. Balbo's address will be in connection with the unveiling of a marble shaft, presented to Chicago by Premier Mussolini as a lasting memorial of the good will flight of the Italian air men.

More outdoor entertainment will be introduced in the Irish Village tonight when four boxing bouts will be staged on the green in the outdoor theater under the auspices of the Catholic Youth Organization. According to the present plans the C. Y. O. bouts will be made a regular feature of the village entertainment.

Mary Pickford will be the guest of the World's Fair Saturday. She will arrive at the 14th street gate at 11:30 a. m. escorted by the Black Horse troop, after which she will be the guest of honor at a luncheon in the trustees' lounge.

The bathing beach of the Holland Dutch Village at the Fair opened yesterday. Admission to the village entitles visitors to swimming and locker facilities. This is the only beach on the grounds of A Century of Progress.

MISSING DANCER FOUND; BLAMES LOSS OF MEMORY

Police who questioned Princess Ahl, a dancer in the Hawaiian village at the World's Fair who had been missing for four days, said last night that she probably had been absent of her own volition. The dancer was found early yesterday at Clark and Randolph streets in a dazed condition. She was treated at the county hospital, where she said she could remember nothing since last Thursday night, but admitted that she "might have had something to drink." Joseph Rogers, manager of the Hawaiian Village, said the dancer would lose her job if he discovered that her loss of memory story was not true.

MRS. ROOSEVELT SEES ART SHOW; DODGES CROWDS

Two Pictures Unveiled by First Lady.

Doing her best to avoid crowds, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt viewed A Century of Progress art exhibit yesterday, bought two etchings in Grant park, accepted a bouquet of roses, and drank tea on Lake Shore drive.

She was unable to make a leisurely visit to the Fair as a private citizen, as she had hoped, and the publicity that kept her pretty closely chained to her room at the Blackstone hotel also was instrumental in disappointing a lot of housewives who wanted to know what the President has for dinner.

These housewives had gathered at the cooking school in the Electrical building at the World's Fair in the hope that Mrs. Roosevelt would appear and tell about the favorite White House menus.

Expects to Leave Today.

Mrs. Roosevelt declined to tell her plans, but it was understood that she would spend the night in Chicago and leave today for some western destination.

Her day started officially about 11 a. m. yesterday, when she left the hotel by a side entrance in a vain attempt to avoid the crowds of eager citizens who wanted to trail her about the city.

At the Art institute she was greeted by Chauncey McCormick, Rene Weiller, French consul, and several others, who conducted her on a tour of the building. Mrs. Roosevelt expressed considerable interest in the works of American artists, particularly those of George Bellows.

She also unveiled two pictures, the "Song of the Lark," by Jules Breton, and "Pulaski in the Battle at Savannah," by Stanislaus Batowski. In the ceremonies attendant on unveiling the latter Mrs. Emily Napieralski, president of the Polish Women's alliance, presented the first lady with a huge bouquet.

After spending a hurried two hours at the institute Mrs. Roosevelt visited the open air exhibit conducted by Chicago artists in Grant park. There she made Morris Henry Hobbs happy by paying him $3.50 for a landscape etching and purchased an etching of the Black Forest from the artist, Walter E. Bohl, for $1.

She had lunch at the hotel after that, and later in the afternoon had tea with Mrs. William A. Gilchrist at her apartment, 1430 Lake Shore drive.

In the evening she made another futile attempt to escape her followers when she slipped quietly out of the hotel and motored to 5811 Dorchester avenue, the home of Charles Breasted. There she had dinner, in company with the Charles Breasteds and Dr. and Mrs. James Henry Breasted.

BUCK WILL FEED STARVING SNAKE BY FORCE TODAY

Forcible feeding of a 24-foot python, which has been on a hunger strike four months, will be an unusual spectacle for Fair visitors today. The feeding may be watched, but is not intended as a show. It is imperative to keep the contrary reptile from starving to death.

The big male snake was captured last July by Frank Buck while filming Wild Cargo in the Malay jungle. For two months before sailing the snake would not eat, nor would it accept food on the two months' journey to Chicago.

"The refusal to take food is not unusual with pythons," Buck said. "When they refuse to eat there is nothing to do but feed them by force."

The snake's jaws are unhinged and held to a meat grinder. The feeding is similar to stuffing a sausage casing. It will occur at 3 p. m. in Buck's exhibit on Northerly Island.

Streets of Paris Waiter Freed of Counterfeiting

Forrest Gentry, a waiter in the Streets of Paris at the World's Fair, was released yesterday after questioning by secret service operatives, who said there was no evidence to warant his prosecution as a counterfeiter. Gentry is said to have possessed some counterfeit bills when arrested by World's Fair police.

METHODISTS ACT FOR REVISION OF PUBLIC POLICIES

Leaders Here Drafting "New Conservatism."

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

A new form of Protestant conservatism is being drafted by national leaders of the Methodist Episcopal church in a three day meeting at the North Shore hotel, Evanston. The sessions are being attended by the World Service commission of that church and representatives of a specially appointed commission set up by the last general conference to study the organization of the church.

The new conservatism, which leaders admitted is gaining in expression throughout American Methodism, differs from the old theological controversies between fundamentalists and modernists in that it is principally confined to a changed view of church relationship with education, missions, and general philanthropy.

During debates lasting all afternoon, frequent references were made to the action taken recently at Oberlin, O., by the Congregational-Christian churches.

This action set up, as the principal agency of that denomination a council of social action.

At yesterday's meeting, Methodists unofficially refused to entertain a similar move, with growing unanimity of discussion toward a strengthening of ties between the church and its world wide missions forces. Bishop Titus Lowe of Portland, Ore., in a plea for moderate simplification of church machinery, asked that two main boards be continued and two other agencies constitute the minimum requirements.

Rev. F. G. H. Stevens of Santa Monica, Cal., opened the discussion which dealt with the subject matter covered in the new Congregational social action board.

He declared that "too many preachers give more time to the unemployed than to the unconverted", and too often "reports on the 'state of the church' sound more like the state of the world."

Bishop Paul B. Kern, Dallas, Tex., of the southern Methodist church opposed liberal tendencies demanding a new kind of church for moderns and declared today's problems are not fundamentally different from those of New Testament times.

LUTHERANS HERE STUDYING SOCIAL WELFARE ISSUES

Problems in social welfare are being discussed by 400 representatives of 75 charitable and social institutions in the synodical conference of the Lutheran church which opened yesterday at the Morrison hotel under the presidency of the Rev. Enno Duemling, Milwaukee.

The Rev. H. B. Kohlmeier of Beaver Dam, Wis., reported on the work of the Lutheran deaconesses. Sessions in the afternoon were devoted to training courses for social work, social pathology and social case work.

Among the speakers were Prof. F. W. Kroencke of Valparaiso university, Mrs. Emma V. A. Jensen and the Rev. A. E. Frey, both from St. Paul, Minn.

The convention will end tonight with a Lutheran program at A Century of Progress.

FIND OLD AUTOS BIGGEST CAUSE OF TRAFIC ROAR

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., July 10.—[Special.]—The typical rumble of motor trafic, which has aroused a wave of public resentment in Chicago and suburbs, was analyzed here today by the sound experts of the General Motors research laboratories. They told of much that has been done, but agreed that much remains to be done, to quiet the automobile so that its operation will not continue as a disturbing element of urban and suburban life.

From the facts compiled by the engineers it is apparent that the campaign of Chicago's police against unmuffled engine exhausts can arrest the more conspicuous offenders against the public's ears and nerves, but that much of the noise of trafic is beyond police control.

Old Cars Held Responsible.

Old cars with worn parts and antiquated designs are responsible for more than 90 per cent of the roars and groans that come from our streets and highways, according to J. O. Almen, chief of the dynamics section of General Motors research. The contribution to this nuisance by new vehicles is comparatively small, but it is highly significant because it indicates that the public will not be relieved from trafic noises even when all the old machines are junked unless the engineering of current production is improved.

As Mr. Almen was showing his interviewer a bisected muffler of recent design, the thunder of a truck came from the street eight floors below.

"Why doesn't that truck have one of these mufflers?" the reporter asked.

"It would add to the original cost of the machine," the engineer replied, "and with a cheaper muffler it would detract from the efficiency of the engine. The buyer of that truck didn't object to the sound of its exhaust. The chauffeur has no objections. It's the general public that is disturbed.

Question of Public Education.

"When public resentment at truck noises becomes strong enough the buyers will demand quietness and the manufacturers will give it to them. The same, to a lesser extent, applies to passenger cars."

In the newer cars running over typical city pavements at moderate speeds, the automotive engineer said that the impact of the tires on the pavement was causing more than 50 per cent of all the sounds of operation. This percentage is greater in thumping over the corrugations of brick pavement, and it is less as other sounds become louder with high speed driving.

On smooth pavement at high speed the noise of the modern passenger car, according to Mr. Almen, is caused by the fan, the tires, and the exhaust in the percntages 35, 35, and 30.

Exhaust Causes Much of Noise.

Returning to a consideration of city trafic, the exhaust of the new automobiles is causing 35 per cent of the noise from the machine, except when the motor is laboring for rapid acceleration. Then the exhausts are giving off half the total noise of operation.

The noises of old cars in city trafic are 50 per cent from the exhaust, 30 per cent from valves, tappets, and bearings; 5 per cent from gears, and 5 per cent from brakes.

12 DROWN AS HEAT SWEEPS FRANCE; CROPS DAMAGED

PARIS, July 10.—(AP)—All France was suffering today from a heat wave which threatens further damage to the wheat crop.

Twelve drownings were reported in the country, and several small forest fires were blazing.

The highest temperature today was 93 at Bourges. Paris, which recorded 90 yesterday, had a high of 86 today, with hotter weather predicted for tomorrow. Some rain fell in Brittany, but not enough to help the crops.

Auto and Train Failing, Kills Self with Shotgun

Peoria, Ill., July 10.—[Special.]—After an unsuccessful attempt to kill himself by driving his car in front of a speeding passenger train a few days ago, Charles A. Rothan, 58, a millwright, put both barrels of a shotgun into his mouth and pulled the triggers.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Bob Becker

Rain Brings Odd Jobs

July 10, 1934.

SHORTLY after daylight this morning there was a lot of cheering going on here at the farm. The reason for all of the smiles on the boys' faces and the "applause" was a wonderful rain, one of the slow, soaking kind that does the crops so much good. It started before daylight and continued through most of the morning. The official rain gauge now installed near the information house registered exactly .75 of an inch before the weather man turned off the shower.

As a result of this dandy shower, which drenched the fields, Clarence Thurow, manager of the farm, rearranged his schedule of work for everybody so that a typical rainy day program has been followed since breakfast. As Clarence said this afternoon: "We're not worrying about the fact that the rain upset our schedule in harvesting oats. We needed the rain and we needed the day that a shower brings to do odd jobs around the farm."

One of the first "odd job assignments" was an attack on thistles. Three of the boys put on their boots as soon as the shower ended and went into the fields to cut thistles. This was the second attack against this weed pest and today's work gave it a real licking.

While the thisles were being eradicated one of the boys took his tools and got busy fixing up a fence around a hog lot.

Louis and Clarence had a rainy day conference in the morning, going over their books for the last month, checking up on a number of business items and generally getting their bookkeeping job up to date. Bobby Thurow, Clarence's son, picked out his own assignment for the day and he certainly was a good picker. As soon as the shower had stopped he decided that it was just the right day for fishing.

The .75 of an inch of rain that came down on the farm today was another crimp in the activities of the chinch bugs. These pests do not like wet, cool weather. Under such conditions they do not move around.

So far the chinch bug fight here on the farm is more encouraging than it was last year at this time. To date the bugs haven't moved into the corn as they did early in July, 1933.

A 70 acre field is going to hear the roar of the tractor and feel the effect of the big binder tomorrow if the weather clears. Harvesting this oats crop started Monday and the boys had it about two-thirds done before the shower arrived. Louis Thurow and Charley Sleezer are on this harvesting job. Louis drives a four horse team to a binder and Charley operates a tractor driven binder.

I rode around with Charley for a while to see how the binder was able to get way down close to the ground in order to cut the oats. As a result of the drouth earlier in the season the oats naturally are pretty short. Therefore the machine had to be adjusted so as to get the blade mighty close to the earth.

WEATHER CHIEF SAYS WORST OF DROUTH IS OVER

The drouth which ravaged central western crops this summer appears to be the final, vicious dip of a 25 year dry cycle, Willis Ray Gregg, chief of the United States weather bureau in Washington, said in Chicago yesterday. Mr. Gregg said he was hopeful of increased annual precipitation, approaching a maximum in 10 or 15 years.

Mr. Gregg, who was named head of the weather bureau on Jan. 31, is here on a tour of inspection of the government stations. He will attend the dedication of the Frigidaire air conditioned house at the World's Fair today and will return to Washington tomorrow.

Basis of His Belief.

"While it is impossible accurately to forecast weather conditions for a long period in advance, a study of weather charts for the last 100 years indicates that eras of maximum and minimum rainfall occur in 25 year cycles," Mr. Gregg said. "The drouth this summer is at the bottom of such a dry cycle, according to the charts, and should be followed by increasing rainfall.

"The drouth proved extremely damaging to the central west because it came earlier than usual and because the normal rainfall in this region is so low that a subnormal period is almost always disastrous. In the south and east, for example, the low of a dry cycle can be approached without equal danger, because the normal rainfall is higher."

Long Distance Forecasting.

Long distance forecasting is not now attempted by the weather bureau and the stations were unable to predict the drouth, Mr. Gregg said.

"We knew last winter that the rainfall was subnormal and that if the condition continued it would seriously harm crops, but we could not know that it would continue," he explained. "Germany is now studying long distance forecasting methods, and the United States is aiding in the work, but at present it is merely something we would like to do."

The introduction of airplanes into weather bureau service is the greatest forward step recently taken by the bureau, Mr. Gregg believes.

"We added 20 airplane stations to our service July 1," he said. "We previously had four. I hope for 60 or 70 within a few years, with one aerial station in Chicago.

How the Planes Help.

"The planes aid accurate forecasting by recording temperature and humidity conditions at 15 to 20 thousand feet. They also measure the height of clouds, a useful work. Our sounding balloons, which sometimes ascend 20 miles, are valuable, but they are slow in operation."

International coöperation of weather bureaus is aiding forecasting, Mr. Gregg said. When Russia develops her chain of weather stations in Siberia it will be possible to forecast cold waves seven days in advance, three days sooner than is now possible, he declared.

NEW PINNACLE FOR SPOILS SET BY GOVERNMENT

Noncivil Service Jobs Gain 90,000.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.]—A new high in the spoils system of passing out federal jobs is being established in Washington under the New Deal administration.

Nearly 200,000 federal employés are drawing government money without benefit of the civil service commission. This represents a net gain of some 90,000 jobs over the 110,000 noncivil service places March 4, 1933.

President Andrew Jackson in 1829, with his "to the victor belong the spoils," is popularly supposed to represent American history's most notorious example of passing out the plums to the faithful. Yet historical authorities record that of some 612 presidential officers only 252 were removed and their places given to deserving Democrats and that only 600 of the then 8,000 deputy postmasterships changed hands.

"Political Clearance" Slogan.

"Political clearance" is one of the slogans of the day in Washington. Experience and fitness without "political clearance" do not get far in landing a job on the pay roll.

Take, for example, a typical notice in a branch of Secretary of the Interior Ickes' department.

"The secretary of the interior," it reads, "requires that each recommendation submitted to him for appointment to a noncivil service position in the bureau of reclamation be supported by clearance from some appropriate officials in the Democratic party organization. Such clearance need not necessarily be in the form of an indorsement or recommendation. A brief statement to the effect that there is no objection to the proposed appointment is all that is needed."

With few exceptions all the new alphabetical agencies, either in whole or in part, are outside the competitive civil service. The pay rolls of the NRA, the PWA, the FERA, the AAA, the TVA, the HLBB, the HOLC, the FCA, the CCC, the FDIC, the FSEC, the FACA, the ERRA, the FCC, and the RRC are loaded down with employés none of whom have had to meet the examination and merit standards of the civil service. The NRA, for example, has 4,066 persons on its pay roll, according to the latest figures available. All are exempted by law from civil service requirements. The Home Owners' Loan corporation employés are similarly outside the civil service—and there are nearly 16,000 of them.

Still Kick on Patronage.

Members of congress still complain that they are not getting patronage enough. Their mail is filled with requests for jobs. Their offices—particularly the offices of those from nearby states—have been so cluttered with job seekers that some have been forced to close their office doors except for a brief period.

Since March 4, 1933, when the present administration came into office, the total civilian employés of the government, exclusive of the legislative, judicial, and military branches, has increased from 566,986 to 659,086, or a gain of 92,100. For a time after President Roosevelt entered office the total fell and it appeared the Democratic economy pledge was coming true. In July, 1933, the total number of employés dropped to 554,981—the lowest level since 1924.

Then the growing number of recovery agencies began to make themselves felt and the number rose month by month to its present size.

Each month now the total civilian employé pay roll costs the treasury and the taxpayer more than 89 millions of dollars, approximately a quarter of which goes to those who have the "political clearance" necessary to pull down a pay roll plum.

COUNTY CENTER LIMITS LIQUOR; FACES PICKETING

White Plains, N. Y., July 10.—[Special.]—Members of the board of supervisors were warned today by Miss M. Louise Gross of Harrison, former repeal advocate, that hard liquors must be made available at the Westchester County Center dances or the place will be picketed. The Center now sells only wines and beer.

Miss Gross, who for years has been affiliated with women's repeal organizations, informed the board in telegrams to each of the forty-two members that the county voted 95,479 to 6,897 for repeal and that the young people demand the full benefits thereof.

A sample of women pickets at work was in evidence two weeks ago when the Center dances started. Two young girls in evening attire paraded up and down in front of the Center with placards decrying the absence of hard liquors. In another section of the entrance two elderly women wore sandwich signs taking an opposite stand and deploring the sale of light wines and beer.

HAYS AND NEW MORALS CENSOR VISIT STUDIOS

Hollywood, Cal., July 10.—(AP)—Will H. Hays, czar of filmdom, and his first assistant, Joseph I. Breen, the new dictator of screen morals, began a tour of the studios today to cast an appraising eye on several pictures—as many as a dozen, it was reported—which are considered in the doubtful class.

On past visits to Hollywood Hays has been called upon to look at an occasional picture which its maker felt demanded more than ordinary attention, but it is unusual for him to spend an entire day inspecting films.

Meanwhile it was announced that an emergency meeting of the major film producers would be held tomorrow or Thursday to discuss the critical moral issues to be faced in the making of future pictures. At the same time it was insisted that the question of Hays' resigning or being deposed from the presidency of the organization would not be brought up at this meeting.

RFC WILL START SCHOOL PROPERTY APPRAISAL TODAY

F. D. Gallagher, Chicago manager for the Reconstruction Finance corporation, announced yesterday that the RFC will begin today an appraisal of Chicago school properties not used for educational purposes to determine whether the school board will be granted a $25,447,240 loan to pay teachers their back salaries. The board plans to pledge the properties as security for the loan.

"We have instructed our appraisers to begin work at once," Mr. Gallagher said, after a conference with Richard S. Folsom, school board attorney. "I do not know how soon the report will be ready, but we will complete it as rapidly as possible."

The school board already has prepared a report on the properties, nearly two weeks being required to gather the data.

RFC officials in Washington have indicated that the Chicago loan request will be judged on the two reports and that additional information will not be required.

N. Y. CONSTRUCTS FLOATING DEPOTS FOR SEAPLANES

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Plans for the establishment by the city of floating seaplane terminals in the East river at Wall and 31st streets were disclosed today by F. William Zelcer, New York's commissioner of aviation.

At the same time it was announced that New York and Suburban Air Lines, Inc., which will operate these new facilities for the convenience of plane owners generally, is to inaugurate a de luxe aerial commuting service Monday between the financial district and the vicinity of Glen Cove and Oyster Bay.

The first of the floating terminals, which weigh 160 tons each and are being built with temporary emergency relief administration funds at cost of $35,000 each, is expected to be finished within ten days and will be anchored against the foot of Wall street. It will be made of steel, with wood decking.

Watchman Shoots Man He Says Was Taking Melon

Edward Hilnes, 34 years old, 5659 Addison street, was shot in the right leg by Athon Papas, a special watchman, at Addison street and North Central avenue early today. Papas, who lives at 122 North Le Claire avenue, told police that Hilnes and an unidentified companion were trying to carry away a watermelon from a fruit stand. He ordered the men to stop, but they started to run and he fired, the bullet striking Hilnes. The other man escaped. Hilnes, who owns the Club Cheese company, 3951 West Lake street, was taken to the Belmont hospital. Papas was released by police.

U. S. OPENS GATES TO IMPORT OF FOREIGN LIQUOR FOR 3D TIME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 10.—[Special.]—The federal alcohol control commission announced today, for the third time since repeal, that the unlimited import of foreign liquors would be allowed during the fifth import period, from Sept. 1 to Oct. 31.

Like preceding orders, the order issued today has the double purpose of combating bootlegging and driving down the price of domestic liquors. In both fields officials of the control commission believe that previous unlimited periods have been successful enough to warant a repetition.

It is recognized, however, that so long as the present tarif of $5 a gallon on hard liquor remains in force the competition of foreign beverages will affect only the higher priced domestic brands, while bootleg liquor still profits by the $2 a gallon internal revenue tax on all legal liquor, whether domestic or imported.

Today's order was signed by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and Acting Secretary of the Treasury L. W. Robert Jr. It affects only the 1,754 importers holding alcoholic beverage import licenses. These may import liquor from anywhere in any quantity provided it reaches an American port on or before Oct. 31.

HEAR EVIDENCE TODAY IN FILM EXTRA SCANDAL

Morality Groups Crowd Courtroom.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., July 10.—[Special.]—Seated in the defendants' chairs in Superior Judge Rey Schauer's court today, Gloria Marsh, brunet motion picture extra girl, and David Allen, middle aged head of Hollywood's largest film casting bureau, today fidgeted with the gaze of a dozen representatives of women's clubs, civic and reform organizations fastened upon their backs.

GLORIA MARSH.

Prosecution and defense rattled off arbitrary challenges against witnesses until evening adjournment left a temporary panel of four women and eight men to be further challenged tomorrow. The "observers" occupied nearly all the two front rows of the courtroom, waiting intently for testimony which threatens to break scandalously about the ears of moviedom.

Judge Demands Action.

Arthur Veitch, deputy district attorney, who is prosecuting the couple under a section of the California penal code involving an offense not publicly detailed, had exhausted six of the prosecution's 20 challenges, Judge Schauer interrupted at adjournment time to direct the opposing counsel to complete the jury selection and begin the testimony tomorrow. Veitch and Jerry Geisler, attorney for Allen, and Charles Ostrom, attorney for Miss Marsh, agreed to make that possible.

Veitch said the state's case is built upon four witnesses, the first of whom, Fred Kohl of the county engineer's office, will identify a floor plan of Miss June de Long's apartment tomorrow, and the last of whom will be Miss de Long, another movie extra, herself.

Miss de Long, who has been constantly guarded by a policewoman since the sensational episode first reached grand jury investigation last May, is relied on by the state to tell the same story she gave the Los Angeles grand jury last month, resulting in indictment of the Marsh-Allen couple on the orgy charges.

Woman to Tell What She Saw.

Other witnesses for the state were listed today as Mrs. Grace Whittier, manager of the building in which the de Long girl's apartment was located, and Pearly Owings, wife of Pat Harmon, movie actor, who is to testify to what she saw when she unexpectedly walked into the de Long girl's apartment while Allen, Miss Marsh and Miss de Long were there.

According to Attorneys Geisler and Ostrom, "Dave Allen and Miss Marsh were framed. We intend to prove that certain prosecution witnesses, for reasons of their own, made things appear to exist which did not exist," Geisler told the jurors in the defense outline.

According to prosecutor Veitch, Miss de Long's sworn story will charge that extra girls were compelled to submit to men, to persuade other girls, and to lend their apartments for meeting places, in order to obtain work as $7.50 and $10 a day extras in motion pictures.

Allen, who is married, has been head of Central Casting Bureau, which acts as clearing house for hiring extras for all the Hollywood larger studios, for ten years.

NEW ORLEANS BALKS AT MAE'S NEW FILM TITLE

New Orleans, La., July 10.—[Special.]—New Orleans doesn't want to help Mae West change the title of her new film, "It Ain't No Sin," to "The Belle of New Orleans." The Association of Commerce, the Federation of Women's clubs and the Kiwanis club today adopted resolutions against that idea.

"We don't want people thinking that film is a true portrayal of conditions in New Orleans." That's the sentiment of the resolutions. St. Louis recently objected to "The Saint Louis Woman" as a title for this film.

"Give me but the liberty of the press and I will give to the minister a venal house of peers. I will give him a corrupt and servile house of commons. I will give him the full swing of the patronage of office. I will give him the whole host of ministerial influence. I will give him all the power that place can confer upon him, to purchase up submission and overawe resistance; and yet, armed with the liberty of the press, I will go forth to meet him undismayed. I will attack the mighty fabric of that mightier engine. I will shake down from its height corruption and bury it beneath the ruins of the abuses it was meant to shelter."

—Richard Brinsley Sheridan.

FREE FARMERS VS. SERFS.

The farmers are calling the corn-hog contracts of the AAA "tanglefoot paper." The use of that phrase leaves no doubt of what they are thinking. They are becoming more acutely aware each day of the fact that the free farmer is better off than one who has sold his freedom.

When the drouth came the free farmer did not have to wait for some one's permission to use his idle land to produce the forage needed to carry his stock through the winter. Every competent farmer knows his land better than any burocrat in Washington can know it. Every farmer knows what kind of weather he is having and what kinds of insects he has to deal with. The farmer who has sold himself to the government must expect to suffer. He may get the wrong orders. He may get the right orders too late. Only by a miracle will he get the right orders at the right time.

In the matter of payment the free farmer is also better off. He does not have to wait for some swivel chair expert in Washington to check over his papers. He does not have to wait until just before election to get the money which the government contracted to pay him. He does not have to keep his corn under seal when his cattle are wasting away for lack of feed.

When all is said and done, the farmer's living comes from his land and his labor. The better farmer he is, the more certain it is that he will obtain more from his labor and his land if he is master of both than if he is master of neither.

The brain trusters assume that the farmer doesn't know his own farm as well as somebody in Washington knows it. That is nonsense, and because it is nonsense the schemes are bound to fail. The cost of the failure will fall upon the farmers who have signed away their freedom.

SMASHING CRITICS.

"Smash critics of the Nazi régime," says Herr Goebbels, militant champion of the new deal in Germany. Planned societies do not hold to the theory that criticism is helpful and have various ways of being rid of it. Where the mailed fist is inadvisable, and even where it is used, freedom of press and speech is suppressed. In our own peaceful revolution we have noted the disposition to smash critics, and when that clarion call was far from well received the urge to suppression has sought safer devices. But it has got well under way despite its failure in the press code, and it will go as far as it dares.

SIGNS AND PORTENTS.

The Smithsonian institution is preparing a dictionary of the signs used by the Indians of other days in communicating with those whose languages were unknown. The revival of interest in the subject in Washington these days is understandable. A great many citizens have been reduced to speechlessness by what has been going on and the planned society is naturally concerned to provide these unfortunates with a means of expression.

The use of signs offers many advantages. Contracts made in sign language, as many an Indian tribe learned, were capable of considerable modification as time and the frontier pressed forward. In the absence of motion pictures of a sign-language treaty, each party was in a position to do considerable free-hand recollecting. It was very useful from time to time and would be useful now. It would save a lot of litigation about the gold clause, for example. When the constitution has been reduced to sign language the task of the brain trust will be greatly simplified.

It is to be hoped that the compilers of the sign-language lexicon will not fail to explain the origins of the symbols. White man, for example, is indicated by running the thumb nail across the forehead at the hair line. This symbol derives from the fact that once upon a time white men wore hats and Indians did not; the line made by the thumb was to suggest the hat and hence the white man underneath it. Without explanations of this sort the students of sign language in future might be led astray. They might jump to the conclusion that the thumb line was intended to suggest the beads of cold sweat which latterly have become characteristic ornaments of the white man's brow; or the line might even be interpreted as the Plimsoll mark of the paleface, indicating the extent to which he was habitually submerged.

FIGHTING DEATH ON THE HIGHWAYS.

The recent increase of motor accidents is having commendably prompt attention from the authorities and will result in practical measures of relief. Of these the most important is much stricter enforcement of existing regulations. The data collected by Capt. Killeen and the criminal statistics bureau indicate that one of the weakest spots is the Municipal court judiciary, whose attitude toward offending motorists is so lenient as to encourage rather than restrain reckless driving. There has been a serious decrease of punishment since last year, and this is the main factor, unquestionably, in the increase of casualties.

To let off a motorist who has broken the regulations is no doubt an easy method of paying political debts or making friends for the next election. It will continue to be profitable until public opinion is fully awake to the outrage. All members of the municipal judiciary are not guilty of this abuse of power and betrayal of public trust, but those who are should be marked for retirement as soon as possible. They now have the best of the situation because the offender who is let off remembers the favor and the general public does not. That could be changed by more persistent publicity for the disposition of trafic cases in the courts, but this is difficult and indeed largely impracticable because too many judges try offenses. Chief Justice Gonsteby proposes to correct this situation. He will open a new branch of the court in which the more serious offenses will be concentrated, including driving while intoxicated, speeding, leaving the scene of an accident, driving through stop lights and signs, or passing on the left side of a street car. The extent to which tickets are ignored by offenders, even in very serious breaches of the regulations, will be revealed and this demoralizing practice checked.

The remarkable success of the motor theft court, under Judge Graber, shows what can be accomplished by centering responsibility in a single judge with backbone. The judge of the new branch will be under more serious pressure than Judge Graber, for auto thieves are the common enemy of the motor owner, whereas the offenses tried in the new branch are committed by motorists who are of the world of respectability and in too many instances have pulls. A judge of exceptional strength of character is needed. Chief Justice Gonsteby will preside over the new branch himself until its operation is established and a suitable permanent assignment can be made.

But there is another essential beside the selection of a reliable judge, and that is his moral support by press and public. He will be constantly under pressure to show favor in despite of justice and public safety. His hands must be upheld. He must be assured that in the performance of his duty he can count upon public approval and the just reward of loyal public service.

SCANDAL SUITS.

The case of the unemployed diamond cutter, Rapport, sued successfully for breach of promise of marriage, is, we think, another illustration of the frequent abuse of this form of action. The plaintiff is a divorcée and a grandmother, and a judgment for $2,000 damages was obtained by default, the lawyer for the defendant having failed to appear when the case was called. The defendant, being without employment and unable to appeal or pay the judgment, was sent to jail, whence after nine days' imprisonment he has been released by order of Judge Van Keuren, sitting as a visiting judge in Cook county. Judge Van Keuren held that a malice count in the complaint had not been sustained by proof.

Judges and juries ought to be more careful in the disposition of cases in this form of action, which is too frequently used as a means of getting money without just cause and ought to be more strictly limited, if not abolished, in the interest of justice and public policy. The courts should not be available for the purpose of wreaking grudges or getting unearned money. There may be instances in which an individual has been actually injured by breach of promise to marry, but very strict proof should be required in all cases and both judges and juries should be on the alert to prevent this dubious form of litigation from being a means of blackmail, extortion, or injustice.

Public policy calls for better safeguards to prevent it from being, as it now is, an encouragement to unscrupulous lawyers and litigants. Juries in America have a sentimental tendency to favor any personable female who brings any charge or claim into court. This is not beneficial to reputable womanhood, to the reputation of courts for even handed justice, to the profession of the law, or to social welfare. A careful study should be made of the practical workings of this cause of action, and appropriate safeguards, in the light of its findings, should be enacted by the legislature without unnecessary delay. They are long overdue.

The Other Side

WHAT WOULD THEY DO!

[Sioux City Tribune.]

America's most nearly brainless newspaper, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, raves to the extent of a column or more over the fact that the Federal Land bank system has taken title to 22,078 farms. On these farms there had been loaned $82,939,000.

Well, what of it? Does the Chicago newspaper know of any better type of security?

These loans were made on a basis of not to exceed 50 per cent of the value of the property. The fact that farmers have been unable to pay interest and amortization on half the value of their land shows the terrible plight of the farming industry.

Most of the farmers who formerly owned these foreclosed farms have been permitted to remain on them, sharing with the land banks such income as could be derived from them. Private interests which have foreclosed many more farms than the land banks have been able to do no better.

Eventually the land banks will resell these farms, either to the former owners or other farmers. The money invested in them has not been lost. Land values will come back once we succeed in putting a sound farm policy into operation.

Just what would the editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and other critics of the government do about the farm debt situation—let private lenders acquire title to all the choice land through foreclosure? Would they turn this into a nation of peasants? Have they forgotten Le Mars? Do they want an agrarian rebellion and a chance to shoot down farmers who dare stand up for the right to retain their homes?

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE behaves like a crackpot. It is so utterly partisan, so blind to all truth it makes one ashamed that members of his profession can be hired to distort facts and mislead people in such manner.

ARCHEOLOGISTS ARE going up into Wyoming this summer to hunt for dinosaurs who roamed that region two hundred million years ago. Two hundred million years ago! People who dash along country roads, regardless of everything but speed, speed, speed and more speed, ought to ponder on that. They're risking their own lives and those of many others because at that speed they can never slow down if there is a car stalled on the road in front of them or another car passing at cross roads. But what's the hurry? Why, if they're not dead when they're picked up after the accident, but are able to say a few words, they might tell if they wanted to that they were on the way to a cocktail party and were afraid they might be five or ten minutes late. Or they might be a few minutes late for a bridge party or a swimming party. And two hundred million years ago the dinosaurs roamed around the northwestern part of this country. Two hundred million years! And here's a bird who is afraid he'll be five minutes late to a cocktail party! Two hundred million years and here are four people in a careening, whizzing car going to the Hoot Mon club in order to have a full round of eighteen holes before dinner. And two hundred million years ago the dinosaurs stalked around these parts. And the speed demons are going to save ten minutes! Maybe if these five minute and ten minute savers will only repeat the words "two hundred million years" a few times they might decide that it wasn't much use.

SILVER SAILS.

Serene,
The silver schooner of the moon
Weighs anchor and embarks
Upon her voyage,
At the appointed time
In the appointed place.

The soft sweet tide
Of the summer sky is full,
And lifted lightly
On the crests of star tipped waves
She spreads her chaste white sails
Completing in perfection,
The ancient prescribed circle,
Upon night's beautiful

IT IS THE BEST of times, it is the worst of times, it is the age of wisdom, it is the age of foolishness, it is the epoch of belief, it is the epoch of incredulity, it is the season of Light, it is the season of Darkness, it is the spring of hope, it is the winter of despair, we have everything before us, we have nothing before us, we are all going direct to Heaven, we are all going direct the other way . . . And, in fact, if you change the past tense to the present the opening paragraph in Charley Dickens' "A Tale of Two Cities" might very well have been written today, or yesterday, or tomorrow. Or last week or next week.

QUESTIONS.

Inspired by the Lit. Dig.'s ingenious question, "Do you approve on the whole the acts and policies of Roosevelt's first year?" I've thought up some kinda cute questions myself. Answer yes or no.

1. Don't you think that if it were mathematically possible 2 and 2 could, roughly speaking, be construed under certain circumstances as 5?
2. Don't you, in a general way, think Nero was not entirely to blame for fiddling when Rome burned if his fiddle was a very rare Stradivarius violin of great value that he could not put down as every place around him was so hot that the fiddle would have been badly warped?
3. Do you not think that Henry the Eighth might be considered a very kind and loving husband even if he did lop off the head of a wife now and then, considering that they may have eaten crackers in bed or owned a Pomeranian?
4. Do you think that after all it is worth while to teach the children that there is no Santa Claus if you expect them when they grow up to believe in Gen. Johnson?
5. Do you not believe after people who have been invited up to have a cocktail sit around for hours and drink up all your best and highest priced Scotch that it would have been far better, all things considered, if Columbus had not discovered America?
6. Would it not have been much better if King George III. had licked George Washington and won the Revolutionary war so that not being a separate country England could not have borrowed money of us and then refused to pay it back?

"SOMETIMES I'M HAPPY."

What do you think of when you hear
"Sometimes I'm Happy" played, my dear?
Does it take you back to that afternoon
That golden hour in the heart of June?
Do you close your eyes, and sigh, and see
A long-ago girl who looks like me?
Does it thrill you again as it used to do?
Or is it only a song to you?

CHOREA OR ST. VITUS' DANCE.

THE disease commonly but incorrectly known as St. Vitus' dance has been recognized for several centuries. The symptoms usually include a low grade fever; spontaneous movements of almost any part of the body, particularly twitching of the muscles of the face, hands, and legs; and marked weakness. The child moves the muscles involuntarily and no amount of scolding can remedy the situation. Frequently children are thought to be impudent, and, if the onset is gradual, may be accused of making faces. Sometimes the muscular movements cease during sleep. This is not always the case, as in severe infections the movements may entirely prevent sleep. Speech may be interfered with to such an extent that it is difficult to understand the child's conversation.

Until recent years no specific cause has been discovered. The observations of E. C. Rosenow and others strongly point to a streptococcus, particularly affecting the nervous tissue, as the causative factor. Rosenow was able to show that streptococci recovered from infected tonsils, when injected into small animals, caused choreiform movements. He says: "The ataxia or uncoördinated movements were often extremely marked and the animals frequently lost their balance. All movements disappeared during sleep."

Many observers have noted the relationship between chorea and rheumatism in children and have reported that twenty per cent of their chorea patients gave a history of a previous attack of rheumatic fever. The disease usually occurs in children between the ages of five and fifteen, and girls are more susceptible than boys.

The treatment consists in removing the child from surroundings likely to cause excitement, and in as complete rest as circumstances will permit. Most physicians find that salicylates are more effective than any other form of medication. Hypnotics should be given only under the direction of a physician. The nutrition should be kept at the highest possible level. If the case is severe, portions of the body likely to be thrown about or injured should be padded or bandaged. Care should be taken in feeding chorea patients to use metal containers, as glassware or chinaware may be broken, with possible injury to the child.

Because of its probable bacterial origin, as soon as the child has recovered from the attack every effort should be made to build resistance and, in order to accomplish this, all avenues of infection should be removed. Teeth, tonsils, and sinuses need to be carefully investigated. This is important because of the tendency of chorea to recur. New infections, such as colds, or undue excitement and nervous strain should be avoided.

Sometimes children who have had chorea will develop an occasional habit spasm, such as a twitching of the mouth, winking of the eyelids, or movements involving turning or jerking of the head. As a rule these are not organic in character and may be entirely eliminated by training and the establishment of self-control.

The importance of rest and nourishing food must be emphasized because of the frequency with which chorea is attended with heart complications. Inflammation of the lining of the heart (endocarditis) may occur during or subsequent to the attack. Rest in bed must be insisted upon for a considerable period after the acute symptoms have subsided.

TROUBLE WITH SPINE.

P. R. A. writes: I am a war veteran 34 years old. I had the flu in 1918 and while I was in bed a large, hard lump formed on the end of my spine. This was opened, drained, and packed. It finally healed. A few years later it broke open again and I was again operated on and it healed up. The next year the same thing happened. In 1932 I was again operated. I have been troubled with my back all this time. I can hardly bend over, and have shooting pains up my back and down my hips. At other times there is a throbbing in my hips and back. The end of my spine gets sore, and one doctor told me they cut the end of my spine off.

REPLY.

You no doubt had a coccygeal cyst, and apparently this has been well and completely removed. You may be helped by wearing a brace or a pad over the low end of the spine. No doubt the nearest government hospital would be glad to assist you in the matter of a supporting brace.

CURE OF LISP.

H. C. writes: Will you write on lisping? My particular trouble is in the formation of all S sounds and their combinations. Sometimes I feel that my tongue is not adroit enough to model the sibilant letters, and I am inclined to think that tissue beneath the tongue is the cause.

REPLY.

Sometimes lisping is caused by a long frenum of the tongue. A very slight surgical procedure will correct this. Sometimes the condition is helped by proper training; for example, slowly pronouncing words with S sounds. There are many books on speech training. No doubt your public library will be able to supply you with some of them.

TRY METABOLIC TEST.

A. P. writes: Six months ago I had my tonsils taken out and expected to gain weight soon after the operation. Even with a proper diet I cannot gain weight. Would some other condition cause excessive underweight?

REPLY.

You may be burning up your own tissues and all the food that you can take through excessive activity of the thyroid gland. A metabolic test would determine this.

CIVILIAN CONSERVATION CORPS.

Chicago, July 9.—[Friend of the People.]—Where and when will the next enrollment with the civilian conservation corps take place? Am I allowed to enroll if we have not received relief? I am 19 years of age and an orphan.

W. K.

The next enrollment in CCC took place July 2 and will continue until July 13, 1934. Only members of families or individuals now known to relief agencies are eligible. This includes both open and closed cases in which the need of the relief thus furnished is known. If you are a member of a family receiving relief at the present time, or have received relief during the past, you should go at once to the relief office from which such relief is or was given and register your name for CCC with the vocational department. No nonrelief applicants will be accepted by the district relief offices or by the public relations office. No former member of CCC is eligible for reenrollment whether honorably or dishonorably discharged. CCC is primarily a relief project.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NEW ANNUITY TAX.

Chicago, July 1.—[Friend of the Insured.]—Can you explain how the revenue act of 1934, recently signed by the President, applies to incomes from life insurance annuities and what was the provision before the signing of the act?

R. A. B.

The counsel for one of our large life insurance companies outlines the act in a recent issue of Best's Insurance News: "Amounts received as an annuity under an annuity or endowment contract shall be included in gross income; except that there shall be excluded from gross income the excess of the amount received in the taxable year over an amount equal to 3 per centum of the aggregate premiums or consideration paid for such annuity [whether or not paid during such year] until the aggregate amount excluded from gross income under this title or prior income tax laws in respect of such annuity equals the aggregate premiums or consideration paid for such annuity."

In other words, under the new law 3 per cent of the purchase price of an annuity is considered interest and must be included in gross income each year, and the excess of the income payments received each year over 3 per cent of the purchase price is considered a return of principal and should not be included in gross income until the aggregate amount excluded from gross income under the present law or prior laws equals the purchase price of the annuity.

If during the year in which income payments begin the total amount received is less than 3 per cent of the purchase price of the annuity only the amount received should be included in gross income. While the new law applies principally to annuities, it will apparently also apply to income payments under a survivorship income policy after the maturity date and to instalment payments under an optional method of settlement elected at the maturity of an endowment policy. The law does not apply to amounts paid by reason of the death of an insured under a life insurance policy.

Under previous laws there has been no federal income tax on income payments received under an annuity contract until the total amount of such payments equaled the purchase price of the annuity.

PLEA FOR REALISM.

Chicago, July 3.—We are living in possibly the most critical time in the world's history. The economic, political, and social order is tottering and threatening to crumble and crash. The world is seething with stark drama, bitter drama, tragic drama, ironic drama, humorous drama. There are gripping, soul stirring real life stories being enacted in every rural district and city slum as well as in the factories and in foreign lands.

But the movie magnates and directors have eyes for nothing but the flutterings of Hollywood's butterflies, who, divorced from the vital stream of life, have nothing to entertain them but wasteful cocktail parties and promiscuity.

How any theatergoer can work up a synthetic emotion over an artificial scene in which an extravagantly dressed social parasite is shedding glycerin tears over the loss of husband No. 3 while boy friend No. 4 lingers in the background ready to console her is more than I can see.

If the movies give us reality, morality will take care of itself.

MARRIED WOMEN WHO WORK.

Chicago, July 5.—Employers, particularly of office workers, who permit women to remain in their positions after they marry, are shortsighted. They are limiting, if not eliminating, the efficiency and morale of their help because of the attitude of these women.

The average man today who permits, and in fact expects, his wife to support herself and maintain a home for him even though he is a wage earner, is unambitious or docile in his own job, but starts his wife out in the morning to office or factory in a contentious attitude which reacts to the disadvantage not only of single women in her place of business but to her employer, because of resulting friction.

This comment has no connection with widows or wives who have sick or insane husbands. It refers to girls or women who marry employed men and immediately start to disrupt civilization to make their husbands more comfortable and their neighbors and co-workers miserable.

FROM A SOX FAN.

Chicago, July 5.—With the finest baseball plant in America, and supported by the world's most loyal body of sports fans [call them sapa if you will] the men in charge of affairs at Comiskey park seem to be utterly devoid of baseball sense or intuition.

In New York the acting director of the Yankees is Ed Barrow, a former big league manager; in St. Louis the brainy Branch Rickey handles the farflung Cardinal chain system with ease and efficiency; while our old friend, the "Old Fox," Clark Griffith, completely dominates the situation in Washington, D. C. Those men possess baseball brains, and unless Mr. Comiskey calls in a man of their type the south side team is doomed to remain in the vicinity of the American league basement. That is, of course, if Mr. Comiskey still owns and controls the White Sox.

ICE CREAM PEDDLERS.

Cicero, Ill., July 3.—Just a few lines in answer to "A Voter Who Remembers" in regard to the poor ice cream peddlers. I agree with Mr. Voter in regard to all the noise. I am of that nervous type myself. I hear every little move at night. But why not give the poor boys and men all the credit in the world for making an honest living? I am pretty sure Mr. Voter would not like it very much if these same boys would gang up on him and take his dollar or two away from him. Then what a howl.

Probably Mr. Voter does not sell ice cream but owns a car. Who bangs garage doors at all hours of the night? It might stir up some one's nerves in the neighborhood. Here's for more selling of ice cream. I do not eat ice cream, but I do believe in an honest livelihood.

NITWITTERY IN THE AIR.

Chicago, July 6.—Within the short period of an hour this afternoon no less than three airplanes flew over my residence, none of which I estimate was at an elevation greater than 500 feet.

I have talked to a number of residents of the northwest side, many of whom believe there is a genuine basis for complaint against this nuisance. Not only is our life and property in jeopardy but frequently we are awakened from sleep in the early morning hours by some low flying airplane.

Is there any way to get relief from this form of nitwittery or must we wait until a major catastrophe occurs before an "investigation" can be undertaken.

HITLER A HOUSE PAINTER!

Saginaw, Mich., July 2.—I wonder whether you misled me and were yourself misled. On the authority of a recent issue of THE TRIBUNE I stated to a friend of mine that Hitler was formerly a house painter. Perhaps he is at one period in his life painted a house or even houses. I do not know. In his book, "My Battle," I now find, he states explicitly that he was formerly a draftsman and a painter in water colors. And in a well known German illustrated weekly published in Leipzig I saw the other day some specimens of his work. After all, there is a wide gulf between a house painter and a successful painter in water colors. One is an artist; the other is not.

STONED.

Chicago, July 6.—Within the last two months while riding on the Jackson boulevard line, as the bus approached the viaduct at 2600 west, myself as well as other passengers have looked cautiously to left and right to determine whether we are to be stoned by missils thrown from the edge of the viaduct by boys who evidently think this is some form of outdoor sport.

This has occurred three times within the last two months and it might be a huge joke to these playful lads, but some day the result of such playfulness will be truly disastrous. Cannot the motor coach company insure the safety of its passengers in this respect?

THE PEOPLES GAS LIGHT AND COKE COMPANY

PRICED RIGHT!

Any commodity that is consistently over-priced will not find a consistently increasing market. If the price is too high, folks just don't buy.

The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company has repeatedly reduced its rates in the past dozen years, while the prices of other commodities in the home have pursued an up-and-down course, mostly up. Right now the prices of most of the items in your household budget—food, clothing, furnishings—are on the way up again after a short period at low levels. The price of gas stays down.

And so, through the years, it is increasingly used in Chicago homes—for cooking, for water heating, for home heating.

Deep Sea Locksmith Takes Vow of Secrecy.

LONDON, July 10.—(AP)—His lips sealed for two years about the sunken British cruiser Hampshire and the $10,000,000 golden treasure possibly hidden in the wreck, Charles Courtney, New York deep sea locksmith, sailed for home today on the Leviathan.

Courtney arrived in London Monday after a mysterious trip through Europe, including a visit to Moscow and Leningrad.

He says the Hampshire search is not a closed book, just a closed chapter, both his backers and the British admiralty having asked him to "pipe down." He took a vow to keep mum about the matter for two years.

Recall Sinking of Vessel.

The cruiser Hampshire was the vessel on which Lord Kitchener went to his death during the world war in the North sea. The vessel struck a German mine.

Courtney, on the basis of a story that £2,000,000 was taken from the Bank of England for shipment to Russia the day before the Hampshire sailed, came to England on a mission described as a deep-sea treasure hunt.

In 1933 he donned a diver's suit and found the hulk of the Hampshire, but after repeated attempts to blow the ship's strong boxes he gave up the search. An undertow had caught him and seriously injured him in the midst of one of his attempts.

Refused Salvage Permit.

On a second trip to England he interviewed British admiralty officials, but failed to convince them that he held the secret of the supposedly missing treasure. The admiralty informed him that no permission for salvage operations had been given to anybody.

He saw admiralty officials again yesterday and it was believed they explained to him that British public opinion frowns on disturbing the tragic cruiser and searching its wreck for treasure.

Courtney went to Russia to find an Englishman now employed in Leningrad who was in charge of loading the Hampshire and who supposedly is the only man outside high officials who knows if there was gold aboard.

Courtney will not say, but it is believed the man told him the Hampshire carried no gold.

Bomb Damages Home of Garbage Trucks Owner

A bomb thrown on the front porch of the bungalow of John Powers at 3425 South Claremont avenue early today blew in the front door and shattered several windows. Powers was not at home at the time. His wife and three children were awakened by the blast, but were not injured. The damage was estimated at $100. Powers owns two trucks which gather refuse from restaurants. He could give the Brighton Park police no reason for the attack.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Baseball is different from radio. Babe Ruth has found in his 13 weeks on the air. On the diamond his salary is commensurate to his ability to hit home runs. As his batting average decreased his pay went down. On the radio he has made an ethereal home run. But instead of getting a raise he will be retired after his 39th broadcast Friday evening. The Bambino is reported to have received $39,000 for the broadcasts, $4,000 more than his salary this year with the Yankees.

Babe pulled a million letters [which he now may have an opportunity to read] and fans sent in the tops of 850,000 cereal boxes. Under his auspices 9,900 autographed baseballs were passed out and 1,100 gloves distributed to listeners. The sponsor accomplished the objective he had in mind in 13 weeks instead of a year. The Babe was simply too good, so he lost the job.

Pat Barnes, famed radio character actor, impersonator and one man entertainer, will be the master of ceremonies on the new Lombardoland program featuring Guy, his brothers, and orchestra, which will be inaugurated at 9 o'clock tonight over WMAQ-NBC. Pat was formerly a W-G-N announcer. His own philosophic and poetic comment will be interspersed with the musical numbers.

Tito Guizar, the handsome singer heard over W-G-N last night from the stage of the Chicago theater, will leave for Hollywood late this week to appear in a picture opposite Jeannette McDonald. . . . The Detroit Symphony, on the air daily from the Ford Gardens at the World's Fair, has negotiations nearly completed for a commercial program on a big network. . . . Charles Wakefield Cadman, the well-known composer pianist, will be featured with the Milwaukee Philharmonic orchestra at 11 tomorrow night over KYW-NBC. . . . The Right Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, will speak in behalf of the Legion of Decency at 7:15 p. m. tomorrow over W-G-N.

Lanny Ross' delayed trip to Hollywood to make his second picture is now set for next week. . . . Joe Cook has been signed for a movie to be called "Fun on the Air." . . . Alla Nazimova will make one of her rare radio appearances on the CBS Family Theater hour next Sunday evening. . . . Paul Whiteman's Music Hall has been signed for another full year.

Goodman and Jane Ace dropped off on the way home to Kansas City Monday to visit Truman Bradley, CBS announcer handling the Detroit Symphony broadcasts. Truman used to play the part of "Brad" in "Easy Aces." The Aces plan to summer at Saratoga Springs and Bradley will join them there for his vacation. The Aces will be back or the air in the fall.

In the wake of Mrs. Roosevelt's broadcast comes this story: About six weeks ago Joe Koestner received a wire from New York reading, "Are you available July 9?" Koestner, remembering his big shows for Sunday, July 8, and Tuesday, July 10, decided that he would rather not try to squeeze in a broadcast on the 9th. So he wired "Not available." Another wire came saying "Better keep the date open." So he did and got the assignment to play with Mrs. Roosevelt. Mrs. Roosevelt expressed her appreciation of Koestner's portion of broadcast and he may be used again when the series is continued in September.

FINDS INFANTILE PARALYSIS MAY BE HEREDITARY

Research Director Probes Family Histories.

Boston, Mass., July 10.—(AP)—Dr. W. Lloyd Aycock, director of research for the Harvard university infantile paralysis commission, perhaps the leading organization of its kind in the United States, today announced he had found presumptive evidence of family susceptibility to the disease.

Dr. Aycock, who has spent years in study of the malady, said that inherited susceptibility is a hitherto unsuspected possibility.

While he made it plain that his conclusions did not point the way to anything resembling a "cure," he did believe that they provided one more element of truth to help science's perennial fight against poliomyelitis.

20 Per Cent Had Family History.

Twenty per cent of the cases brought to the commission's Boston clinic had a family history of the disease, he said. While three isolated Vermont communities, where an intensive study has been conducted over many years, showed 51 per cent of the patients had such a history.

The three communities were Waitsfield, Barton, and Grand Isle. Vermont in 1894 was the scene of the first recorded major epidemic of paralysis in this country and through the efforts of Dr. Charles S. Caverly, aided by an anonymous donation to the state health department, an intensive study of the disease was started.

Since 1923 the state work has been carried on in conjunction with the Harvard commission with Dr. Aycock in the field for many years as its representative.

Vermonter's Memory Aids.

Today, in support of his discovery of hereditary susceptibility, Dr. Aycock told of the efforts of himself and his colleagues to trace the disease through many generations, a feat that was materialy aided in Vermont by the comparative isolation of the three communities and the proverbial tenacity of a Vermonter's memory.

In at least one case, paralysis was found in as many as five generations of a single family tree, and in another 19 cases were discovered in a single family over a period of 40 years.

In one instance a man who had had the disease at the age of 2 became the father of a child who contracted it at the age of 3 and of a second child, born several years later, who also contracted it.

Cites Separation of Cases.

"Obviously," said Dr. Aycock, "the second generation could not have been infected from the same source as the first and obviously the second child of the second generation did not catch it from the first child of that generation.

"On the speculation that such cases might arise out of an infected house, or lack of cleanliness or proximity to a sink hole there is the further fact —one of a number—in which one child was stricken in Nova Scotia and one of the younger children was a victim after the family had moved to Massachusetts.

"On another chart is the record of a case in Massachusetts where another member of the family, who had never seen the first and who lived in Italy, also contracted the disease."

KANSAS CITY POLITICIAN SLAIN; QUIZ EIGHTEEN

Kansas City, Mo., July 10.—(AP)—Machine guns, blazing from ambush, today ended the career of John Lazia, 37, a gambler. He had risen to swift riches and political power here.

Interpreting the slaying, in front of an apartment hotel, as a fresh outbreak of gang warfare, police seized Joe Lusco, a political rival of Lazia on this city's north side. Seventeen other men were held for investigation. Lusco's followers had been arrested, too, after the March city election disorders in which four men were slain.

Lazia, convicted recently of violating the federal income tax laws after a trial that focused attention on the mysterious sources of his revenue, died nearly 12 hours after eight bullets penetrated his body.

Lazia testified at his trial he had made large sums at gambling, but as swiftly lost them again. Federal attorneys brought out that he once profited from the operations of a dog racing track and asserted his bank deposits indicated he must have other sources of revenue.

Lazia was a lieutenant of Thomas J. Pendergast, whose Democratic political organization rules Kansas City. Lazia's district rolled up the majorities which gave Pendergast victory last March over a nonpartisan slate for city offices.

Miss M'Lennan Entertained at Many Parties

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE young women who are very good friends of Miss Margaret McLennan's and so might have expected to attend her if she had had a large wedding were disappointed when she planned a very small one with no attendants but her younger sister, Katherine. They are finding, however, that a small wedding doesn't mean a derth of parties nor of visiting young men for the girls are having as good a time as they've ever had these last few days before the McLennan-Morse wedding.

Half a dozen classmates of the bridegroom, John B. Morse, who was graduated from Yale last month, are here and if you think that doesn't mean a "field day" for the bride's best friends, it's because you don't know much about the younger generation, nor have you met the visiting young men.

They all are staying in Lake Forest with George A. Ranney Jr., who is to be Mr. Morse's best man, and Miss Dorothy Ranney and Cornelia, the subdeb of the family, are helping their mother and brother entertain the guests during the time they aren't busy with McLennan-Morse festivities.

John Jackson, the stroke and captain of the Yale crew that defeated Harvard last month and set a new record for the course, spent several days in Geneva with the Lawrence Davises and their sons, Bob and Pat, who idolize their tall cousin, Johnny Jackson, naturally, before he went to Lake Forest, but he is out there now for the gay parties that will fill the rest of the week for Miss McLennan and Mr. Morse and their friends.

Mr. Jackson has four brothers, "all as good looking and nice as he is," says his aunt, Mrs. Davis, and three sisters, and their home in New Haven was a popular place with all Johnny's classmates, of course. Mr. Jackson is on his way west for the weddings of several more classmates.

Innis Bromfield of Greenwich, Conn., Edwin E. Mills of New York, Hugh Cunningham of Wichita, Kas., T. Edward Hambleton of Baltimore, and Arthur Gordon of Savannah, Ga., are the other house guests of the Ranneys, and Gilbert C. Greenway of New York is expected before the wedding.

Ceremony Will Be Held at Home.

There are not to be any ushers at the ceremony, which will be read at 5 o'clock Saturday by the Rev. George Roberts, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Lake Forest, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. McLennan, in Lake Forest. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. Morse and his bride will leave for a western trip that will include stops at Banff and Lake Louise and at various places in California, including Del Monte, where Mr. Morse's father, Samuel F. B. Morse, resides. Upon their return Sept. 1 Mr. and Mrs. Morse will be at home in the Marshall Field Garden apartments in Chicago.

Tonight Mrs. Ezra J. Warner and

Inebriates—Glass House—Reasoning—True tale.

One of them asked the other where he lived and he answered:

"Pittsburgh."

"I live in Pittsburgh, too," said the other. "Duquesne street."

"Tha's funny. I live on Duquesne street, too," answered the first drunk. "I live at No. 114 Duquesne street."

"Tha's where I live . . . 114 Duquesne street!" exclaimed the other.

They solemnly poured out another drink on the strength of this coincidence, and a fellow standing at the bar inquired of the bartender who those two fellows were anyhow who lived at the same address.

"They're a father and son, but they are too drunk to recognize each other," explained the barkeep.

WHEN Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was on her way to the House of Magic in the General Electric exhibit at A Century of Progress Monday she stopped for a few moments at the Crystal House and was shown some of the interesting points of the glassless, windowless, dustless air-conditioned dwelling by Architect Leland Atwood, one of the designers.

"And is it all glass, excepting the narrow steel frames and floors?" she asked.

"It's the nearest to a glass house that has thus far been conceived," he told her.

"What a wonderful place it would be for the Republican national committee this year," Mrs. Roosevelt said dryly. "It would put a crimp in their stone throwing."

IF you lose your little boy at A Century of Progress, you might remember this experience of P. O. Wilson, general manager of the National Live Stock Marketing association. When he came home from the loop Saturday he found that his wife and son had gone to the Fair, and he decided to join them.

"But you'll never find them," the housemaid interposed.

Arrived at the Fair, Mr. Wilson went at once to the Ford Exposition building and directly to the reproduction of the original workshop of Henry Ford. There, sure enough, was his small son studying the mechanism of the first Ford car, with Mrs. Wilson patiently waiting near by.

"I thought I'd find you here," said Mr. Wilson. "It's where I would have been when I was Jimmy's age."

FRANK BUCK has just returned from a flying trip to New York where he had gone to meet a freighter from Asia carrying some of his prize animals for the jungle camp he has established at A Century of Progress. But the facts of the story are of some interest. Mr. Buck had been waiting for some weeks for this shipment, both because the animals would complete his show and also because with them were Ali and Ahmed, his best "boys," who accompany him into the jungle.

As the cargo was being unloaded he had the two boys standing by to help check. Everything seemed to be there—the huge pythons, the villainous cobras, the comic gibbons and honey bears and the rare Komodo dragon lizards. One or two of the animals, poor creatures, had died on the long trip from Singapore, but all the others seemed to be there. However, when the box of mangrove snakes was checked there were only two instead of twelve.

"What's wrong here, Ali?" Mr. Buck asked, upset because, as there are no mangrove snakes in captivity anywhere in the United States they were to be one of his prize snake exhibits.

Mr. Buck was pretty mad, but inclined to laugh, too. It seems that there are millions of these poisonous reptiles in Malaya, and they are common as our own garter snakes. Ali, trying to tempt the python, which is pretty finicky in captivity, had practically exhausted the mangrove snake box, figuring that after they got here they could go out and catch many more of so common a snake.

New Contract Calls for Four Movies a Year.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 10.—[Special.]—Shirley Temple, the year's biggest movie discovery, has just had a breath taking raise in salary. The 5 year old star is raised from $150 to $1,000 a week. More than that, Fox Film corporation will itself handle the child star's business affairs with the intention of so investing and protecting her earnings that the little lady will be moderately wealthy long before the studio's seven year contract on her services expires.

The little girl was taken to Superior court by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Temple, recently to ask Judge Marshall McComb to give legal approval to her contract of employment and a second contract granting a movie agent 10 per cent of her pay, but Judge McComb balked at the size of the agent's 10 per cent, which he directed to be cut in half, and the agent said he would withdraw from Miss Temple's affairs first.

In surrounding little light haired Shirley with precautions for her health and against her financial exploitation the studio will not loan her to other studios for pictures; she shall not be obliged to make radio or stage appearances and she will make only four movie stories a year.

Shirley leaves with her parents and her two brothers this week for a quiet retreat near Carmel, Cal., where she'll be a vacationing 5 year old and not a movie star for the next month or more.

The year's crop of Wampas Baby stars, except for Helene Cohan, George M. Cohan's daughter, who expressed a desire to drop out, are going along in films en masse for one more story, "Young and Beautiful." It will be made by Mascot Pictures corporation at Mack Sennett studio. The story is an original with a lot of musical sequences written about the start and adventures of a baby star, by Joe Santley, the former musical comedy favorite, and Scenarist Earl Paramore. Judith Allen and Bill Haines take the two leads. Joseph Cawthorn, Ted Flo-Rito and his band, Comedian Syd Saylor, and Ed Lester's Hollywood singing troupe also are featured. Santley is directing.

It's the first movie appearance in a year by Bill Haines, who has been devoting much time to his interior decorator's shop. Haines plays the same wise talking, lippy youth that he played through so many film appearances under his now terminated M. G. M. contract.

Hollywood's last farewell to two popular veterans was paid by small groups of mourners yesterday. The funeral of Alec B. Francis was conducted by the Rt. Rev. Bertram Stevens, bishop of the Episcopal diocese. Christian Science services were conducted for Harry Pollard, director of "Showboat." "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and other silent and talkie hits. Both men will be remembered within the industry for the parts they played and the example they set toward clean and artistic entertainment.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Four hundred guineas reward for him, dead or alive! But what did pursuit mean but zest in the life of this hard shooting, hard riding, hard laughing gentleman of the road? Not a thing.

The Castle's feature is reminiscent of the old American westerns in which Tom Mix, William S. Hart, Billy Anderson, and all that gallant array of cowboy actors rode the plains to the delight of youngsters—and oldsters, before sophistication galled the simple wine of the latter's enjoyment in moving pictures. It abounds with the redoubtable exploits of Turpin, who robbed the rich and loved the poor—and shows him as the dismay of the police. But the proletariat are with him to a dog and wherever he goes he has allies who connive for his safety.

Like all famous saddle men, Dick has a trained horse that comes at his whistle, and displays almost human intelligence.

As for romance—the hero will have none of it beyond a given point. Two women there are, in this yarn, who love him, and one of them dies for him. But the finale shows the jovial brigand still galloping gayly away from justice—and entangling alliances of the heart. . . .

Mr. McLaglen makes a lusty, lovable outlaw and the supporting cast of Britons and their director are quite apt enough.

The Dillinger "short" on the same program is a series of news reel shots showing the places that have known the renegade from childhood up. There are flashes of him as a boy, in jail, under arrest, etc. The accompanying lecturer—terse and interesting—presents this American menace in a new light—as a dumb cluck. Not smart enough to keep out of jail. . . . Too dim-witted to get it through his head that crime never pays. . . . Making a sure if devious journey to the waiting electric chair—also shown with all its grisly contraptions for snuffing out life. A dumb cluck whose middle name is Bad Luck. Bad luck for himself and Bad Luck to those who have anything to do with him. "Goats," says the lecturer, and to prove his point you are permitted to gaze upon the Dillinger allies—men and women who because of their connection with him are either dead, dying in jail, or headed for execution.

"THE WORLD IN REVOLT."
Produced by Mentone.
Narration composed by Dr. Emil Lengyl.
Narrator, Graham McNamee.
Presented at the Garrick theater.

KIND: Pretentious collection of news reels showing conditions of the last years in Russia, Germany, France, Italy, China, Japan, Mexico, America, etc.

INTERESTING: Engrossing!

REMARKS: The pictures are authentic and many of them are thrilling, chilling, dramatic. War AS war has little place in them. They show, rather, turbulent conditions brought about by the depression. The "revolt" is the revolt against established standards, governments, ways of living.

The accompanying lecture is informative and attention compelling. The man behind the voice has a brain and good taste. Never once does he try to be "smarty." Such a WELCOME relief from the average film orator with his deadly and persistent facetiousness!

See you soon!

H. F. M'Cormick Takes Post on Opera Board

Following the announcement yesterday that Harold F. McCormick had been elected honorary chairman and George W. Rossetter president and chairman of the board of the Chicago Grand Opera company, it was learned last night that Paul Longone today will renew his contract as general manager.

No further plans have been announced except that the season will be of approximately six weeks, with most of the artists who sang here last year back in their former roles. It was told at an earlier meeting of the board that the season would be in the autumn, closing in the holiday period.

The reentry of Mr. McCormick in active support of opera is regarded as significant, since it was under his guidance that Chicago opera soared from its beginning in 1910 to world fame. Concerning his new post, he declared:

"I have always believed, and am now more firmly convinced than ever, that grand opera has a cultural value of far-reaching importance to Chicago.

"To be recalled to active service in its promotion again after a personal absence of more than four years affords me a long sought opportunity to aid directly in the development of local art and culture, and, indirectly, to play some part in showing the rest of the country that Chicago holds certain basic attractions other than size and commercial preëminence."

Other officers elected were George Haight, vice president; Laurance H. Armour, treasurer, and Mrs. Ernest R. Graham, secretary. A new executive committee is headed by George Woodruff, retiring president. Other members are Mr. Rossetter, Mr. McCormick, Mr. Haight, Mr. Armour, Ernest R. Graham, and Abner Stillwell.

Mr. Rossetter, for two years president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, is optimistic as to the operatic future and indicates that plans for the coming season are well under way. Members of the company will raise a guaranty fund of $50,000, he said, but expect to make it $75,000 instead. The owners of the Civic Opera building have agreed not only to donate the free use of their auditorium, with all its scenery, but in addition to contribute $25,000 to the underwriting fund, making a total guaranty fund of $100,000.

"Chicagoans can be certain that the popular prices that made such an outstanding civic success of the opera in 1933 will probably prevail again this year," Mr. Rossetter said.

NEGRO GRAND OPERA

To aid the Negro singer, the Aeolian Opera association opened a summer season at the Mecca auditorium, with all-Negro casts.

The inaugural was that best seller of American operas, Louis Gruenberg's adaptation of Eugene O'Neill's "Emperor Jones." Jules Bledsoe—the Ol' Man River of "Show Boat"—had the title rôle.

"Emperor Jones" is not new to Bledsoe. He shared with Paul Robeson the creation of the rôle of the Pullman porter-turned-emperor in its first run on the legitimate stage. Last winter he sand the rôle in its first presentation as an opera abroad, in Amsterdam.

Effective Silver Fox Cape

Old Fashioned Stoles Go Modern in Style.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

A lasting impression from a recent preview of fall furs [we tell you this, hoping you read it on a comparatively cool morning] is a decided one, that stoles and capes will be seen in large and varied assortments this coming fall and early winter. The old fashioned stoles gone modern, but retaining some of their lavender glory in dozens of tails dangling from the stole proper.

If you have any old timers packed away in the attic, drag them out into the light of fashion and have them cleaned, rejuvenated, and even remade during the next few weeks while special prices for this work are being featured. Any of the clever furriers will accomplish positive magic if you give them a chance.

Capes are coming in with a big rush. With simple, very smart thin wool dresses that get into town first for street wear, these fur capes are used with grand results. You will wear snappy short fur models for tailored wools; luxurious fluffy affairs of fox for afternoon dresses; and some of the stunning white creations for evening, as well as gorgeous things of expertly matched, very dark sables as a contrast for dress parade evening gowns.

If you have slightly dated fur coats and rather "worn-in-spots" fur pieces, gather them all together and let your furrier design a new cape, or scarf, or stole. You'll be surprised at the results.

One of the most breath taking creations from a new collection of fur capes has been photographed, and if you think silver fox still isn't the most beautiful and patrician of furs, this model will prove you in error.

The lovely silver frosted pelts are worked in a very different manner. Instead of the usual horizontal swathed effect, these skins are used vertically to show every bit of the silver frost of the fur. A cape for sophisticated afternoon ensembles as well as for evening. Obtainable in a smart Chicago shop.

The Hotel Women's association is holding their summer party this evening in the Horticultural building at the Fair, beginning at 7 o'clock with dinner on the terrace. Signor Edwardo Simone, sculptor and designer of the Horticultural building, will conduct a tour through the building and grounds.

Cascade Settings Being Removed from Auditorium Theater

Workmen are now engaged in the Auditorium theater dismantling and removing the special settings and equipment used by the Cascades in its brief incumbency there. The theater will be restored to its original setting as a center for musical and dramatic functions and various improvements are in progress.

The San Carlo Opera company will return to the Auditorium, according to John Goodridge, president of the Auditorium Building corporation. It will remain at least three weeks. The engagement will be the beginning of another transcontinental tour by the company as well as its silver jubilee, and Fortune Gallo, its general director has promised novelties and innovations to mark the event.

Beginning tonight Vera Mirova, the Chicago dancer, will give a series of Javanese dances in the Holland Village, A Century of Progress. E. M.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Just when we were tearing our hair about a derth of news in the cosmetic world up pops an elegant new lipstick to save our sanity.

The lip rouge, in a choice of four or five perfectly swell shades, is everything you'd ask. It's creamy in texture, retains its original color on the lips and stays on for ages. But the case, madame, is the startler. The woman who designed it has done a thing so simple and so sensible we wonder why no one else thought of it long before this. One of the four sides of the chrome and gilt top holds a mirror!

As an old and experienced lipstick smudger, usually found loping around with lip rouge all over the chin and unevenly on the lips, we can see that this new one with a mirror is going to be a great help to grooming. When you pull out the stick tilt the top mirror side up and you just can't go wrong.

In the same shop there are some new and novel toilet waters that you'll like a lot. The flower that gives the toilet water its scent is floating delicately around in each bottle. We thought we were seeing things when we noticed the three pretty bottles standing in a row, each with a different flower bobbing its little head inside. There's a frothy sprig of lilac floating around in one; a smiling white and yellow narcissus in another, and lily of the valley in the third.

It's quite the thing to use toilet water rather lavishly in hot weather; the scents of these are lovely. And don't you agree with us that having the actual flower in the bottle that gives the water its fragrance is a pretty little touch?

THE WRONG MAN

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Cara Follette, only daughter of a Canadian business man, anticipates becoming her father's partner. While traveling in Europe she meets Jerry Flint, a poor young singer. She stakes him to Toronto, where she can set him auditions impossible for him to gain abroad. Benjamin Follette and his wife, Anny, had grown apart in the years he was busy becoming successful. Now Follette is about to lose his business to his rival, Redman Harmer. Harmer recently returned from Europe, where he saw and fell in love with Cara. He tells Follette. When Cara returns home her father tells her of his failure and urges her to meet Harmer. It would mean much to him and he likes Harmer. Cara thinks she loves Jerry. She decides to go up northwest to Mulligan's camp for a month to think it over. Meanwhile no one is to get an inkling of their business troubles. Jerry follows and joins her on the way. Harmer hears of Cara's plans from her father. He flies to Mulligan's ahead of her and hires the place from Dan Mulligan for a month and the use of his name. He meets Cara and Jerry as Mulligan. After three days Jerry is fed up with camp life. He tricks Cara into leaving with him. They become lost in the wilds. Jerry's true character is revealed to Cara when she confesses her father's failure. Harmer comes to their rescue. He sends Jerry on his way back to Toronto. Harmer, as Mulligan, wins Cara's love. Cara is anxious to overtake Jerry for fear of harm to Follettes by what she has told him. Harmer starts on the return trip with her. Cara tells him she is going to marry for money.

INSTALMENT XLV.

THE APPEAL OF LUXURY.

"There aren't many girls like you, Miss Follette, coming out to the backwoods to help a man forget—if he could forget. I'm Dan Mulligan, a poor man. I'm only known among a handful of fellows who come out for sport. I've nothing to give a woman, and so—I'm glad you're going home."

"It's the only way," Cara said tremulously.

"I've got to marry Harmer."

"That's certain. I'm converted now, Miss Follette. Forget all I said before about not marrying a man you can't love. I know you must have pretty strong reasons, and there's nothing for it but for you to marry Harmer."

"I don't know whether I want to hear you say that, or not," she confessed shakily.

"I've said what I mean."

"I'm being a fool, you think . . . wanting you to say this or that, and I don't even know what."

"No. You're just a woman. And worried."

Then he said in a quiet voice, his elbows on the table and his chin on his hand, looking straight into her eyes: "And think, after all, there's a great deal he can give you. You like power? You can have it as his wife. And prestige. And beautiful homes. And the best cars. And the world will be your hunting ground with him, not just the backwoods. Think. Isn't all that worth marrying a man for?"

"You'll come to think of it like other women," he said briefly, and all the softness, the gentleness with which he had looked at her, went out of his eyes. He became very quiet. He was extremely courteous and considerate, but as if removed a thousand miles from her. And indeed he had moved a thousand miles. Her "Yes" coming suddenly in that cool clear voice awakened in him memories of women keenly and clearly observed. Since very young manhood he had keenly and clearly observed such women as he troubled about, and he knew from an early age the appeal of money and softness and safety and comfort—yachts, cars, clothes and travel. In Cara there must be at least a little of Anny.

Now he knew he would not tell her. Trust had faltered.

And doubt came upon him suddenly. His doubt was fierce and so reasonable that it was unreasoning. All the time, though unwillingly, though wanting to flirt with Jerry Flint, with Danny Mulligan, her mind had been, even if unconsciously, decided on marrying Harmer. She had never considered it otherwise, even personally, than worth while.

Her self-questionings were the mechanical self-questionings of every woman over the matter of a husband, and her questionings of himself had been the usual questions of a woman put to any available man in a given situation, to promote interest: for the attraction of intimate conversations—for any reasons lighter and unworthier than even the woman herself knew. They were a pastime, a self-analytic thrill.

Was it all just like that?

Half an hour before in the hotel lounge he had been thinking: "When shall I tell her? At lunch?" Now he knew he would not tell her at all. Trust had faltered.

There would be a certain amusement and a certain bitterness in the surprise of that restaurant meeting in Montreal.

She would think, as many a woman had recklessly given herself cause to think: "I said too much!"

The suspicions and jealousies and sadness of all lovers informed even Harmer, hard cased man of the world, suggesting to him that it was not only to save her father that she refused this love of Danny Mulligan. It was as much to save herself. It was likely and reasonable that a girl—especially a girl brought up as she had been, to respect highly the intrinsic values—would put love second, however bitter the renunciation. Besides . . . . love? Did she love him at all, if she did not love him enough?

He wanted, like all lovers, an overwhelming gift to which, with an overwhelming gift, he would respond, and no second best.

His certainty of a few minutes ago veered to as definite an opposite certainty. If she would not marry Danny Mulligan—should she marry Harmer?

That restaurant meeting she was staging would be in the nature of revelation. Not only identities, but of secret places of the heart. What he would have to tell her thus would make an end.

"I've failed," he thought. And he began to seek and blame the reason of his failure. Wasn't it the series of incidents that had led to this hurrying return to Toronto? If he had had the month that he had planned and hoped for, might he not have won as he wanted to win—the woman wholehearted and rejoicing?

In his mind, reviewing it, was the thought that Benjamin had not mentioned the matter of a rival. No. He had known nothing of Jerry Flint. Benjamin must have guessed at danger with the unerring flair of a man already in danger. Benjamin had contrived this solitary vacation for his daughter, the while he and his wife managed the matter of this unwelcome young man. Anny would have done that, with her Ricardini, that impresario Cara had mentioned, pulling the strings in New York. They might even have got him well away by the time of Cara's return.

All the time Harmer was thinking thus he was talking with her, light talk, as if all love were forgotten. They were making it easy for each other.

But still his long thoughts, thoughts of a man who had seen the best and the worst of the world since boyhood, went on. It was the one thing of which great wealth and great success robbed a man—that certainty of true loyalty and true love. It was hard for him to keep faith alive in his soul. What might the future not have held? She would have married him, Redman Harmer, joyful if embarrassed—though women were clever with such matters for embarrassment—that he and Danny Mulligan were, romantically, the same man. But even at the start she would not have loved him well enough to take him without his money.

Look into the future. This Flint would reappear on the horizon of a rich married woman, with his voice, his appeal, the leisure that he had to devote to women's whims. Backwoods' quarrels, escapades, forgotten, laughed at in the limbo of the past, another rich, bored wife would amuse herself with a secret lover? A lover who, by then, would in all likelihood be both decorative and famous.

Would it be so very different, after all, in its turn, from the case of Benjamin and Anny Follette, of which he had had a swift comprehensive glimpse that evening in Toronto? That evening which had seemed, even to him with his many victories to stabilize him, so anxiously momentous? . . . .

And at last he was saying to Cara: "Time's up, Miss Follette. We must go for that train."

"Yes. You have given me a perfect luncheon, Danny."

"Mr. Mulligan to you, Miss Follette," he said with an inscrutable gayety.

She looked at him. His blue eyes were dark as a storm at sea. His smiling lips were grim. She grew cold. No more gentleness, tenderness, between them? No. All the better.

"You travel lighter than most women I know, even considering you were coming out to the wilds," he told her as her grip was put on a taxicab. He ushered her in.

He nearly said: "Good-by," then. Almost she cried: "Don't come to the train." But neither spoke, and he got in beside her.

Beauty Answers

Lamb's Wool Puffs Wash Well.

P. W.: Powder puffs of lamb's wool wash beautifully. They should be washed every couple of days in soapy water, and to keep them soft and fluffy let there be a little soap in the rinse water.

Powder Should Blend.

K. S.: Let your powder blend in with the tone of your skin. The effect to strive for is that you are wearing no powder at all. Sometimes it is necessary to buy two shades and mix them to get just the right shade.

Arent' you, too, fascinated by the fine quality of skin you see these days. Some one suggests that it isn't that skins are becoming finer grained, but that eyes are more observant, and that there always were women with that texture that gives no hint of pore construction. I think that the saner diets observed today have something to do with it and, of course, the care that complexions are given by even the most ordinary woman, cannot but reflect a better tone.

I have just come back from an outdoor luncheon date with a girl whose complexion is of such purity that it doesn't seem true. A bright noonday test is a test, you'll agree. And what a lovely face that is in which to try out makeup colors. But, we were talking about skin fineness and skin coarseness as the size of the pores regulate. It's pretty well determined that heredity plays an active part in the texture to which one falls heir. Daughters have fine grained skin because their mothers had it before them. Others have coarse skins for the same reason. The size of the pores determines the fineness and coarseness of skin.

Nevertheless, girls start out in early youth with pretty much the same texture. It is as they get older that differences begin to show. And the older one gets, the more the difference magnifies. In fact, all skin undergoes some change in this respect as age creeps on.

A great deal of prevention work has been and is carried on with the use of mild astringents and face tonics, and that invaluable habit of rinsing the face in cold water after the bath is becoming an accepted rite in many instances. I happen to know of a parent whose daughter at 13 began to show this face pore enlargment, as often happens around this age. Mother has the girl rinse her face in cold water three times a day, with already clarifying and refining results. Rinsed over a clean face, it goes without saying. And that's what I wanted to remind you of these warm days that can be turned into complexion reasons, if you only choose. Get the habit of washing the face several times a day in warm water and then splash, splash, splash with the cold. You'll feel like doing it now more than in winter weather. So, cash in well on the hot weather terms of pore-cleansing and stimulating.

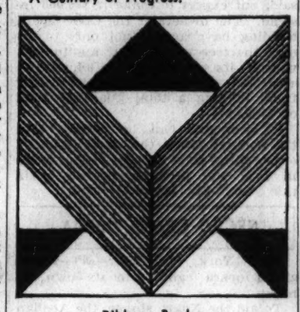
Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street, Tribune Tower, and Hall of Science, A Century of Progress.



Ribbon Border.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Ribbon Border" is an unusual name for a quilt block and the finished quilt, composed of thirty-eight pieced blocks, is no less unusual. The success of the pattern depends entirely upon the final block arrangements, since so many odd designs may be created at will. Gold, purple, and white comprise a popular color scheme, but any combination in keeping with the dominant colors in any room would be attractive.

The Stage

"The Drunkard," old school melodrama of temperance propaganda first staged by P. T. Barnum, will get a third hearing in Chicago next week. The management of the Auditorium hotel proposes to present the play as an after-dinner entertainment in its main dining room, beginning Wednesday night, July 18. The company has had a five weeks' run in the Schroeder hotel, Milwaukee.

Attempts to start a vogue for this quaint specimen of obsolete playwriting and acting have already been made in the Opera club and the North Side Turner hall. A year's run in Los Angeles for "The Drunkard" is the cause of this epidemic.

The Misunderstood Attitude Is Egoistic One, Declares Doris

BY DORIS BLAKE.

She is twenty-three, the recent victim of a heartbreak. Her family and friends cannot understand her. She includes certain incidents of the family's and friends' unsympathetic attitude toward her, not only in relation to the broken romance but in connection with the daily affairs of her life among them.

Well, who does understand any one of us, we rise to ask in response. Those of us, that is, who are begging to be understood. No one understands the noble motives that direct our every act and deed. But whose fault is it when we're not understood? That's what the misunderstoodees have to wrestle with and, until they can face plain, unvarnished facts, they'll never get an answer nor find a solution to their problem?

Nature isn't so complex that those one lives with in intimate daily contact cannot see through. The misunderstood member of the clan is the "queer" one. The others are all right. They are understanding enough to give a wide berth to the complex one, or the one who thinks herself so different. This search for understanding is a symptom of egotism, if the truth must be told. One, assuming herself to be different, assumes that she should be handled in a different fashion from the rest of the group, her moods respected, when what is best for her is to be properly snubbed, her demands ignored because they only contribute further to the misunderstood one's thoroughly ingrained selfishness.

Shake out of it, twenty-three year old.

Mrs. C. Frederick Childs—the latter is an absent hostess, for she does not arrive at home from abroad until next Tuesday—are giving a dinner dance at the Shoreacres club for Miss McLennan and Mr. Morse, and tomorrow night those two attractive cousins, Miss Mary Reed and Miss Jean Schweppe, are entertaining for Miss McLennan, taking their guests to the Onwentsia for dancing after cocktails at the Reeds' home and dinner at the Schweppes'.

Friday night Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. McLennan are giving the bridal dinner at their home, 497 Lake avenue. Mrs. George A. Richardson, Mr. Morse's mother, will give a luncheon Saturday.

Winter Club Splash to Be Held Today.

Several boys and girls in Lake Forest this evening will be proudly showing off medals won this afternoon at the annual Winter club big splash. Gold, silver, and bronze medals with the figure of a swimmer or a diver on the surface will be awarded as first, second, and third prizes in the various swimming and diving events, and they will be well deserved by the winners, for, with 75 contestants, the competition should be keen.

The medals are the same that the club usually awards. The boys' are made to be worn in the lapel button hole, and the girls' medals are worn like pins.

The carnival will start at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon unless the weather is too inclement, and there will be a good gallery of parents watching the fun. After the swimming and diving events are over every one will be served orangeade and wafers in the clubhouse.

Among the few young women in society who have preferred careers to making debuts is Miss Alma Louise Acher, daughter of Mrs. Ernest G. Kilroe of Lake Forest. After finishing at Holton Arms in Washington about two years ago Miss Acher went to New York to study drama at the Neighborhood playhouse, skipping debut formalities and parties entirely, and now after a year and a half of study she is playing the part of Agnes in Harry Bannister's company of "The "Drunkard," the old time melodrama that has been playing recently and simultaneously in several cities from coast to coast.

Miss Acher is making a great success of her rôle, and after the play closes, which may be around the end of the summer, she will come to Lake Forest for a few weeks with her family.

Her younger sister, Miss Mary Acher, is at home now from Holton Arms. She will finish her schooling there next June and will be a debutante the following season. Another Lake Forest debutante-to-be who is a student at the same school is Adelaide Chatfield-Taylor, the Wayne Chatfield-Taylors' daughter.

Harriett Street to Be Debutante.

Another name to add to the debutante list is that of Miss Harriett Street, the youngest daughter of Mrs. Harry Lockman Street of Winnetka and the fourth debutante of the family. Miss Street has completed her first year at Vassar and will return in the fall for her sophomore year.

She will be presented to society at a tea during the Christmas holidays in town, as Mrs. Street and her daughters are planning to occupy the same Astor street apartment this winter that they did last year when Miss Marjorie Street made her debut.

The Thomas Hunter Knorrs (Jeanné Street) have returned from their wedding trip and are at home for the summer with Mrs. Street. Mrs. Knorr will spend the next few weeks looking for an apartment on the near north side, to which she and Mr. Knorr will move in October when Mrs. Street comes in town.

Chicagoans Leave on Cruise Saturday.

A. Watson Armour III. is going with the James Simpsons and their son, William Simpson, for a cruise in Norwegian waters, sailing with them on the Empress of Britain Saturday from Quebec. Mrs. Bertram M. Winston and her daughter, Miss Muriel Winston, are sailing on the same steamer, to be away about six weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. David B. Gann, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney T. Richards, and Robert E. Shaw will be among other Chicagoans aboard the Empress. Mr. Shaw, who lives in Oak Park, plans to travel around the world and will be at home again Jan. 1.

The Arthur Sweetzers of Geneva, Switzerland, and their children, who have been visiting Mrs. Sweetzer's mother, Mrs. Robert B. Gregory, leave this morning for a ranch out west, where they will spend the next five or six weeks. Mrs. Gregory is sailing for Europe for three months in her chalet at Geneva.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

All set for the World's Fair?

All of you boys and girls who've been invited as my guests had better put on your best bibs and tuckers and be at our meting place promptly today. I've only two "don'ts" for you. . . . Don't forget your invitations and don't be late! We've so many, many things to see and do that we can't waste a minute getting started, and we'll move so fast that if you get left behind at the gate I don't think you'll ever catch up with us.

Now, about our Brookfield party! Today's the last day you can possibly mail your letter if it's to reach me by Thursday morning, so if you haven't already written it, get a move on!

You know I'm going to take 50 boys and 50 girls out to Brookfield to see the beautiful new zoo there. We'll have a grand ride out there in two of the big buses owned by the Chicago Motor Coach company, see the animals, monkeys, the bear cubs, the snakes, the birds—O, just all kinds of interesting creatures—have some refreshments, and then enjoy a cool, comfortable ride back to Chicago. It's going to be one of the nicest parties of the season, and if you want to come along, write and tell me so. I'll pick the boys and girls who seem most anxious to be included, and you just might be one of those, if you have that letter with your name, address and age on my desk by tomorrow morning. I'll read them all, and the winners will find their names listed in next Sunday's TRIBUNE. The address is Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

BY MARY MEADE.

Trouble in Wisconsin! Mrs. F. P. has a salad dressing which curdles after it's made. It contains butter, sour cream, eggs, seasonings, and vinegar. What can be the trouble?

Since Mrs. P. sent us the ingredients but not her method, the difficulty may be a little hard to ferret out. We are sometimes careless with these sour cream dressings, in putting the cream and the acid together correctly. On the other hand, frequently we oversour the cream and the acid called for is just too much for it to take care of. So, to be on the safe side and at the same time to pass on for all a grand cooked cream recipe I know, I'm going to correct Mrs. P.'s mistake by substituting another similar recipe together with its method.

Soured Cream Dressing.

1 cup soured cream
3 eggs, well beaten
2 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoons mustard
½ cup vinegar
¼ teaspoon salt
Dashes of pepper and paprika
2 tablespoons butter

Carefully mix together the cream and eggs in the top of a double boiler. Combine the sugar, mustard, vinegar, and seasonings. Stir this mixture slowly into the cream and eggs and mix thoroughly. Place over boiling water and cook until thick, stirring steadily. Then add the butter and cook about 5 minutes longer. This savory dressing may be cooled and used at once, or it may be bottled and kept for months in the refrigerator.

Then another neat little tip we've just browsed across. Doesn't it just slay you to have to get out the meat grinder when the recipe calls for a half-cup of nut meats, or take time out to whack them up by hand, with all the attendant stains and nicks? Then mourn no longer. For now on the market we find a bright young gadget which is tickled ivory [with a floral design, if you please] to do the trick for you. It is small, reminds one of the old type coffee mills, has a little enameled box into which the nuts drop, and a handle to crank them through the cutting teeth into the glass receptacle below. The glass easily unscrews from the grinder and out dump the nuts, nobly chopped. Raisins, certain candies, and a number of other small items are likewise meat for that they didn't think to make the glass into a real measuring cup, with lines to indicate quarters and halves. But maybe they'll come to that. Or, if you're ingenious, just pour in ¼ cup of water and make a straight line on the glass with a little enamel paint; another ¼ cup and another line for the halfway mark, and so on.

Now a query from Mrs. T. L. E.: "Just what is the margarine on the market," she asks, "and is it all right to use it as an economy measure in place of butter in cooking?"

Which brings up an interesting subject too few folks know about. Margarine, like butter, is made from pure, wholesome, and palatable ingredients. There are two types of margarine on the market, one made from vegetable oils and one from animal fats. There are also some margarines which are made from a combination of animal and vegetable fats.

From the standpoint of shortening there is little practical difference between butter and margarine, providing each contains approximately the same amount of pure fat per pound of product, as they usually do. This means that the two are equal, on the whole, in the amount of energy food they give us and the action they have in our baked products.

The matter of vitamins in butter and margarines is something else again. Butter we know to be rich in vitamin A [the one which promotes growth and general resistance to disease]. Also it is supplied with the anti-richitic vitamin D, which protects against weak and misshapen bones and dental trouble. On the other hand, only the animal fat margarines churned in whole milk are equal to butter in vitamin A content. The margarine made from coconut oil has a very slim amount of this vitamin. As for vitamin D, tests show that at least one margarine on the market [made from oleo-oil-lard-milk] is even superior to butter in content of vitamin D.

So there you have it. If you use an animal fat margarine to replace part or all of the butter in cooking or table use the nutrition problem need not bother you. If you use a margarine made of vegetable oils, deficient in vitamin A, you must balance the loss by teasing into the meals added amounts of foods supplied with that vitamin: milk, cheese, eggs, liver, and leafy vegetables.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

SLAM TRIES WHEN PARTNER HAS OPENED WITH ONE NO-TRUMP.

Yesterday I discussed the bidding of this hand:

Sp. ——— Dl. A x x x
Hts. K Q x x x Cl. K Q x x

when partner has opened with one no-trump. I explained why I would make the jump take-out of three hearts with the hand as given here, but if the club holding were changed to K J x x I would advise a first take-out of only two hearts, with the intention of initiating a slam try at a later stage of the bidding.

With the three positive primary tricks in the hand here shown, the slam should be reached. It must be a better than even chance even if the opener's hand lacks reserve values. Give him as little as

Sp. K Q x Dl. Q 10 x x
Hts. A x x Cl. A x x

and I would gladly take my chance of losing only one trick in the diamond suit. Opponents have to lead, do they not? And after I have played out my clubs and hearts, will their discarding have been so perfect that they will avoid a squeeze or an end play? Why should I not deduce or even guess the location of the king and jack of diamonds?

Sometimes Your Partner Need Not Sign Off.

I have assumed in the last few articles that the opening bidder denies possession of three aces, responding to the take-out with three no-trumps. If he should hold three aces, his response will be four no-trumps—but the round of bidding thus lost will not be needed, as with four aces between you the time factor is under complete control, and the slam must be virtually certain. Risk of duplication vanishes when you hold a void, as the two losers in your K Q x x suit will go on the ace of that suit and the ace of the void suit.

Again, when the responding hand holds two aces and can also make a jump suit take-out, the round of bidding lost by the second jump bid can well be spared, as the opening bidder now knows he has no reason to sign off unless he himself holds only one ace and his hand is such a minimum that he fears a second trick may be lost in addition to the missing ace, although his partner has the requisites for a jump suit take-out.

Four Tournament Play.

I have described what I find the safest and most precise manner for bidding big hands of the types discussed, from the point of view of reaching reasonable slams, stopping short of doubtful ones, and selecting the safer declaration when there is a choice. Of these three objectives the last one applies somewhat differently in tournament play. For that reason you may observe tournament players handling the bidding slightly differently and sacrificing soundness and safety for a higher trick score.

We try to play as many hands as we can in no-trumps if we deduce from the bidding that the same number of tricks will be lost in both no-trumps and the best suit bid.

Frequently in a tournament we will sign off at four no-trumps where in a rubber game such a course would be unpardonable, and the sign off at game in a suit would be obligatory. This is a matter of match play technique, which sometimes compels one to be unsound if one would reach out for a brilliant result. You are not then sacrificing a sure game for a doubtful slam or, greater crime, for an attempt to grab five or fifteen points more per trick; you are abandoning acceptance of a tied score with, say, two-thirds of the field for the hope of picking off a top which only one or two other pairs are likely to share with you.

If you fail your resulting low score will be in good company, but the more cautious pairs will not beat you by the measure between top and bottom. They will be dividing nearly all the match points available among themselves, so that each of them will gain only a little on you. The only time when you will suffer the difference between top and bottom will be when another player ventures the same bold bid that you did, but fulfills the contract whereas you fail. If his success is due to better play on his part he deserves the advantage obtained. If it resulted from less skilful defense by his opponents, accept the result gracefully and without indignation. Your turn will come on another hand when the breaks will be against him and in your favor. That is where the luck of tournament play comes in.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Honestly, what do you think of spinach? Just between you and me, without letting the children hear?

I'll tell you what I think—I think it's a temperatmental vegetable. There are times when, cooked just a few minutes, it's as good as it can be. Or creamed a little or served in a ring with mushrooms sometimes it's delicious. But sometimes, no matter how tactfully you handle it, spinach is just so acrid that it puckers your mouth all up and you can hardly eat it.

When you can't really finish a portion yourself, it's unreasonable to expect the children to. I don't belong to the "clean your plate or no dessert" school. I believe that you have to be a little human about the children's eating. I believe that lots of mealtime troubles would never arise if a certain "sweet reasonableness" existed in the parents' minds as far as the children's relation to their food was concerned.

I know from experience that this is true. People too often expect a child always to have the same degree of appetite, the same capacity, and to take all foods equally well at all times. A little leeway is a good thing.

Another factor which helps to prevent aversions to food is a normal degree of variety—variety not only in menu but in preparation. To be sure, the smaller the child the smaller his range of foods and the more limited one is in ways of cooking it. But with good management there need not be great monotony. There are things one can do—carrots can be stripped lengthwise or cut in thin little rings, or riced, or riced with hot milk and cream added and served in a bouillon cup. Rice may be brown or white, cooked Chinese fashion or baked with cheese and buttered bread-crums, like macaroni.

Celery cut small and creamed is a delicious vegetable. Eggs can be served as parsley omelette or bacon omelette or Spanish omelette or jam or jelly omelette. A vegetable dinner should always be planned with an eye to color—good contrasts seem to take care of the food values. Food appeals by appearance and appetizing preparation to children as well as to grownups.

There are tricks in every trade.

DENIS SULLIVAN CHOSEN HEAD OF CRIMINAL COURT

Joseph B. David Elected Assistant Chief Justice.

Acting Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan of the Superior court was elected chief justice of the Criminal court yesterday at a meeting of the judges who have been assigned to that court from the Superior and Circuit benches. Judge Joseph B. David, also of the Superior court, was elected assistant chief justice of the Circuit court. Their terms are for one year, starting Labor day.

The election meeting was brief. Superior Judges Walter P. Steffen and Harry B. Miller, both Republicans, who had been mentioned for the office of chief justice, voted for Judge Sullivan, a Democrat. They explained that they were most of all interested in the harmonious conduct of the court and the consequent speeding up of justice.

Thirteen Judges Present.

It was reported that there were only two dissenting votes in the election of Judge Sullivan. Present at the meeting in the office of the present chief justice, Philip J. Finnegan, were the following judges, in addition to those mentioned: Walter J. La Buy, Cornelius J. Harrington, and William V. Brothers of the Circuit court, and Charles A. Williams, Michael L. McKinley, Donald S. McKinlay, John C. Lewe, and Grover C. Niemeyer of the Superior court. Judge Hugo M. Friend of the Circuit court was unable to appear, but sent his proxy.

After Labor day there will be 13 judges in the Criminal court, which is more than the usual number. With this force, law enforcement authorities said, the new chief justice will be able to carry out his announced intention of swift and sure justice. Judge Sullivan issued this statement:

"At this time, when crime is rampant throughout the nation, I consider the Criminal court of Cook county the most important branch of our government.

"A citizen of this community has a right to expect and demand protection of his life, liberty, and property, which the law guarantees.

For Protection of Citizens.

"It should be remembered that the Criminal court is an institution by which society protects itself from the criminal, as well as a forum in which the innocent are freed from unfounded charges.

"A Criminal court, in order to be effective within the law, should furnish a speedy and fair trial to both state and defendant.

"Probation is a means provided by law of reclaiming and returning to the road of probity and good citizenship those who manifest a continuing desire to be aided in their return to an upright life.

"I strongly favor the selected grading of prisoners. Nothing but evil can result from housing first offenders with hardened criminals, and whilst every effort should be made to rescue the first offender from continuing a life of crime, if possible, by the same logic there is no reason why a man who has demonstrated he is determined to life a life of crime should ever be returned to society."

GAMBLING ROW IS STIRRED UP IN LAKE COUNTY

State's Attorney Charles E. Mason of Lake county was criticized in a resolution introduced at a meeting of the county board of supervisors in Waukegan yesterday for alleged failure to curb gambling, especially slot machines.

The resolution, sponsored by Assistant Supervisor Walter H. Diesner and concurred in by eight of his colleagues, charged among other things that Mr. Mason had returned to the owners 44 slot machines he had seized in a raid a year ago.

Prosecutor Mason charged that politics was the motive for the attack. The resolution, which was referred to the judiciary committee of the board, referred to slot machines reputedly owned by George [Bugs] Moran and Leo Mongovan, gangsters, Mason said. He declared that the machines are still in his possession and have not been returned.

SLASHER OF GIRL RELIEF WORKER GETS 1-14 YEARS

Andrew Guerriero, 46 years old, 831 South Laflin street, who on May 12 slashed with a razor a relief worker, Miss Frances Allen, 26 years old, was found guilty yesterday of assault with intent to murder by a jury before Judge Harry B. Miller in the Criminal court.

Judge Miller overruled a motion for a new trial and immediately sentenced Guerriero to serve one to fourteen years in prison. He will be taken to Joliet penitentiary on Monday.

HER FORTUNE FADES, SO DOES PROPHET OF DOUBLE WEALTH

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—It was the same old handkerchief game gypsies have played for generations with other people's money, but Miss Emily Churchward fell for the trick with $14,000, her life's savings, according to her story as told to the police today.

Miss Churchward, middle aged, who lives in a small flat at Hollis, N. Y., met a gypsy fortune teller last spring. Reading Miss Churchward's palm, the fortune teller announced she could double her customer's money.

Miss Churchward withdrew her $14,000 from a bank and the gypsy woman wrapped it in a handkerchief. If Miss Churchward wore that tied handkerchief, unopened for three months, the money would double. Obeying the occult orders, Miss Churchward found $23 in bills and sixteen strips of newspaper. The gypsy woman had moved from the store where she had told fortunes.

HOW MUCH MORE CHEERY A PRISON COULD BE MADE!

Joliet Convicts Have Some Bright Ideas.

Just lift the average intelligence of the guards at the Joliet state penitentiary, provide the cells with inner-spring mattresses, and install a gymnasium and swimming pool and the convicts will be satisfied.

That at least was the gist of a letter which Warden Frank Whipp found on his desk yesterday morning.

From the Class of '45.

The letter was signed by the "Class of '45" and pointed out that, since plans were being drawn for a new $2,000,000 prison, it might be just as well to go the whole way with the modernistic ideas.

"The intellectual plane of the institution," the letter said, "would be immeasurably uplifted to the resultant benefit of the inmates thereof, if the guards were required to pass an intelligence test.

"Furthermore, since, with the lack of work in the shops of the penitentiary, we spend about one-half of our time sleeping, it would be logical for the state to provide inner-spring mattresses instead of the hard ones now in use."

For Murals and Things.

The letter also mentioned the "cold, gray prison walls" which are frequently spoken of in fiction. It was suggested that the walls were getting pretty monotonous, and it might be a good idea to have some artist paint landscapes and things on them.

An improved radio loud speaker system, to allow the convicts to learn more about what the Cubs were doing, was also recommended.

Warden Whipp said he was past being surprised about anything that happened in the prison, so he wasn't going to make any effort to find out who wrote the letter. He did say he would think over the suggestions and see if anything could be done about them.

ROGALSKI GOES TOMORROW FOR 10 YEARS' PRISON

Preparations were completed yesterday for sending George Rogalski, 14 years old, who was convicted of kidnaping Dorette Zietlow, 2 years old, to the penitentiary tomorrow to serve his 10 year sentence. The girl died of exposure and her almost lifeless body was found in an abandoned livery stable.

Assistant State's Attorney Richard Regan, who prosecuted the case prepared yesterday his letter of recommendation, which becomes part of the mittimus on which the youth is held at the penitentiary. Rogalski's stay of mittimus expired yesterday.

"It is the recommendation of our office," Mr. Regan wrote in his letter to the prison authorities, "that the boy be given a chance to develop educationally, that he be kept separate from the influence of other prisoners, and that after he has reached maturity without displaying moronic tendencies, he be returned to society. It is our desire that he be examined by Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, our psychiatrist, before he is released."

TESTIFIES RENO RING TOUGH AS WELL AS SUAVE

Victim Avers They Used Gangster Tactics.

New York, July 10.—[Special.]—Reinhold Hermel, foreman of a knitting factory in Buffalo, N. Y., testified today in federal court that Reno confidence men, who had used suave methods in swindling other victims, had resorted to the common tactics of gangsters in robbing him of $24,000 three years ago.

Hermel, like other witnesses, was called by the government in an attempt to show that James C. McKay and William J. Graham, gaming house proprietors, and John Egelston, their alleged confederate, were leaders of the confidence ring.

The ring, many of whose alleged leaders have been indicted in other jurisdictions, is said to have fleeced forty-two victims of more than $1,000,000 during the last year, operating from Reno, where the Riverside bank was used to effect transactions of money.

Used Old Pocketbook Trick.

Hermel testified that Henry Schuyler and John Darnell, both fugitives, had struck up an acquaintance with him in Los Angeles, winning his confidence by means of the old pocketbook trick.

The two men took him to Reno and induced him to convert his bonds into cash so that all three could collect winnings on a horse, which Schuyler and Darnell said, they had played. The bookmaker, it was explained, could not pay unless he were shown that the gamblers could have paid the bet had they lost.

The factory foreman became suspicious, however, and declined to part with his money. Some one, he said, gave him a cigar in a Reno resort. He took one or two puffs, then "passed out." When he recovered consciousness, he testified, he was on a train for Buffalo, and his money was gone.

Contrasts with Gilsdorf Story.

This testimony came in contrast to the story told by Edward W. Gilsdorf, 70 year old Chicagoan, who was bilked of $150,000, the amount he contributed so that larger but imaginary race tracks winnings could be collected.

The men who fleeced him, he said, enacted a dramatic scene when one learned that the other bet on the wrong horse.

"I ought to blow out your brains," said one to the other. "Get out of town before I do."

The other man skulked off shamefacedly while his confederate, turning to Gilsdorf, wrote out a check for the amount of the loss.

James Mawhinney, a section foreman of Saskatchewan, told how members of the same ring had relieved him of $35,000, all the money he had saved.

Then Katherine K. Beeson of Uniontown, Pa., and Mrs. Mary E. Callahan of Rochester, N. Y., who have testified here at the trial of other defendants, repeated the story of how they lost $171,000 and $141,000, respectively.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

JAILED FOR BARRICADE BATTLE.

Joseph Arlauski, 21 years old, who exchanged shots with police squads after barricading himself in his home at 1407 Marquette road, was sentenced to six months in the Bridewell and fined $25 by Judge Alfred O. Erickson yesterday.

AMERICAN LEAGUE WINS ALL-STAR GAME, 9-7

PEACE CHANCE MAY BE OUT OF CLASSIC STAKE

Colt Suffers Knee Injury.

BY FRENCH LANE.

There is a possibility that Peace Chance, the Belmont Stakes winner from Joseph E. Widener's barn, may not be able to take issue with Cavalcade in the renewal of the $45,000 Classic stakes at Arlington Park on Saturday afternoon.

After numerous mysterious visits of a veterinarian to Peace Chance's stall yesterday morning announcement came in midafternoon from Pete Coyne, the Widener trainer, that Peace Chance was suffering from a slightly wrenched knee. Peace Chance, according to Trainer Coyne, suffered the injury during the night in his stall. It was not discovered until yesterday morning.

Injury Not Serious.

"The injury is not serious," the trainer of Peace Chance declared late yesterday. "Peace Chance is 100 per cent better now than he was at daybreak this morning and if he continues to improve he will start in the Classic. He doesn't need much more work for the race and if we can ask him for a final gallop on Thursday morning he will be fit to go in Saturday's race."

The injury to Peace Chance, the colt that lately has come to be regarded as Cavalcade's most dangerous foe among the 3 year olds, added much excitement to the day's racing at Arlington Park yesterday.

Trainer Bob Smith waited until yesterday morning's downpour had subsided before he brought Cavalcade out for his final Classic drill. It was 11 o'clock when he appeared on the track and only a few railbirds were present when Cavalcade broke in front of the stand and continued to quicken his pace until he had run a mile and a quarter.

Cavalcade Works in Mud.

He completed the first half mile in 50 seconds and went the three-quarters in 1:15 3-5. He was only loafing despite the track conditions. The running strip was deep in sloppy mud. Cavalcade speeded up a bit at this stage and was at the mile in 1:40 4-5. He reached the mile and a furlong in 1:54 4-5 and was fighting for his head as he finished out the mile and a quarter in 2:08 4-5.

He wasn't under pressure at any stage of the drill and it demonstrated once again that Cavalcade is just as good in muddy going as he is at a lightning fast track. That's one of the things that make him a great horse. He doesn't huve to carry his own tailor made race track around with him.

Between the running of the first and second races, Discovery was brought out to gallop a mile and a quarter. He was running in the kind of going which he is supposed to like best, yet his move was not as impressive as that of Cavalcade.

Discovery's Time Slower.

With Joe Bejshak, his regular rider in the saddle, Discovery traveled over the mile and a quarter route in 2:11 3-5. The clockers said he was just breezing all the way. He was at the half in :52 3-5, the three-quarters in 1:19 1-5, and the mile in 1:45 1-5.

Young Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt is quite confident Discovery will turn the tables on Cavalcade in the Classic and word reached the Arlington offices that he will travel here in his private car to see the race run. He will be accompanied by Herbert Bayard Swope, a member of the New York racing commission, who will present the trophy to the owner of the Classic winner. The trophy is a handsome antique made in England more than 100 years ago.

New Deal, Thomasville, Riskulus, Howard, Bein Fait, Plight, and two or three others still are numbered among the starting field in the Classic.

YANKEE DEFEATS RAINBOW FOR 2D TIME IN SERIES

Newport, R. I., July 10.—(AP)—Yankee, Boston's aspirant for the honor of defending the America's cup, today soundly trounced Rainbow. Harold S. Vanderbilt's newly constructed candidate, leading her around a 28½ mile triangle by 5 minutes and 27 seconds.

It was the second time in the trial series that Yankee has beaten Rainbow.

The Boston boat's victory was especially convincing because she got off to a poor start. She came to the starting line prematurely and was forced to run down it, leaving the windward berth to her rival.

In spite of this disadvantage, Yankee's skipper, Charles Francis Adams, drove her through Rainbow's lee to round a torpedo range buoy off Sakonnet, marking the end of the first leg of 8½ miles, 2 minutes and 17 seconds in the lead.

Yankee increased her lead to 3 minutes and 32 seconds on the 13 miles to the whistling buoy off Point Judith and added almost two minutes to it on the seven miles back to the finish line.

RamageWhips Rosenbloom in Ten Rounds; Nontitle

Los Angeles, Cal., July 10.—(AP)—Lee Ramage, San Diego, gave Maxie Rosenbloom a beating in 10 rounds before 5,100 tonight.

Talking It Over

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, July 10.—[Special.]—The president of every club in the major leagues except J. Louis Comiskey of the White Sox and Louis B. Von Weise of the St. Louis Browns was in attendance at the second annual All Star game today. . . . The American league magnates occupied front tier boxes along the third base side of the field and the National league executives were grouped in similar positions between first base and the plate. . . . The park was gayly decorated with red, white, and blue bunting around the upper and lower boxes. . . . Billy Herman of the Cubs had the unusual experience of substituting twice in the same game. . . . He batted for Hubbell in the third inning and replaced Frisch at second base in the eighth. . . . Herman smashed a double along the left field foul line in the last of the ninth, the only hit off Pitcher Harder in the five innings he worked. . . . Permission to substitute the same player twice was a special ruling for today's game. . . .

It required almost three hours to complete the game, but every one remained until the last batter had been retired. . . . This probably was the most enthusiastic crowd in baseball history. . . . From the moment Charlie Gehringer, the first batter, stepped to the plate there was a constant roar from the fans. . . . Although it had been announced no standing room would be sold, there were apparently several thousand in the ailes and in the rear of the grand stand seats. . . . More than 15,000 were turned away unable to obtain tickets at the last moment. . . .

The National league's board of strategy [Bill Terry, Frankie Frisch, and Pie Traynor] called time out to talk things over in the first inning after Gehringer had doubled and Manush had walked. . . . This brought up Babe Ruth, who has a habit of making good in such gaudy settings as today's. . . . But this time he failed to scramble the eggs, falling a victim of Hubbell's strikeout ball. . . . The National league infielders and outfielders did not make an assist or putout in the first two innings. . . . Hubbell struck out six. . . . He disposed of Ruth, Gehrig, and Foxx in order in the first and started the second by fanning Simmons and Cronin. . . . Dickey broke Hubbell's spell with a single, but the Giants' great southpaw came right back by whiffing Gomez. . . . It was one of the most brilliant pitching feats in history, considering the caliber of batsmen Hubbell was facing. . . .

Gabby Hartnett made a wonderful catch of Joe Cronin's pop foul in the fifth inning. . . . The ball traveled only about 10 feet in the air, and it didn't seem that Gabby had a chance to get under it. . . . He managed to stick out his mitt and bat the ball into the air, catching it as it came down. . . . Mrs. Lon Warneke and Mrs. Bud Tinning, wives of Cub pitchers, were among the most enthusiastic National league supporters. . . . Members of both teams appeared in the uniforms they wear with their own clubs. . . . Last year at the first All Star game the National league equipped its players with special suits. . . . Trainer Andy Lothsaw of the Cubs saw to it that the Chicago players had new white socks. . . .

Cronin's decision to play Jimmy Foxx at third base fooled nearly every one. . . . Jimmy Dykes of the White Sox received the most votes for the position in the fans' poll, but Cronin announced a few days ago he planned to use Frank Higgins of the Athletics. . . . Dykes had no ill feeling toward Cronin because he kept him on the bench. . . . "It is honor enough to have received such a fine vote," Jimmy said. . . . "Higgins is a great third baseman, but I was glad to see Foxx get a chance to take part. He is one of the all time greats of baseball, but, due to Lou Gehrig's ability and prestige, he had no chance to play his normal position, so I am happy Cronin shifted him to third," Dykes added. . . .

Christy Mathewson Jr., son of the famous old Giant pitcher, was scheduled to undergo an operation today, but he could not resist the desire to attend the big game and ordered the operation postponed until tomorrow. . . . Mrs. John McGraw, widow of John J., who managed the National League All Stars last year, came up from Baltimore to see the league unveil a tablet in honor of her husband's memory. . . . It stands over the clubhouse entrance. . . . A thief stole two suitcases and a zipper bag out of her automobile a few hours before the game. . . . Traynor and Frisch waited at the plate to shake Joe Medwick's hand after his home run into the left field stands scored three runs for the National leaguers in the third. . . . Frisch had walked and Traynor had singled before Medwick gave the ball a ride. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Harridge will motor back to Chicago with Dr. and Mrs. M. J. Caveney of Park Ridge. . . . Mr. Harridge, president of the American league, probably was the happiest man in the park. . . . It was due largely to his whole hearted support that THE TRIBUNE was able to arrange and promote the first All Star game in Chicago last summer. . . .

Sitting with the Harridges were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Shibe of the Philadelphia Athletics, Jake Ruppert of the Yankees, and Clark Griffith of the Senators. . . . Commissioner K. M. Landis said the cooling system on the train he took to New York was working so effectively he caught a cold . . . The receipts today were approximately $4,000 less than for the game at Comiskey park last year, when $56,250 was taken in at the gate. . . . The profit to the fund for disabled and destitute players was enriched by $46,000 last year. . . . It was interesting to observe that Bill Terry, who has been unpopular with most of the baseball writers, received more votes in the fans' poll than any player in either league. . . . More than twice as many votes were cast last year, when THE TRIBUNE and associated newspapers conducted the poll, as this year, under the auspices of the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers' association. . . . This year's vote was principally from the metropolitan district, whereas last year it covered the nation. . . .

Today's game marked the 300th anniversary of organized sport in New York. It was in 1634 that greens were leased at the Battery for bowling. . . . The 1935 All Star game is expected to be played in Cleveland, and Boston is favored for the 1936 contest. . . . The only clubs which were not represented on the field today were the Reds and the Phillies of the National league. . . . In addition to donating the field, the Giants turned over their working organization free of charge, just as the White Sox did a year ago. . . . More than 150 newspaper writers from outside New York covered the game. . . . The following National league players who took part in the first All Star game were missing today: Chick Hafey, Dick Bartell, Tony Cuccinello, Jimmy Wilson, Frank O'Doul, Bill Hallahan, and Woody English. . . . The stars of the American league have proved more durable . . . Only three of the 1933 players [Lefty Grove, Alvin Crowder, and Tony Lazzeri] were absent today. . . .

Ten years ago today—Paavo Nurmi of Finland won two Olympic races, the 1,500 and 5,000 meter runs. . . . Black Gold, Kentucky Derby winner, won the Chicago Derby trial in the mud. . . . Babe Ruth hit his 23d home run as the Yankees beat the White Sox twice. . . . William Tilden reached the semi-final round of the National clay court tournament by defeating Robert Kinsey.

Laud Harder for Great Pitching.

New York, July 10.—(AP)—The American league all-star baseball players cried for beer today after they had scored their second victory over a hand picked team of National league stars.

Using a two hand grip on his bottle of beer, Joe Cronin, the manager of the Washington Senators and pilot of the American league forces, took a big swallow and then launched into a eulogy.

"The boys were real hustlers. Every blooming one of them," he said. "They won the ball game and the manager had little to do with it. My one regret is that I wasn't able to use every man on the squad."

Johnson Lauds Harder.

"Nice work, Mel," the players chorused.

Walter Johnson, once the big train of baseball and now manager of the Cleveland Indians, elbowed his way through the crowd around Harder and said:

"You pitched like a real veteran today. I'm mighty proud of you."

Cronin overheard the remark and spoke with a great deal of feeling as he gave Johnson, who coached for the Americans at first base, at least half the credit for the victory.

"Walter, I owe you a great deal of thanks," Joe said. And then Cronin explained that when Johnson planned to pitch Harder against the White Sox a few days ago, he pleaded with the Indian manager to keep Mel fresh for the all-star game.

Hubbell Is Hero.

"I figured we'd need some mighty fine pitching for the last innings," Cronin said, "and Harder sure gave us some." Harder, who entered the game in the fifth inning and limited the Nationals to one hit, said he "just mixed them up, that's all."

Second to the Americans' joy over their victory was their admiration for Carl Hubbell, the Giants' southpaw ace, who held them to two hits, a walk and struck out six in three innings. A few of the comments on his feat were:

Cronin: "He's the greatest pitcher I ever faced. He can throw the ball through a knothole."

Ben Chapman: "It was worth the price of admission alone to see him strike out Ruth, Gehrig, and Foxx."

No Joy Next Door.

Next door, in the National league dressing room, there was tomblike silence. Bill Terry, the Giants' manager and boss of the National stars, summed it up with the remark: "It was Joe Cronin's day and he deserved it."

The general feeling was that today's defeat was just a temporary setback for the Nationals and that they would make up for it in the world series.

ONLY HUBBELL, HARDER SILENCE SLUGGERS' BATS

Nationals Helpless Against Indian.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 10.—Joe Cronin this afternoon saw his American league All Stars defeat Bill Terry's pick of the National league, 9 to 7, before a crowd of 48,363 at the Polo grounds, a crowd which paid $52,982 to help baseball charity and see a fine show.

It wasn't complete revenge for what Terry's New York Giants did to Cronin's Washington Senators in the last world series, but it was better entertainment than the world series and attracted more customers than any of the interleague games last fall.

Both attendance and receipts were somewhat under the totals of the Game of the Century in Chicago last year, but the New Yorkers claimed 15,000 were turned away.

Hubbell in Great Form.

The game, the second annual all-star spectacle in the history of the major leagues, started as if the Nationals were going to check off the 4 to 2 defeat they suffered last year. Carl Hubbell, the great left hander of the New York Giants, gave a dazzling exhibition of pitching before leaving the game after three innings with a 4 to 0 lead.

The first two batters reached base off Hubbell and then the pitcher who is regarded as the best in the National league gave the crowd reason to become hysterical. First, Babe Ruth of the New York Yankees was called out on strikes. Then his slugging teammate, Lou Gehrig, went down swinging at the tantalizing ball Hubbell was throwing.

The two dangerous sluggers were out of the way, but up came Jimmy Foxx of the Philadelphia Athletics, home run king of the majors, who was playing third base. Could Hubbell strike three of baseball's greatest sluggers in a row? Hubbell answered this question with three strikes for the great Foxx. That retired the side.

He's Far from Through.

Hubbell was far from through exhibiting his strikeout ability against the American league's best hitters. Al Simmons of the White Sox was the first American league hitter in the second inning.

Simmons went the way of the other sluggers and then Manager Cronin fanned to make it five strikeouts in a row for the lean Giant left hander. Bill Dickey, the Yankee catcher, waved helplessly at one pitch, but with two strikes and one ball called on him he broke the sequence of strikeouts with a single to left. Gomez then went out on strikes.

Hubbell concluded his assignment without any more trouble than a base on balls to Ruth in the third inning, but the achievement of personally accounting for the first six outs on strikes against the most potent members of the American league cast will live long in the memories of the crowd.

Warneke, Mungo Ineffective.

With Hubbell on the sidelines at the start of the fourth inning, Lon Warneke of the Cubs was called in to protect the four run margin that home runs had given the New York southpaw. Warneke had difficulty locating the plate and during his first inning the American leaguers pounded him for two runs.

When Warneke walked the first two batters in the fifth, Van Lingle Mungo, fast ball pitcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was assigned to restore order. He, too, was ineffective. The American league team scored six runs before the inning was over and all the damage was done.

The solace National leaguers may derive probably will come from speculation on what would have happened if Hubbell had pitched straight through.

Another hero of the game was Melvin Leroy Harder, 25 year old Nebraskan of the Cleveland Indians, whose only votes in the nation-wide poll were sent in by his relatives in Beemer, Neb., and a few neighbors in Cleveland. Harder stepped in to pitch after the National leaguers had launched a three run attack on Charley Ruffing, successor to Vernon Gomez, also of the New York Yankees, before a man had been retired in the fifth inning. Mel retired the side and did not allow a hit until Billy Herman of the Cubs doubled with one out in the ninth. Herman never got past second.

When Harder stopped the National leaguers in the fifth they had the tying run on second and the run that would have put them ahead on first. This should give you some idea of the kind of a stopper Harder turned out to be.

Cardinals Do Well.

The first six National league runs were solely the production of St. Louis Cardinals, with the exception of some fill-in assistance by Pie Traynor, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates. The first run of the game was manufactured when Frankie Frisch, St. Louis Cardinal manager, cracked Gomez's second pitch for a homer. The next three came when Frisch walked with two out in the third, Traynor singled, and Joe Medwick of the Cardinals knocked a homer.

Pepper Martin, the third scoring Cardinal, furnished the fifth run after walking in the start of Ruffing's fadeout in the fifth inning. He went to third on Frisch's single and scored on

GOLF TEACHERS PICK OUT PUPILS FOR MEDAL PLAY

Prize Winners Named in Tribune School.

One hundred and fourteen prize scholars of THE TRIBUNE'S second annual free golf school, best of an original enrollment of 23,000 men, women and children, were chosen last night on the nineteen member courses of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association, which has conducted the school for the last five weeks.

Each course named six, one each in the men's, women's, boys' and girls' classes, and two in the couples' division, and competition at several of the courses was so keen that in a number of cases, it required a half dozen swinging tests between those to whom the field had narrowed down before the winner was decided.

All of last night's winners will receive a playing membership entitling them to the privileges of the course at which they were chosen for the balance of the season. These prize pupils will continue competition in the first of the school's finals, an eighteen hole medal play tournament from scratch to be played Saturday at Mission Hills, located at Sanders and Techny roads, near Northbrook.

Form Competition July 19.

They will come together for the last time on Thursday night, July 19, in a form competition to be judged by Horton Smith, Harry Cooper, Tommy Armour, Frank Walsh, Jock Hutchison, and Dick Metz. More prizes will be awarded for these two finals by THE TRIBUNE and the Daily Fee association.

Families scored twice in the individual judging last night, a mother and son winning at Golfmoor, and a father and son at Chicago Meadows. Les MacArthur and Joe Chamberlain of the latter course, named Will Tuttle, an accountant, of 7011 Lowe avenue, and his son, Billy, the winners. At Golfmoor, a jury composed of George Knox of Calumet, Jack Patterson of Midlothian, and Bruce Herd of South Shore chose Mrs. Lillian Sandquist, 7612 Saginaw, and her 11 year old son, Jerry, the victors.

SMITTY—DID YOU EVER SEE A DREAM RUNNING?

Miss Anderson Advances in Junior Golf

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

First round meetings between the defending champion and the medalist are not the usual thing in golf tournaments, but when such a situation occurs, it usually produces a battle for the books, and the opening match of the fifteenth annual junior tournament of the Women's Western Golf association at the Park Ridge Country club yesterday was no exception.

Alice Ann Anderson of Kenosha, Wis., who won the 1933 title, and Ellamae Williams of River Forest, who set a record Monday in winning the qualifying medal with an 80, two over women's par, battled nineteen holes yesterday morning before Miss Anderson finally won. Miss Williams was still in form as far as medal shooting went, turning the regular eighteen in 89 to Miss Anderson's 90, but could not equal the Kenosha girl's talent for match play golf.

Miss Souchek Wins.

Seven others advanced in the championship flight, but only one of these was as hard pressed to win as the champion. She was Josephine Souchek of Big Oaks, who recently won the daily fee championship, who came up to the eighteenth green all square with Edith Estabrooks of Dubuque, Ia. The latter three putted at that point, and the match was Miss Souchek's.

Second round matches will be played this morning in all flights, as well as consolation meetings between yesterday's losers.

Par—Out	555	534	454—40
Par—In	543	535	535—38—78
Anderson—Out	566	535	564—45
Williams—Out	556	535	675—47
Anderson—In	755	437	545—45—90
Williams—In	563	626	545—42—89
Anderson—Out			4
Williams—Out			5

Miss Anderson wins, 1 up.

Souchek—Out	457	647	554—47
Estabrooks—Out	566	646	554—47
Souchek—In	464	546	645—44—91
Estabrooks—In	569	745	556—46—92

ARLINGTON CLASSICS—1930.

BEFORE July rolled around for the Arlington Classic of 1930, Gallant Fox was well on his way to the 3 year old championship and to a record of greatest money winner of all time, since surpassed by Sun Beau and Equipoise. This conceded supremacy of the son of Sir Gallahad III, reduced the number of starters to six, yet the race itself provided the most thrilling finish of any of the Classics to date.

A good performer but not 2 year old champion of 1929, Gallant Fox had swept everything before him in his 3 year old form. Victories before the Classic included the Wood Memorial with Crack Brigade and Desert Light second and third; Preakness by nearly a length from Crack Brigade and Snowflake third; Kentucky Derby by two lengths from Gallant Knight with Ned O. third; Belmont stakes by three lengths from Whichone with Questionnaire third; Dwyer stakes by a length and a half from Zenofol with Limbus third. His earnings for the season already were $182,430.

No wonder, then, that Gallant Fox was backed to the exclusion of almost everything else and was 32 cents against $1 in the mutuels. The other five starters were Gallant Knight, Ned O., Maya, Alcibiades, and Dark Entry, which finished in that order.

Gallant Fox won all right but not like a 3 to 10 shot. Gallant Knight, which chased Gallant Fox home in the Louisville event, evidently had other thoughts this day. When Gallant Fox attempted to run away from his field after the first half mile, Gallant Knight moved with him and they ran almost as a pair the rest of the journey.

Instead of the favorite moving away as they straightened out in the stretch, Gallant Knight hung on gamely. In full view of the thousands assembled was that final duel, Schutte on Gallant Knight digging in his heels and plying his whip, Sande on Gallant Fox giving his mount one of those hand rides which only Sande could give.

Spectators thought Sande would go to the whip, shivered when he did not as Gallant Knight drew on even terms, even stuck his nose in front for the fraction of a second. Sande evidently knew what was under him, perhaps he was afraid to draw whip lest he drop his mount's head. So they ran the last 100 yards with Gallant Knight unable to make up that scant neck which was the difference between second place and $64,750 to the winner, Ned O. was five lengths back and ten lengths before Maya, fourth.

The mile and one quarter was run in 2:03 4-5. Two dollar tickets on the winner paid $2.64 with Gallant Knight $2.84 for place and Ned O. $2.44 to show.

Following the Classic, Gallant Fox suffered his only setback of the year, beaten eight lengths by Jim Dandy, 100 to 1, over a heavy track in the Travers. He followed this setback by winning the Lawrence Realization, and Saratoga and Jocky club cups. Gallant Fox's record for the year was nine brackets and one second for $308,275, more than any horse before or since earned in one year. After his 3 year old form, Gallant Fox followed the precedent established by Man o' War and was retired to the stud. That is, in part, why Sun Beau and Equipoise were able to surpass his total earnings of $328,165.

The Bridge of Sighs.

I knew a man whose clumsy heart
Was innocent of bridge and its intricacies,
And when his boss announced they would attend
A jangling conclave dedicated to the game,
He smiled as one about to get it in the neck,
And wished that he were eighteen leagues hence.
'Twas night. He was uncomfortably arrayed;
The other men assembled at the holocaust,
They knew and played the game with dexterous skill,
Proving he was a rumdrum by comparison.
A lady with awe-inspiring mien and piercing tongue,
A shark [to use low and apt vernacular
Of the billiard parlor and lunch counter
To which he often hied to hide his woes]
Was given as his partner for a game
[The poor unlucky fellow that he was].
Yes, all his sad attempts at jest or conversation reached not her beautiful but
Whichever way he played she beaned him potently,
With pungent spice she showered well,
With tear gas and unanswerable heckling queries
'Til Hades would be cooler than the chair
He occupied. He thought!!!†††??!!!
Next day his hostess bubbled
"I hope you liked the game of bridge."
The Devil claimed him for he LIED and said

Conliff and Eaton Tie in Western Golf

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 10.—[Special.]—Youthful Zell Eaton, Oklahoma City, who eliminated Lawson Little, British amateur winner in the first round of the recent trans-Mississippi tournament at Dallas, and Robert Conliff Jr., also of Oklahoma City, posted 72s, two over par, today, to set the pace for the first day of the qualifying round for the Western amateur golf tournament.

A year ago Eaton was medalist in the trans-Mississippi with an all time record of 137. He also took medalist honors in the Western and Oklahoma amateur in 1933. Conliff is a member of a well known Oklahoma City golfing family.

Another 18 hole qualifying round will be played tomorrow and the low 31 for 36 holes will go into match play Thursday. Jack Westland of Chicago, defending champion, is exempt from qualifying.

Trailing Eaton and Conliff by one stroke were Leland Hamman of Waco, Tex., the 1934 trans-Mississippi champion, and Rodney Bliss, Nebraska state champion. Ed White, University of Texas, runnerup in the National intercollegiate, posted a 74, as did Lucien McLaughlin, a local product.

Some of the favorites were well down on the list today. Verne Stewart, Stanford univeristy, and Walter Emery, 1933 college champion, had 76. Charley Yates, national collegiate champion, had 79.

Hamman Misses Putt.

Two birdies, one on the tenth and another on the 17th, coupled with par all the way home except on the twelfth, gave Conliff his 34. Eaton came through with three successive birdies on numbers 15, 16, and 17, to score his 35.

Hamman had an opportunity to tie Eaton and Conliff, but missed a short putt on the home green. White also had a chance to better his card by a stroke, which would have deadlocked him with Bliss. White failed to hole a three footer on the final hole.

Lehman Takes an Eight.

Lehman took six strokes on the par 4 third hole and eight on No. 5. A wild tee shot started him on the way to his six. Three strokes getting from a deep gully to the green ran up an 8 on the fifth.

Fine tee shots, which resulted in deuces on the 7th and 14th, par 3 holes, helped Hamman's cause. His first was within three feet of the pin and the next rolled up to five feet from the cup.

Conliff's card:

Conliff—Out	555	444	344—38
Conliff—In	335	434	534—34—72

Eaton's card:

Par out	444	354	344—35
Par in	434	434	544—35—70

Twohig, Last of Midway's Grand Old Men, Retires

Jimmy Twohig, the other grand old man of the Midway, laid down his rake and hoe yesterday and retired after 34 years as head groundskeeper for the University of Chicago athletic department. Friend and chief exhorter to generations of Maroon athletes, Jimmy has decided to content himself for the rest of his life just watching sports events. No one knows how old he is—not even Jimmy—but the minimum guess is 83.

The fiery little Irishman was bowled over by heat prostration last month while tending the football field. Director Metcalf gave him a vacation, during which Jimmy decided to accept the rank of groundskeeper emeritus. He will be given a pension by the university for the remainder of his life, and he has agreed to look in at Stagg field, which is across the street from his home, every day to see how things are going.

Jimmy has been as much of an institution at the Midway as Stagg, and his rich brogue has rung in the ears of Chicago players, in both imprecation and prayer, on and off the field, since 1900. He came to the United States in 1883, and the following year went to work for the old University of Chicago, which was located at 35th street and Cottage Grove avenue, as coachman and gardener for the president, Dr. Galusha Anderson. He remembers the site of the present campus as a swamp, with Stagg field a cow pasture. The old university closed in 1886, and Jimmy worked for various prominent families until he was called by Mr. Stagg in 1900.

In recent years Jimmy has had a crew of half a dozen assistants. Alec Kreydich, his first assistant for 21 years, will succeed him.

Jimmy developed a special rake for combing running tracks and an apparatus for marking a series of lanes on a turn. He also invented the ball bearing atachment for the throwing hammer, which permits free swinging.

Jimmy was taken to the Olympic games at Stockholm in 1912 by Mr. Stagg. His last trip was to Champaign last fall, when the players picked him up at the station where he had brought the trunks and put him in the train as it pulled out.

He has never married. He announced yesterday that "No man that came out of Ireland ever had a better life or was better treated." Then he shushed up interviewers to listen to the all-star baseball broadcast.

IOWA APPOINTS SOLEM DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

Iowa City, Ia., July 10.—[Special.]—Ossie Solem, head football coach, was appointed director of athletics and head of physical education at the University of Iowa today. He succeeds Dr. E. H. Lauer who will leave Aug. 1 to become dean of liberal arts at the University of Washington.

Solem will continue as coach and will be one of three coaches in the Western conference to hold both positions. Noble Kizer of Purdue university and Frank McCormick, baseball coach at Minnesota, are the others.

Deans Opposed Appointment.

Appointment of Solem as director is a popular choice. The only opposition to his selection was understood to have come from a few deans who were quoted to the effect that Solem does not have the "proper academic background."

Solem will begin his third season as football coach here this fall, having come to Iowa from Drake university in 1932. His 1933 team was regarded as one of the most improved in the country, and the record of five victories in eight games brought him high acclaim throughout the state.

Whether Solem will appoint an assistant to supervise some of the administrative detail of the new position was not known. He now is in charge of a boy's camp in Minnesota.

Although Solem's salary for the two positions was not announced, it was believed he would receive approximately $10,000. His salary as head coach was about $8,000.

FOOTBALL FANS GIVE LAWS LEAD AS QUARTER BACK

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Have you cast your ballot for the all-star college football team which will play the Chicago Bears Aug. 31 at Soldiers' field?

Until the polls close at midnight July 25 you have the right to assist the football fans of the country in choosing the players from last year's list of universities and colleges who will face the professional champions of the world.

Twenty-seven players will be named on the college all-star squad which will assemble at Northwestern on Aug. 15. In the early returns from Chicago several men are running ahead of the field. Joe Laws, Iowa quarter back, regarded as an intergral part in the revival of the Hawkeye team last fall, leads by more than 200 votes over Cliff Montgomery, of Columbia, star of the Tournament of Roses game last New Year's day, and Paul Pardonner, Purdue's brilliant field general. This, of course, might be expected in a poll of readers of THE TRIBUNE and it may be changed when the votes from other sections of the country are all in.

Bernard Has Wide Margin.

Chuck Bernard, Michigan's great center for the last two years, easily is regarded as number one man at this position. He has 1,112 votes and his nearest rival is Roy Oen of Minnesota's undefeated eleven and the only player to graduate this spring. Oen has 280 votes.

Beattie Feathers, for three years a star at the University of Tennessee, leads all the half backs. Feathers has 1,152 votes as compared to 859 for Herman Everhardus of Michigan. If the all-star team was picked tomorrow, how would you like this group of ha'f backs? Feathers, Everhardus, Mike Sebastian of Pittsburgh; Nick Lukats, Notre Dame, and Ed Danowski, Fordham. That's the way the vote stands this morning.

Sauer Full Back Choice.

Big George Sauer of Nebraska, has an overwhelming lead in the voting for full back. Fred Hecker of Purdue, is second. Incidentally, Hecker is an excellent forward passer, and if he is selected on the all-star squad, that may be one of the duties assigned to him while playing.

There's a great race in the votes for tackles between Ed Krause of Notre Dame and Francis Wistert of Michigan. Since each ballot has two votes for tackle, this accounts for the rivalry, but apparently Krause is more nearly the unanimous choice. Fred Crawford of Duke and Jack Torrance of Louisiana State, regarded in the south as the best in the country, are fifth and sixth in the voting. Dutch Fehring of Purdue and Ted Rosequist of Ohio State have higher vote totals.

Here's Delaporte's Lineup.

E. C. Delaporte, prominent coach and official, who has had many years of experience in the city schools, yesterday submitted a lineup which, while generally in accord with the voting, deviates in choices for the guards and tackles. Mr. Delaporte's ballot follows:

Ends, Skaldany, Pittsburgh, and Petoskey, Michigan; tackles, Torrance, Louisiana State, and Crawford, Duke; guards, Jones, Indiana, and Hupke, Alabama; center, Oen, Minnesota; quarter back, Laws, Iowa; half backs, Lukats, Notre Dame, and Sebastian, Pittsburgh; full back, Sauer, Nebraska.

U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAM RESTS AT ENGLISH RESORT

FELIXSTOWE, England, July 10.—(AP)—Whatever befalls the United States Davis cup team this year in interzone or challenge round play critics will not be able to claim that they subjected themselves to high pressure methods or were overtrained.

"Tennis is out while we are down here," Capt. R. Norris [Dick] Williams told the Associated Press today as he and the team members settled down in this seaside resort for a few days of rest. "All we are going to do is lie in the sun on the beach, play croquet, and take bicycle rides.

"I believe that program will put the boys in fine shape and eager to play tennis when we return Friday."

Williams said he probably would not definitly select the team for interzone play against either Australia or Czechoslovakia, which meet this weekend at Praha in the European zone final, until Monday.

Florals Meet Flint Sunday; Observe Jack Quinn Day

A parade from 75th street and Dante avenue to the ball park at 74th and Aberdeen streets, starting at 12:30 o'clock, will be one of the highlights.

American League All-Stars Win 9-7 After Hubbell Leaves

Traynor's single. Frisch scored on a single by Chuck Klein of the Cubs, the first man to horn in on the Cardinal-Traynor scoring clique. Traynor stole home for the seventh and final National league run.

Simmons launched the American league rally against Warneke in the fourth was a double, the first of his three successive hits. He came home on a single by Cronin, and the manager of the American leaguers scored on a triple by Earl Averill of the Cleveland Indians. When Warneke walked Ruth and Gehrig to start the fifth Terry yanked him, but Mungo couldn't stem the tide.

Then came the aforesaid blowup of Ruffing and the heroics of Harder.

Dizzy Dean of the Cardinals was the fourth National league pitcher. Doubles by Simmons and Cronin in the sixth gave the American leaguers their ninth run. Chapman later jolted him with a triple, but failed to score. Fred Frankhouse of the Boston Braves pitched the ninth inning.

All Can't Shine.

Few of the greatest stars in the business had a good day. Gehrig, one of the most consistent performers of all time, struck out three times and failed to get a hit. He committed the only American league error. Heinie Manush of the Senators, who has led the majors most of the season in hitting, was benched after he had walked once and tapped to the infield his second time up. Paul Waner of the Pirates flopped twice with chances to do things. Wally Berger of the Braves fumbled on the first play of the game and was relieved after a strikeout and a foul popup. Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs did some fine catching, but couldn't hit. Manager Terry was held to a single that didn't mean anything and drew a pass that didn't help. And Mel Ott of the Giants failed in two chances to tie the score.

Starts Game with Hit.

Gehringer started the game with a single to center and dashed on to second when Berger fumbled the ball. Manush walked. Then Hubbell went to work in earnest. Ruth was called out on strikes, but the American league partisans lustily expressed their confidence in Gehrig. Lou ran the count to three balls and two strikes and then missed his cut at the third strike. As he did so Gehringer stole third and Manush second. Hartnett's throw to Traynor seemed to have Gehringer caught at third, but when Traynor started for the dugout Umpire Moriarty confirmed the fact that he had called Gehringer safe. The decision only added to Hubbell's record, for he promptly fanned Foxx to retire the side.

Frisch lost no time in showing he could bat right handed this year as well as he batted left handed in last year's all-star game. He socked Gomez's second pitch eight rows up in the second deck of the right field stand, about 40 feet inside the foul line. Gehringer threw out Traynor, Medwick fanned and Cronin tossed out Cuyler.

Fans Five in a Row.

Simmons went the way of Ruth, Gehrig and Foxx to start the American league second. Al fanned without getting the tiniest piece of the ball. Cronin also struck out to make it five in a row for Hubbell. Dickey caused a gap in the fanning sequence by singling to left, but Gomez ended the inning by striking out.

In the National league second, Gomez got the strikeout idea working. He fanned Berger, then, after Terry had lifted a high and short fly to Simmons, he retired Jackson on strikes.

To show his versatility, perhaps, Hubbell switched off the strikeout technique in the third, his final inning. Gehringer flied to Cuyler, Manush tapped to Frisch, Ruth walked and Gehrig lined to Cuyler. Hubbell retired with a record of having yielded two singles and two walks and striking out six.

Frisch on Again.

Frisch, first National leaguer to reach base off Gomez, also was the second to land. After Hartnett had grounded out to Cronin and Billy Herman, batting for Hubbell, had popped to Cronin, Frisch walked in the third inning. The St. Louis Cardinal manager went to third on Traynor's single over second. Medwick then drove out his homer, scoring behind Frisch and Traynor, the Pirates' manager. Medwick's drive was half way up in the second deck of the left field stand, about the same distance fair as Frisch's homer.

Gomez's record showed he had allowed four runs, three hits—two of them homers—had struck out three and walked one.

Switch American Leaguers.

When the American league team took the field in the fourth, Ruffing was in the pitcher's box, Simmons switched to left and Averill went to center. Berger fouled to Foxx, after which Terry singled to left. Jackson flied to Averill and Foxx threw out Hartnett.

Umpire Pfirman had an unhappy time while Warneke was pitching to Ruth to start the fifth. Babe protested a called second strike, and Warneke and Hartnett hollered just as hard on what they claimed was a third strike. Ruth eventually walked. Gehrig also walked, which caused Manager Terry to call in Mungo. Warneke retired with a record of having allowed two runs with two more charged up against him after he went out. He allowed a triple, a double, and a single and walked three.

Foxx stroked Mungo's first pitch for a single to center, Ruth scoring and Gehrig stopping at third. Simmons singled to deep short, Gehrig scoring and Foxx stopping at second. Hartnett made a fine catch of Cronin's bunt which went foul. Dickey walked, filling the cases. Then Averill made his second extra base hit, a two base slash along the right foul line, Foxx and Simmons scoring, and Dickey stopping at third. Gehringer was given an intentional pass, again filling the bases. Ruffing singled to left, scoring Dickey and Averill. Ruth bounced out to Terry and Gehrig struck out on three pitches.

Four Hits Off Mungo.

Mungo's record showed that he had allowed three singles, a double, and had walked two, one of them intentionally.

The National league offensive continued to have a strong Cardinal flavor in the last of the fifth. Pepper Martin batted for Mungo and walked. Frisch, this time batting left handed, singled to left center, putting Martin on third. Traynor singled off Gehringer's glove, Martin scoring and Frisch stopping at second. Klein batted for Medwick and, after missing two strikes, lined a single to right, Frisch scoring and Traynor stopping at second.

This was enough for Ruffing, who left with a record of allowing two runs, having more charged against him, and giving up four singles and a walk. Harder succeeded Ruffing. Ott batted for Cuyler and shot a liner which handcuffed Chapman, but Ben was spared an error when he recovered and threw to Cronin at second in time to force Klein. Traynor stopped at third. P. Waner batted for Berger and fanned, but while he did so Ott stole second and Traynor trotted home for another stolen base. Terry walked and Vaughan batted for Jackson. Vaughan forced Terry, Cronin to Gehringer.

Dean started off by fanning Foxx, but Simmons was credited with a double when his high fly evaded Frisch in short right. Cronin hit a legitimate double to left, scoring Simmons. Dickey walked and Cochrane ran for him. Dean pitched three wide ones to Averill and then struck him out. Both Cronin and Cochrane ran with the pitch, leaving them stranded when Averill missed the ball. Lopez ran across the diamond to trap Cronin and tossed to Vaughan to double the Washington manager going back to second. The play at second was close so, without taking any chances, Vaughan threw to Terry, who tagged Cochrane going back to first for a fourth out, as it were.

Cochrane was catching when the National league sixth began. Harder fanned Lopez, Dean lined to Simmons and Cronin threw out Frisch.

Billy Herman went to second at the start of the seventh, though he had batted for Hubbell in the third inning, a special dispensation under the All Star rules.

Waste Pair of Hits.

Gehringer singled to start the seventh, but was out trying to stretch the hit, Ott making a beautiful throw to Vaughan at second. Harder fanned. Then Chapman tripled to left center. Gehrig was called out on strikes, a strike out victim for the third time.

Cronin made a fine throw to retire Traynor at the ouset of the National seventh. Klein bounced to Gehrig and was safe when Lou made a bad throw to Harder, who covered first. Ott forced Klein, Cronin to Gehringer. P. Waner popped to Gehrig.

Frankhouse pitched the ninth. Vaughan made the fielding play of the day on Averill's pop fly well into left field. Gehringer walked, but Harder fouled to Lopez and Gehrig flied to Klein.

Cochrane made a swell play to capture Frankhouse's bunt and throw him out at the start of the National league ninth. Herman doubled to left for the first hit off Harder. Traynor flied to West and Klein was out, Gehrig to Harder.

WARNEKE YIELDS 3 HITS IN FOURTH THAT GO 1,184 FT.

New York, July 10.—(AP)—If all the hits the American leaguers made off Lon Warneke in the fourth inning of today's all-star baseball game had been laid end to end, they would have reached clear over to the Yankee stadium. Al Simmons' double traveled 414 feet. Joe Cronin's single went 315 and Averill's triple landed 455 feet from home plate.

Frankie Frisch's reputation as a money player lost no ground when the Cardinal manager socked Gomez's second pitch high into the right field stands for a home run. He hit the National league's homer in the first game last year.

As early as the sixth inning, the National league had used up 19 players and had only Fred Frankhouse, Boston Braves' pitcher, left for substitute duty. However, a little thing like the rules didn't prevent Billy Herman of the Cubs, who had batted for Hubbell in the third, from going to second for Frisch, who pulled up slightly lame, in the seventh. It was all very informal.

It was a battle of shortstops in the eighth and ninth. After Cronin had made two dazzling stops in the last half of the eighth, Arky Vaughan of the Pirates raced far to his right to make a brilliant catch of Averill's short fly in the ninth. Vaughan's catch was the fielding feature of the game.

FIREMEN BEAT COLUMBUS IN 13 INNINGS, 4-3

A single by Chester Sullivan, manager of the Chicago fire department baseball team, which scored George McNamara in the thirteenth inning, broke up a pitching duel between Slim De Lion of the Firemen and Rudy Pritzel of the Columbus, O., fire fighting nine and gave the Chicagoans a 4 to 3 victory yesterday. Twelve thousand saw the game at Comiskey park.

McNamara drew a pass in the thirteenth. Kutch Rodeghier doubled, sending him to third. Sullivan then hit his single to win the game.

The series will be resumed today at Wrigley field at 3 p. m. Roy Gutcher will pitch for Chicago, with Emmett Dorsey catching, while the Columbus team will use Walter Nicholas on the mound and Bill Lewis as catcher. Score:

DAVEY DAY FACES LOAYZA TONIGHT IN TEN ROUNDS

Gets First Test Over Long Route.

Davey Day, lightweight stablemate of Champion Barney Ross, will receive a chance tonight to break into topnotch competition at Sparta stadium, 22d street and Kostner avenue. He will meet Stanislaus Loayza, veteran Chilean fighter. It will be Day's first start at 10 rounds. Champion Ross, who is en route back to Chicago from New York where he attended the all-star baseball game yesterday, will advise Day between rounds. The bout may develop into as good a battle as the last one at Sparta in which Frank Sigillo knocked out Pete Nebo in eight rounds.

Day has engaged in 35 professional encounters. He won 32, lost two and fought one draw. Since he lost to Tommy Corbett at Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 7 Day has knocked out Gus Vegas, Kenneth Reed, George Engel, and Joey Kleko, and defeated Patsy Burke and Frank Marchese.

Sammy Mosco, Omaha, Neb., featherweight, will make his first Chicago appearance against Jackie Sharkey in the eight round semi-final. Other matches:

Sammy Scoglio vs. Young Jackie Dallas, [4], 127.

The Catholic Youth organization will present an amateur boxing card tonight at the Irish Village at A Century of Progress. Four matches will be held as follows:

Johnny Barbara vs. Barney Ryan, 140.
Ray Goodman vs. Savior Canadeo, 135.
Frank De Michaels vs. Pete Misfag, 134.

Danny Neenan and Frank Genovese, Toronto, Ont., welterweights, were matched yesterday to meet in the six round semi-final to the ten round windup between Frank Battaglia and Johnny Phagan at Marigold Gardens Monday. Mike (Little Pal) Primitch and Tod Kelly will fight five rounds.

White Owl adopts a Grade A VINTAGE Mark to Identify its Fine Filler Tobacco

NO MORE GUESSWORK for 5¢ cigar smokers. Now you can be assured of fine filler tobaccos.

Everyone knows that wines are better in Vintage years. Variations in sunshine, rain and soil actually alter the taste and flavor of each vineyard crop. It's the same way with cigar filler tobacco. A rich, fertile field may produce Vintage leaf one year—a poor crop the next.

Now every White Owl cigar box carries a Grade A Vintage mark . . . and it means just what it says. That's why you can be sure of a mild, full-flavored smoke when you light a White Owl.

How White Owl Smokers are Protected

THE General Cigar Company maintains a comprehensive Crop Inspection System built up over the last ten years. By this means, we learn the condition of nearly every tobacco district in Pennsylvania and Ohio—the two states which produce practically all the cigar filler tobacco grown in the United States.

So accurate is this inspection system that every vintage crop can be forecast, and our buyers are on the spot to purchase the best of it for White Owls.

But vintage tobaccos alone are not enough. Even in Vintage years we classify all filler tobacco into seven grades. And only tobacco of the quality of the top three grades passes White Owl's strict requirements for its Grade A filler tobacco. No other filler tobacco is ever used in White Owls. That's what we mean when we say Grade A Vintage tobacco.

At the present moment, we have sufficient Grade A Vintage filler tobacco mellowing in our warehouses to make nearly 1 billion White Owls—more than a two-year supply. With this tremendous reserve, we can assure every White Owl smoker of a continued supply of the mild, fragrant cigars which Vintage tobaccos yield.

White Owls are now being made from famous Vintage Crops . . . the 1931 Pennsylvania and the 1930 and 1931 Ohio.

WITAN DISTANCES FUTURITY RIVALS ON MUDDY TRACK

Arcaro Boots Filly In by Five Lengths.

In on of the first skirmishes among candidates for the $60,000 Arlington Futurity, Witan, a Chicago owned filly from Fred Burton's Everglade stable, scored an easy victory over a muddy track yesterday.

Jocky Eddie Arcaro sent the daughter of Wise Counsellor-Asia to the front soon after the start and she pulled out into a long lead, which she held until the finish. Witan finished five lengths in front of Ald. John Coughlin's Advantage. Shining Jewel, a 2 year old son of John P. Grier, with Jocky Garner in the saddle, finished third and Joseph E. Widener's Shot Proof, a full brother to Peace Chance, was fourth.

Witan has impressed Chicago racegoers since she made her first start at Washington Park a month ago. She is an extra large chestnut and is possessed of a fine burst of speed.

There was a plunge on Witan at post time which made her the favorite. She paid $5.62 in the $2 betting.

Col. Edward R. Bradley was surprised yesterday to see his 2 year old Beginners Bait, a son of North Star III.-Bulldoze, win the second race. Col. Bradley expressed the opinion the juvenile could not run well in muddy going. Then he watched Beginners Bait win by two lengths with My Blonde, the favorite, second, and Synod, from the Whitney barn, third. The Bradley colt paid more than 7 to 1.

Jocky Jack Westrope, with three winners, was the hero of yesterday's racing. He scored his first victory on Oscillation in the race over the turf, which came fourth on the program, won on Slapped in the seventh race, and came back in the last to boot Stuyvesant Peabody's Martie Flynn to victory. Old Martie was a long shot at 12 to 1. Westrope drew a five day suspension for his energetic riding. The stewards found him guilty of rough riding on Oscillation.

Arthur B. Hancock, noted breeder and part owner of Sir Gallahad III., was an arrival from his Claiborne farm at Paris, Ky. He is one of Arlington's three honorary stewards and will serve in the stand until after the Classic. Maj. Louie A. Beard, another honorary steward, is due to arrive Friday or Saturday from Lexington.

Gay Monarch demonstrated in the Great Lakes handicap yesterday that he is just about the fastest sprinter stabled at Arlington Park. He had beaten many of the fleetest horses here last week on a fast track, and came back to whip another stylish band in the mud yesterday.

Plenty of eastern money showed for Gay Monarch in the final minutes before post time. He was made the favorite and paid off at 9 to 5. He is owned by Albert C. Schwartz of New York, and was ridden by Jocky Wayne Wright.

CYCLISTS SEEK PORTER'S LEAD AT LOGAN SQUARE

Mark Porter, who is leading the racers in the standing, will seek to retain his leadership. Close on his heels are Mark Kelly, the Pacific Northwest champion, and Shorty Campbell of Pasadena. These two are near enough to push Porter out of the lead. Jimmy Gibb of Los Angeles, Lou Wilson of Santa Barbara, and Morrisson, Tom Cox, Dick Springston, Don Smith and Ray Grant also are near the top in points scored. Grant, who was injured Friday night, will be able to race tonight.

Tonight's program consists of handicap and scratch races of seven heats each. Two match races also are scheduled.

BY BOB BECKER.

The dogfish, a hard fighter, unusual in appearance and found in Illinois, Wisconsin, and Minnesota waters, invariably puzzles the average angler because he rarely sees one of the fish.

Just a few days ago a Wisconsin fisherman wrote us that he had caught a 10 pound dogfish, or bowfish, and he wanted to know how many varieties there are, and if they are good to eat.

Fortunately, there is only one type in our lakes and streams. You can distinguish this fellow at a glance, because he has a fin [dorsal] that extends almost two-thirds of the way down his back. The caudal fin [tail fin] is small and rounded. The male fish has a black spot with a touch of orange around it on his tail. In other words, the dogfish resembles no other fish in our waters.

This is to be expected, because he is the last surviving species of an order of fishes. All of his relatives have disappeared from our waters. He's an old fashioned, fresh water fish now ignored by the average fisherman. However, we shouldn't entirely ignore him, because he is a nuisance. He's a carnivorous and very voracious fellow. In any lake where the bowfish lives, it is just too bad for other game species. The dogfish can and does destroy many food fishes in the course of a year.

Although the dogfish is a nuisance in our lakes, there is no denying the fact that he is an excellent game fish. Because of this fact it is rather surprising that more fishermen haven't spent their time trying to hook them. Our experience with them has shown that to tie into a dogfish is like putting dynamite on the end of the line. When they feel the hook they certainly can give a fellow a real fight. A ten pound dogfish is an extremely large catch.

BEGINNERS BAIT, under strong pressure maintaining a forward position, disposed of MY BLONDE entering the stretch, drew out in the closing stages, and closed under strong urging. MY BLONDE had fine speed to the stretch head, responded gamely to pressure, but could not withstand the winner. SYNOD raced evenly under pressure.

LUNA BRIGHT had the most speed in the going, set the pace under strong restraint, and won in hand. JAY VEE moved up with a rush after a quarter-mile, continued with good courage, but was no match for the winner. TRANSCALL outrun for half a mile, gained steadily thereafter and closed gamely.

OSCILLATION, never far back, took command after half a mile, drew out gradually thereafter, and won in hand. LADY VA VA improved her position gradually, closed gamely, but was no match for the winner. HOOSIERS PRIDE, fractious at the post, broke slowly, closed an immense gap, and might have been best.

GAY MONARCH, a keen factor throughout, raced ISAIAH into defeat, then drew out to win with something to spare. Latter set the pace under steady restraint, offered stubborn contention when challenged, but gave way badly in the closing stages. BLESSED EVENT dropped back at the start, alternated with ANARCHY for third place, then outgramed him in the drive.

SLAPPED, cleverly handled, was taken in hand for three-eighths, went to the front when urged, continued gamely, stood a long drive gamely, and won drawing clear. MARMION gained steadily, closed gamely but faltered after offering a stubborn bid. DUSKY DEVIL, under snug restraint while racing close up, challenged boldly in the stretch, but weakened under strong presure.

Winner trained by R. McGarvey. Went to post at 5:31½. At post 1 minute. Start good. Won driving; place same.

MARTIE FLYNN, cleverly rated, raced in close attendance of the pace to the stretch, went to the front with a rush, continued gamely under strong pressure, but was giving way gradually to WHITE LEGS. Latter, slow to get going, was far out of contention from thereafter, and finished fastest. CROWNED HEAD, a keen factor most of the way, closed resolutely under punishment.

U. S. SADDLES ILLINOIS WITH HEAVIER TAXES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 10.—Illinois is being forced to carry on an increasing share of the federal tax load as the New Dealers pile on additional levies. This was shown today by a treasury department report on tax collections made during the fiscal year, which closed June 30.

Illinois' federal tax payments had doubled over her payments in the previous year. In the fiscal year just closed Illinois paid $214,714,810 in taxes into the federal treasury, compared with $106,114,822 in the previous fiscal year. This was a gain of more than 100 per cent, compared with an average gain in federal taxes over the entire country of only 65 per cent.

Third Largest Taxpayer.

Illinois in the fiscal year just closed paid 14 per cent of all the New Deal processing taxes on farm products, 7 per cent of all the income taxes, 6 per cent of the various miscellaneous internal revenue taxes, and 8 per cent of the total taxes collected for all of the 48 states. She was the third largest taxpayer among the states.

Compared with the 8 cents out of every tax dollar which Illinois was compelled to pay last year, she paid only 6 cents out of every dollar collected by the federal treasury in the preceding year. This increase in the state's tax load took place despite the fact that she did not receive her share of the easy money dished out by the New Dealers.

Imposition of the processing tax on farm products, a New Deal innovation, accounted for approximately half of the increase in Illinois' tax payments to Washington.

Various Taxes Are Heavy.

Illinois' total processing tax payments last fiscal year were $53,353,988. Income tax payments by individuals were 31 millions and by corporations were 32 millions, making the grand total of federal income tax paid by the state $63,556,715. The toll of the miscellaneous federal taxes, such as the gasoline, cigarette, and bank check levies, was the largest of all, amounting to $97,804,988.

During the fiscal year Illinois jumped from fourth to third in the list of states paying taxes. This year Illinois passed Pennsylvania and stood third to New York and North Carolina, which paid $564,321,808 and $260,344,351 respectively. Pennsylvania was fourth for $193,522,222 and California came fourth with $151,245,457. Total federal taxes collected in the last fiscal year amounted to 2 billion 672 million dollars compared with 1 billion 620 millions the previous year.

Five States Pay Half.

In five states—New York, North Carolina, Illinois, Pennsylvania, and California—the federal government collected more than half of the year's taxes. Eleven states—Arizona, Idaho, North Dakota, South Dakota, Vermont, Wyoming, Arkansas, Mississippi, Nevada, Utah, and Montana—contributed less than one per cent.

Every state showed increases, ranging in some cases as high as 300 per cent, in miscellaneous tax collections for the fiscal year as compared with the preceding year to raise the grand total for the country from $873,047,820 to $1,483,789,755.

In the income tax category every state but six showed a jump, while the total for the country as a whole increased from $746,791,494 to $817,303,457. The six whose income tax payments declined were Arizona, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, and Virginia.

WHO WILL FLOAT CHICAGO ROAD'S NEW BOND ISSUE?

New York, July 10.—(AP)—Wall street was puzzled today over the problem of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad's new financing and who would market the issue.

The road has applied to the interstate commerce commission for authority to issue $6,278,000 series A 5½ per cent first and refunding mortgage bonds. A survey of the street has failed to disclose, however, who will handle the flotation of the issue.

The last financing by the road was underwritten and marketed by a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co. and including the First National bank, The National City company, Harris, Forbes & Co., and the Harris Trust and Savings bank of Chicago. The National City company and Harris, Forbes & Co. no longer exist while the other participants are no longer eligible, under the banking laws, to underwrite new securities.

COST OF LIVING INCREASES 1 PCT. IN 1ST SIX MONTHS

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—The labor department reported today the cost of living for families of wage earners and lower salaried workers increased 1 per cent during the six months ended July 1.

Food increased 2.7 per cent; clothing, 2.1 per cent, and house furnishing goods, 1.8 per cent. Rent dropped 1.7 per cent and light 2.1 per cent.

The survey covered thirty-two cities scattered throughout the country. The cost of living dropped in only four. They were Chicago, New Orleans, Mobile, Ala., and Los Angeles. The greatest increase was in Detroit, where the costs rose 2.7 per cent.

Cutler-Hammer Reports Larger Sales This Year

New York, July 10.—Shipments of Cutler-Hammer, Inc., for the three months ended June 30 totaled $1,497,490, compared with $1,175,774 in the first quarter and $850,325 in the June quarter last year.

Banks Buying of U. S. Bonds Aids Spenders

BY HOWARD WOOD.

How the banks of the nation, willingly or otherwise, are coöperating with the treasury in a twin program of governmental extravagance and credit inflation is graphically shown in current figures.

Many of the banks are already under direct government control through stock ownership. Over the others the government is rapidly extending its regulative powers through such agencies as the federal reserve board, the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, and the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

As the treasury spends above its income it borrows from the banks by selling them bonds, notes, and certificates. Under normal circumstances the banks, in turn, would resell most of this paper to private investors. At present private investors aren't taking their customary share and the banks are absorbing more and more government paper.

In New York City this practice of banks plugging up treasury deficits is rapidly approaching dizzy heights. June 30 figures show that nineteen New York clearing house banks alone hold a record high of 3 billion 3 million dollars' worth of government bonds, or about 11 per cent of the total federal debt.

These same nineteen banks have 28 per cent of their total resources invested in securities of the federal government, or an amount equal to 34 per cent of their total deposits. In the last three months alone these banks have added 210 million dollars' worth of such paper to their holdings, which, however, was less than half the 489 million dollar rise reported by the same banks in the first three months of this year.

The New York commercial banks are not the only banking institutions holding great quantities of government bonds. Current statistics show that the Federal Reserve bank of New York has a total of about 796 millions of credit outstanding, of which 780 millions is devoted to investments in securities of the federal government.

Outside New York the tendency is in the same direction. In 91 principal clearing house cities, including New York, banks affiliated with the federal system alone have 38 per cent of their total outstanding credit absorbed by investments in government bonds. Their outstanding credit totals 17 billions 761 millions and their government bond holdings total 6 billion 672 millions, an increase of nearly one and a half billion dollars in the last twelve months.

With the federal reserve banks it is the same story, only more so. The twelve "fed" banks have nearly 99 per cent of their total outstanding credit taken up by their holdings of nearly two and a half billions of "governments."

How heavily loaded are the smaller banks in nonclearing house cities and small towns cannot be definitly determined, but these smaller institutions also have been buying government bonds.

How many more government bonds can be loaded on the banks no one attempts to predict. Congress has authorized the expenditure by the administration of about 11½ billion dollars during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1934, more than two thirds of which would be for "relief" purposes. On the basis of existing taxes and appropriations the deficit this year will be about 7½ billions, compared with a deficit of about 4 billions in the fiscal year ended June 30.

In this program of government exploitation of bank resources the banks themselves are squarely between the frying pan and the fire. They aren't anxious to buy more government bonds because the yield has dropped to extremely low levels and they aren't certain that the treasury can continue successfully to manipulate the market so that bond prices will stay up.

On the other hand if they don't buy "governments" there is at present no other suitable means of safely and profitably employing their funds. Uncertainty over the monetary outlook combined with dearth of corporate bond offerings under the drastic new securities laws has dried up the normal supply of bonds other than those offered by public bodies. And demand for commercial loans fails to expand.

Result: The banks continue to bid against each other for government bonds; the yield on such bonds as a result of this reluctant competitive bidding continues to decline; the treasury interprets these artificially low interest rates as evidence of the sterling quality of its credit; the budget deficit widens; industry, knowing the ultimate result will be increased taxes, hesitates to borrow more than it absolutely needs; and the consequent lack of demand for bank funds by industry drives the banks to bid against each other for still more government paper. It's a merry-go-round.

The increase in the amount of government bonds in circulation is likely to be ultimately just as inflatory as the printing of additional currency. The chief difference is that public realization of the consequences of bond inflation is slower than in the case of the printing of greenbacks.

CHICAGO CORP. HALF YEAR NET RISES SHARPLY

Assets Gain Despite Trend of Market.

The Chicago corporation reported a net income of $477,122 from interest and dividends in addition to a profit of $994,668 from sale of securities during the six months ending June 30. This is equal to 70 cents on each of the 680,466 shares of outstanding convertible preference stock.

The report reflects a sharp rise from the same period last year, when net amounted to $327,521, or 44 cents per preference share. During the first six months of 1933 the company suffered a loss of $229,510 on security sales. Net asset as of June 30 totaled $31,801,540.82, or $46.73 per preference share. This marks a distinct appreciation from holdings of $29,877,640, or $43.20 on the 691,616 shares of preference stock outstanding at the end of 1933.

Values Up Despite Trend.

The improvement in value of Chicago corporation preference shares through increased value of its holdings amounts to 8.17 per cent, in contrast with the market trend of the last six months, which was downward.

The first half of 1934 was marked by further selling of Marshall Field common stock, of which 80,000 shares were held at one time. This holding was cut to 34,083 by the sale of 22,300 shares.

A second development was the purchase of nearly 9,000 shares of utility preferred stocks in a number of small blocks. The company took these for an investment, with an average income of 11 per cent resulting. All except one were paying dividends when acquired, and that one has resumed. The shares added include Alabama Power, Appalachian Electric Power, Birmingham Electric, Carolina Power and Light, Central Maine Power, Florida Power, Georgia Power, Idaho Power, Kansas Power and Light, Minnesota Power and Light, Montana Power, Nevada-California Electric, Northern States Power, Ohio Edison, Tennessee Electric Power, and Texas Electric Service.

Add Common Stocks.

Major common stock holdings added to the corporation portfolio include 12,500 shares of General Motors, 5,000 shares of Swift & Co. common, 5,000 shares of Consolidated Oil, 4,000 shares of General American Transportation, 3,500 shares of Atlantic Refining, 2,000 shares of National Fire Insurance of Hartford, 2,500 shares of Great Western Sugar, and 2,700 shares of Mathieson Alkali.

Main common share decreases were 3,600 units of Borg Warner, 4,000 shares of International Nickel and 6,200 shares of Noranda Mines.

The company purchased 11,150 of its own shares for retirement, and also maintained its holdings of 27,124 shares of Continental Illinois National Bank stock to which was added a like number of shares of Continental Illinois company as a result of the separation of the security organization from the bank.

Numerous portfolio changes were made in bonds, the largest increase being $208,000 in Associated Telephone Utilities and $70,000 in United Light and Railway. The biggest decreases were $183,000 in Western Maryland, $127,000 in two Denver & Rio Grande issues, and $70,000 in Western United Gas and Electric.

Bond Values Decline.

The market value of bonds held amounts to $3,692,952, which is carried on the company books at $2,929,459. Both figures represent a slight decline in the last six months. The reverse is true of stock holdings quoted at $24,789,074 and carried on the balance sheet at $18,468,229. Other investments and cash of $1,232,032 bring the total to a market value of $31,801,540 and a book value of $24,812,216 after deduction.

Investment reserve stands at $367,044 against $537,805 on Dec. 31, 1933 after profit of $994,668 on security sales, transfer of $1,000,000 to capital surplus, and a writedown of $165,429 on investments. Capital surplus has been boosted from $3,285,860 to $4,226,375 during the six months period. Undistributed net income after payment of dividends stands at $177,836 compared with $43,384 on Dec. 31, 1933.

75.1% OF STOCK VOTED IN FAVOR OF ARMOUR PLAN

The final count on proxies for the reorganization of Armour & Co. which was voted last Friday was announced at 75.1 per cent of all outstanding stock at the adjourned meeting of the stockholders yesterday. The meeting, called to take care of any details which might arise in connection with the reorganization, adjourned after receiving a report that the amendments to the articles of incorporation have been filed with the secretary of state at Springfield.

"Exchange of stock under the plan is progressing rapidly," said T. G. Lee, president of the company, "and the facilities of transfer offices in Chicago, New York, and Boston are being taxed."

Chicago "Fed" Asks Banks to Join in Loans

In an effort to speed up the extension of loans to industrial and commercial businesses, George J. Schaller, governor of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago, yesterday sent letters to all banks and chambers of commerce in the Seventh federal reserve district requesting them to coöperate in the making of these loans.

Mr. Schaller suggested to the banks that they participate with the federal reserve to the extent of 20 per cent on loans able to qualify. His letter said:

"As you have been previously advised, recent legislation by congress has given federal reserve banks rather broad powers to make loans to industrial and commercial businesses which can qualify for additional working capital.

Seek to Aid Business.

"This bank desires to be of assistance to established deserving enterprises in this district and as far as possible to join with local banks in the consideration and making of loans in their communities.

"To this end communications to chambers of commerce and inquiring firms and individuals have requested that they consult with their local banks, and we shall appreciate your coöperation and the possible joining with us to the extent of 20 per cent of the amount of any desirable loan originating in your territory. May we further suggest that you call to the attention of deserving borrowers this opportunity for financial aid?

"Through the facilities thus afforded it is desired to aid in the recovery and general betterment of business throughout the country. Blank applications and any further information will be gladly furnished."

Recalls Reserve Statement.

Mr. Schaller called to the attention of the various chambers of commerce in the seventh district, which embraces a large part of Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Michigan, and Indiana, a recent statement by the federal reserve board on the subject of loans to industry. This statement discussed the need of many small and medium sized businesses for additional working capital to enable them to continue or resume normal operations and to maintain employment or provide additional employment.

Some skepticism has been expressed in La Salle street as to how much can be accomplished in this drive. Most of the large banks of the country are loaded up with idle funds seeking an outlet for investment. These banks are ready to grant loans to any business or industry which can give assurance of repayment. It was stated that the federal reserve, even under the broad powers given it by congress, is hardly likely to make any bad loans.

CANADA DRAFTS REFUNDING PLAN OF 400 MILLIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., July 10.—The Canadian government today commenced preparations for the largest financial operations since war days, involving new loans and refunding operations totaling over 400 million dollars. Seventy millions already has been taken care of in London, but mainly the government hopes to have Canadians with their two billions of bank deposits take up the proposed new bond issues.

Refunding of a 225 million dollar war loan is the largest single item involved, but 135 millions of the 400 million dollar total is to take care of government and Canadian National railway deficits during the last year, and 60 million is required to meet New York obligations due in October.

An appreciable saving in interest rates is expected from the refunding. For instance, the big war loan is a 5½ per cent issue but the last rate secured by Canada in London was 3.84 per cent.

Delay Hearing on Railway Bond Gold Payment Clause

Hearing on a petition filed by the Bankers Trust company of New York testing the validity of the gold payment clause in contracts in connection with Rock Island railway bonds was postponed until Sept. 15 yesterday by Federal Judge Wilkerson. The bank, as trustee for Rock Island general mortgage bonds, asked that earnings of the road applicable to the bonds be ascertained and that payment of the interest be made in gold in accordance with the trust agreement.

NEW CAR PRODUCTION FOR HALF YEAR RISES 75 PER CENT OVER '33

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 10.—An increase of 75 per cent in automobile production in the first half of this year over the first six months of 1933 with a total of 1,802,442 units completed, against 1,031,839, is reported by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

The figures are a preliminary estimate covering the United States and Canada and final results may be better than the estimate. The chamber estimated output in June for the entire industry at 328,000 units, which was a decrease of 7 per cent from May's figures, but a gain of 27 per cent over the June, 1933 production of 257,613 units.

Buick car sales during the last ten days of June were 3,547 units, the biggest ten day period since Dec. 31, 1931. This compares with 3,014 for the preceding ten days and 2,125 for the first ten day period in June. Sales during June were the greatest for that month since 1931. Hudson factory shipments for the 6 months ended June 30 totaled 65,810 cars, including both Hudson and Terraplane shipments, an increase of 286 per cent over the 23,002 cars shipped in the first half of 1933.

Incomplete reports show that retail deliveries of Studebaker automobiles during June were greater than in any month since May, 1931, and the best during any June since 1930, according to George D. Keller, sales manager of the Studebaker Sales Corporation of America. During June dealers delivered 5,572 automobiles to retail buyers, which is 34.5 per cent greater than June, 1933, and 37.5 per cent greater than retail deliveries of May, 1934, he said.

DENY HARRISON ABROAD TO TALK MONEY STABILITY

PARIS, July 10.—(AP)—Denial from informed banking quarters tonight met the stir caused by reports that George L. Harrison, governor of the New York federal reserve bank, had been talking dollar-pound stabilization in Basel, Switzerland.

Harrison arrived in Paris late today, enroute back to the United States, but kept silence concerning a warning telegraphed to him by Senator Thomas of Oklahoma, leading inflationist, who protested against "any step you take toward tying our money in any way to any foreign money."

Thomas Fights Stabilization.

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—A poll of all members of the house and senate was undertaken today by Senator Thomas [Dem., Okla.] in an attempt to make sure that Governor Harrison of the New York federal reserve bank and other bankers do not succeed in stabilizing the dollar now.

The Oklahoma senator made public a letter to all members of congress saying that "again representatives of New York financial interests are attempting to usurp the power of congress to formulate monetary policies and to regulate the value of the dollar."

Harrison Denies Reports.

New York, July 10.—(AP)—Governor Harrison has cabled Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, asserting that his visit abroad is "not to negotiate any arrangement about anything."

NATIONAL BANKS OPENED IN JUNE FREE 33 MILLION

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—J. F. T. O'Connor, controler of the currency, announced today that 40 national banks with frozen deposits of $33,777,000 were licensed and opened or reopened in June. His statement said this brought the number of national banks licensed during the first six months of 1934 to 313, involving a total of $269,816,000 in frozen deposits.

"As a result of the activity by the controler's department last month," his announcement continued, "the number of unlicensed national banks in the United States had been reduced to 95 at the close of business June 30, 1934.

Steel Shipped in June Most Since May, '30

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 10.—An increase of 240,274 tons over the previous month was reported today by the United States Steel corporation in shipments of finished products during June.

The company shipped 985,337 tons last month, compared with 745,063 in May and with 603,937 tons for the corresponding month last year. The gain of 381,400 tons in June over the corresponding month a year ago was one of the largest increases reported by the corporation this year. Moreover, the June total was the largest for that month since 1929 and the best total for any month since May, 1930.

There was a gain of approximately 40 per cent over the 1933 high mark, reached in July, and an increase of nearly that much over May this year.

Triple Shipments in 1932.

June a year ago was topped by more than 60 per cent and the 1932 shipments were tripled. There was a sharp advance over the 653,104 tons in June, 1931, and a slight jump over the 984,739 tons in June, 1930.

The big rise last month resulted from the price advance early in April. Consumers placed large business at the old quotations and, under NRA requirements, were obliged to take shipment before the end of the second quarter or cancel.

The large June shipments, with the gain running nearly double the most optimistic estimates, show that the second quarter's total was 2,393,390, against 1,305,486 in the first three months of this year. This was the best second quarter figure since 1930.

Half Year Shows Big Gain.

In the records of the company for the last five years there is no gain which compares with last month's huge advance over May. In all years since 1929, with the exception of 1933, June shipments receded.

CHANGE CAPITAL TO OPEN KASPAR AMERICAN BANK

Changes in the corporate structure of the Kaspar-American State bank, 1900 Blue Island avenue, were voted yesterday by the old stockholders to make reorganization of the institution possible. More than 15,000 of the 16,000 shares were voted favorably, while only two-thirds were necessary, according to Otto F. Ring, attorney for the reorganization committee.

Mr. Ring will report this action to the state auditor's office this morning and ask that a date be set for a meeting of the new stockholders to effect the reorganization. Hope is held that the bank may reopen in August.

Waiver of 60 per cent by stockholders and reduction of capital from 16,000 shares of par $100 stock to 12,500 shares of $20 par units are major parts of the plan. Needed waivers have been obtained for more than 90 per cent of the deposits.

Grains Rally Mildly Prior to U. S. Report

A moderate recovery in grain prices preceded the issuance of the government's sensationally bullish forecast on crops yesterday. The forecast did not come for more than an hour after the close of the market, and its contents afforded a big surprise to the grain trade generally.

There had been no intimation of the character of the government's report. It had been generally anticipated that the figures would show little variation from the estimates of the private forecasters. Yesterday's advance in prices resulted from a lessening of the hedging pressure that has been pressing against the market for several weeks, rather than from buying in anticipation of the government's forecast.

Winter Wheat Receipts Fall.

Receipts yesterday at the winter wheat markets fell to 1,311 cars, or in the neighborhood of 2,000,000 bushels. This was less than half of the previous day's receipts, which approximated 3,000 cars in 11 markets.

Final quotations on wheat futures yesterday were from ⅞ cent to 1⅛ cents above the preceding day's close with the September contract closing at 88⅝ cents. Corn futures closed approximately 1 cent higher with the September delivery 58 cents at the end of the day. Oats, rye, and barley followed up the advance with lesser gains. Oats were up from ½ to ⅞ cent with the September contract closing at 42⅞ cents. September rye closed at 65½ cents.

Crop Movement Nearing End.

The sharp decline in the winter wheat receipts was widely interpreted as meaning the big crop movement in the southwest and in the central states is near its end. It was this movement that resulted in constant hedging selling in the futures market to which the recent steady decline in prices has been attributed.

Cash wheat is still commanding good premiums over the futures market. Yesterday No. 2 hard wheat was quoted 1⅜ to 2¼ cents above September wheat. Red wheat was selling 1 to 1¼ cents over July, which put it approximately on a parity with the September price.

Reports on corn yesterday were bullish and this contributed the strength in this grain. From Nebraska and parts of Iowa the heat was reported to have done heavy damage to the crops.

STRONGER BANK STRUCTURE AIM OF PARLEY HERE

Measures to strengthen the nation's financial structure will be discussed when representatives of the largest banks in the country assemble here today at meetings of the Reserve City Bankers' association board of directors and the association's commission on banking law and practice. The latter group is charged with the duty of reviewing the entire field of banking law and may formulate recommendations to the next congress for a complete banking system.

As one banker said, the profession "is out to do something constructive" which will muffle critics. It is regarded unlikely, however, that definite recommendations will arise at once, this being in the nature of an organization meeting. The same is true of the directors, who will hold their first meeting since elected six weeks ago.

Lyman E. Wakefield, president of the First National bank of Minneapolis, heads the association and is a member of the banking law group. Laurence B. Robbins, vice president of the Northern Trust company of Chicago, is vice president of the Reserve City organization. The secretary is Joseph Schroeder, secretary of the American Institute of Banking.

LEADING FOREIGN EXCHANGES GAIN AGAINST DOLLAR

New York, July 10.—Leading foreign exchange rates, except the reichsmark, moved higher against the dollar today in quiet dealings. Sterling moved up ⅛ of a cent, closing at $5.04¼, and the franc gained a shade, closing at 6.60 cents. The mark, at the closing price of 38.35 cents, was unchanged. Guilders climbed 3 points and the Swiss franc 2. Scandinavian rates were up 1 to 4 points.

The Federal Reserve bank of New York reported the receipt of $19,300 in gold today from Panama. There were no exports and no net changes in gold here under earmark for foreign account.

The price of gold in London advanced a penny to 138 shillings ½ penny a fine ounce [equivalent to $34.78]. Bars valued at $2,796,367 were purchased.

U. S. FORECASTS LOWEST WHEAT CROP SINCE '96

Estimate 16,000,000 Bushels Less.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The country's wheat crop this year will be the smallest in 38 years and for the second year since 1890 the yield will fall below domestic consumption, according to the crop forecast made public late yesterday by the federal government.

The government's figures, which completely upset calculations of the grain trade, indicated the aggregate of the country's five leading grain crops will fall 450,000,000 bushels short of last year's production and 1,588,000,000 bushels below the yearly average for the period from 1927-'31, which is customarily used as a standard of comparison.

The government estimated the total wheat crop at 484,000,000 bushels, which is 16,000,000 bushels below the forecast it made a month ago. Ten days ago leading private crop authorities made public their estimates, which indicated a total crop of 516,000,000 bushels.

Figures Doubted at First.

The first reaction to the government's figures at the Board of Trade was one of amazement and skepticism. So entirely unprepared for the bullish figures were the majority of the traders that they were unwilling to believe the government statistics when they were posted on the blackboard in the trading room. The report was not made public until after the close of the market.

Even more sensational than the report on wheat was the government prediction of a corn crop of 2,113,000,000 bushels. Private authorities a few days ago had predicted a crop of 2,334,000,000 bushels, and it was believed that the government's figure would show little change. The corn crop has been counted on to make up the known deficiencies in other feed crops.

Last year the corn crop totaled 2,330,000,000 bushels and in the five years from 1927 to 1931 the country produced an average of 2,516,000,000 bushels a year. The report on the corn crop is the first made this season by the government. The forecasts on all the crops are based on the condition as of July 1. They give a definite line on the tremendous crop damage which was done to the crops by the unprecedented drouth which the grain states experienced.

Crop Tinkers to Continue.

The government's report on the crops indicating short yields in all principal grains follows by one day the announcement of the Agricultural Adjustment administration that the acreage reduction program instituted this year will be carried forward in 1935.

The estimate served to strengthen a belief in some quarters that the AAA will be forced to alter its plan for a 15 per cent acreage reduction next year as the short crop this year will deplete carryover stocks, and it was regarded likely that final announcement of the acreage reduction to be sought under the 1934-'35 wheat adjustment program will be considerably less than 15 per cent.

AAA officials feel, however, that the wheat crop next year is certain to be larger. For the last two years, it was pointed out, the crop has been the lowest in four decades, and experts of the administration are reasonably confident that the law of averages will bring a normal or even a bumper crop next year.

Expected to Clarify Picture.

Leaders in the grain trade last night expressed a belief that the sensational government figures will finally jolt the public into a realization of what has taken place. Added to the bullish crop advices from abroad, the situation fundamentally is regarded as the most bullish in years.

One must go back to 1896 to find a year in which the total wheat crop was smaller than the indicated yield this year. In that year, government records reveal, the crop amounted to 427,684,000 bushels. This year's aggregate of the five principal grain crops will show a reduction of 32 per cent or approximately one-third of the 1927-'31 average.

The wheat crop will fall 141,000,000 bushels short of estimated domestic requirements which are placed at 625,000,000 bushels. Last year

STOCKS SNAP OUT OF RUT AND GAIN; VOLUME RISES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 10.—Things looked brighter all around on the stock exchange today. Leading issues perked up 1 to 2 points and turnover mounted to around 650,000 shares, the largest since June 22. Nearly all groups participated in the price improvement.

There was no particular news to touch off the display of buying psychology, but the street was not greatly surprised at the turn for the better. Many had been of the opinion for some time that the buying was of better quality than the selling and brokerage house market letters have been reminding the community that the list might be expected as a matter of course to snap out of the doldrums on the upside almost any day.

Bulls Have Advantage.

Commentators are generally agreed that the bulk of the argument is on the bull side and have been so for weeks. For one thing there is a hope pretty well distributed that the autumn will bring an advance in business and those who would like to put their money into stocks on that assumption are being encouraged to do so by the steadiness maintained by prices over the last six weeks.

Gold shares turned in the best performers of the stock list today. Alaska Juneau was a feature, was the largest turnover on the list and a gain of more than a point. Homestake shoved ahead 4 points to a new record high and Dome and McIntyre were both active at substantially better prices. Silver shares also perked up, the movement of the two groups serving to remind those concerned that Wall street had not yet marked off the possibility of inflation.

Rails Are Well Bought.

Some of the rails came into favor for a while. Central Atchison, B. & O., Southern Pacific, Southern Railway and Union Pacific were well liked at 1 to 2 points higher. Motion picture stocks, which weakened rapidly at the close yesterday, were given some respite. Warner fell to a new low, but Loew's, Paramount and R.-K.-O. were firm.

There was more than usual scattering of individual performances to attract attention. Coca-Cola continued to move ahead, finding a new high price for the year. American Can advanced 2 points to the best price in over two months. Lily Tulip Cup touched a new high, 2 points up.

Best & Co. firmed a little on the dividend increase. Columbia Gas broke a point or so on dividend suspension. Steel shares as a group rose 1 to 2 points. Aviation issues were able to improve a little. Fractional climbs were made by the motors, coppers, foods, tobaccos, and oils. Chemicals rose abruptly, with du Pont and Columbia Carbon in the lead.

Simmons company sales for June, excluding subsidiaries, amounted to $1,522,508, against $1,843,537 for June, 1933, a decrease of 17.4 per cent. Sales for the first six months, excluding subsidiaries, were $8,583,995, compared with $7,413,432 for the 1933 period of six months. This is an increase of 15.8 per cent.

COTTON FUTURES CONTINUE ADVANCE; TRADING ACTIVE

Cotton futures continued active in all markets yesterday, soaring more than $1.50 a bale on the July delivery here and slightly more than a dollar on other contracts. Similar gains were recorded in other markets.

Final prices here were 22 to 32 points higher, New York rose 23 to 25 and New Orleans 20 to 23. Further buying, stimulated by Monday's bullish crop report, plus reflection of higher Liverpool prices, lent a buoyant action throughout.

Southern spot sales totaled 2,824 bales. Cash prices gained 20 points in New Orleans and Houston to 12.60 and 12.55 cents, respectively, and rose 25 points in New York and Galveston to 12.70 and 12.55 cents, respectively. Prices:

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 10.—The listed bond market gave an impressive demonstration of strength today with all classes of bonds participating in the advance. The trading volume picked up a little over yesterday's turnover. Transfers totaled $12,528,000, par value, against $11,545,000 on Monday.

United States government bonds jumped 2-32ds to 13-32ds point in active trading, with only one issue, the treasury 3¾s, registering a decline and that amounted to but 1-32d. Eleven issues of the government group reached new highs for the year, most of the new levels being the highest since issuance.

Treasury 3¼s Active.

The treasury 3¼s of 1941 were the most active. One block of $1,000,000 of these changed hands at an advance of 6-32ds. There was a fair demand for Home Owners Loan and farm mortgage obligations, the four issues firming 2-32ds to 13-32ds of a point.

Public utility bonds showed the best average gains in the domestic corporation group, although the rails were by far the most active. The advances generally ranged from small fractions to a point or two. Few issues which were at all active showed declines of any consequence. New highs for the year in the corporation list today were fairly numerous.

Corporation Issues Gain.

Gainers of fractions to around a point included some loans of Alleghany corporation, American Water works, Armour & Co., Canadian Pacific, Certain-Teed, Chesapeake corporation, Burlington, St. Paul, Chicago & North Western, Chile Copper, Columbia Gas, Erie, Great Northern, Hudson Coal, Illinois Central, Mead corporation, National Dairy, New York Central, Nickel Plate, North American Edison, Postal Telegraph, Union Pacific, Wabash, Western Pacific and Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

Foreign loans rallied. Many of the German loans climbed a point or more, although the Dawes plan 7s moved up only ¼ and the Young plan 5½s held unchanged.

REMINGTON RAND QUARTER SALES 45.2% OVER 1933

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 10.—Sales of Remington Rand, Inc., for the June quarter revealed an increase of 45.2 per cent over the corresponding three months last year, James H. Rand Jr., president, informed stockholders at their annual meeting yesterday.

This showing was in line with reports recently that manufacturers of business machines have been staging a strong comeback. The total for the quarter was $7,490,000 compared with $5,155,000 for the same quarter a year ago.

Mr. Rand revealed that this was the first quarter since the depression that domestic business has shown a greater percentage increase than foreign. The rise for the former amounted to 49 per cent while the latter gained 40 per cent.

FEDERAL WIRE COMMISSION TO ORGANIZE TODAY

Seek Rate Data Within a Few Weeks.

Washington, D. C., July 10.—(AP)—Telephone and telegraph companies will be asked to submit rate data to the new federal communications commission within the next few weeks. The commission organizes tomorrow with Eugene O. Sykes as chairman and no time will be lost in starting on the task set for it by the last congress.

Few governmental agencies, old deal or new, have had such a big summertime assignment. Congress directed a thorough study of the communications field and ordered a report by next February with recommendations for new legislation. To accomplish this the commission will have to work at top speed and few believe there will be time to spare before the February deadline.

The new law gives the commission authority to determine and fix fair rates for wire and telephone charges, a long complicated procedure.

Swear in Members Today.

The seven members of the commission will be sworn in tomorrow morning and then meet to decide on how they are to operate. There will be at least three divisions, one for radio, which will absorb the old radio commission, and one each for telephone and telegraph.

Sykes has been chairman of the radio commission. Besides him, the new commission will be composed of Thad Brown of Ohio, also a member of the radio commission; Paul Walker of Oklahoma; Dr. Irvin Stuart of Texas; Norman S. Case of Rhode Island; George Henry Payne of New York and Hampson Gary of Texas.

Sykes, Brown and Stuart, who has attended several international radio conferences, probably will have charge of the radio division. Walker, a member of the Oklahoma public utilities commission, probably will be assigned to head either the telephone or telegraph divisions. Where others will sit is a matter of speculation. None of them has ever been identified with the communications field.

Formerly Ruled by I. C. C.

Such regulation of wire companies as previously was held by the federal government reposed in the interstate commerce commission. These functions were turned over to the new commission by congress.

Bulky files of data also will be handed over by the interstate commerce commission. These will help form the basis of the study congress wants made.

In addition to granting the commission new powers in allocating broadcasting channels, the law instructs the commission to investigate a proposal that congress, by law, set aside certain wave lengths for the broadcasting of educational, religious, and other noncommercial programs.

The commission's rate making task will be one of its biggest. In the first place it will have to deal with the nation's largest corporation, the American Telephone and Telegraph company. Secondly, there are more than 6,000 independent telephone companies not affiliated with A. T. & T.

LITTLE UNITS MAY AVOID RULE.

Practically every telephone company in the country outside the Bell system will seek exemption from federal control set up under the communications act, which was signed on June 19. This statement was made yesterday by F. B. MacKinnon of Chicago, president of the United States Independent Telephone association, at the opening session of the annual convention of the organization at the Stevens hotel.

Mr. MacKinnon said the association will base its plea for exemption for nearly all of its 1,221 members on the Clark amendment to the act, which exempts companies that do only an intrastate business or that operate local exchange business across state lines.

In addition, Mr. MacKinnon continued, will cause the control over these companies, which now rests in the hands of the interstate commerce commission, to revert to 45 state utility commissions.

Officials of the association stated that there has been a recent improvement in business following a 21 per cent decrease in phones in operation by 137 class A member companies between 1929 and 1933.

PRICES OF LARD ADVANCE TEN TO THIRTEEN POINTS

A strong undertone in lard on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday lifted prices 10 to 13 points higher net. Selling, some of which consisted of hedging, was modest. Commission houses ranged on the buying side. Clear bellies gained 7 to 18 points. Liverpool futures were unchanged to 3d higher and spots rose 3d. Range of local prices follows:

THAT'S BECAUSE

STUTZ—SEDAN, 1931 DE LUXE MODEL with side mounts and every conceivable extra. The finish has not a mar on it. Expensive broadcloth upholstery. The tires are excellent. Go over the motor with a fine tooth comb and you'll agree that it's the last word. See this Stutz—drive it—and then compare it with anything else in Chicago. Our price is just $445, and it won't remain long at that figure. Don't miss this one!

CORD—SEDAN, 1931 DE LUXE: HERE IS one of the handsomest cars of its kind in town. Wire wheels, side mounts, and many costly extras. Has low slung lines and a world of power and pep. Was owned by a wealthy North Shore family who gave it the best of care. Specially priced at $485.

PACKARD—SEDAN, '29 DE LUXE 8 THAT'S as nice a Packard as you could find anywhere. The finish, upholstery, tires, and motor are really 100%. This car never left the Chicago boulevards and was coddled like a baby. Don't fail to see it. Only $295.

STUDEBAKER — SEDAN, 1930 DE LUXE President 8 with 6 wire wheels and a world of extras. The motor was REALLY given the most minute "going over" and now you would certainly think that it performs like a new straight 8 engine. The finish glistens like a new dollar and the upholstery appears practically unused. We are marking this car at only $365—and we sincerely believe it to be a most outstanding value at this price.

PLYMOUTH—SPORT COUPE, 1933, WITH free wheeling, floating power, etc. You'll have to look far and wide to find a car anywhere in town to equal this one. It's the last word for smart appearance and sparkling performance. Offered at a bargain price.

PONTIAC — COUPE, 1931: VERY CLEAN car that is in dandy running order. Many nice extras and it's very snappy car and the first man in with $295 drives away in it.

HUPMOBILE—SEDAN, 1931; IN STORAGE for the past two years. We checked it over carefully in our shop. Now recommend it as an outstanding automobile. It's top notch throughout. Easily worth more than $380.

REO—VICTORIA 8, 1931 DE LUXE MODEL. This auto was actually used for only a short time. Every detail is positively like brand new. Don't miss it at only $475.

STUDEBAKER—SEDAN, 1932 6: 6 WIRE wheels. Has every modern improvement, free wheeling, safety glass, etc. Finish has not a mar on it. Expensive upholstery. Tires appear unused. Motor was driven just enough to be properly broken in. Has full Studebaker guarantee. Specially priced at only $545.

LA SALLE—SEDAN, LATE 1930 DE LUXE It's a real beauty. It has the appearance and performance of an auto fresh from the factory. Our price is just $425.

GRAHAM—SEDAN, '30 8 DE LUXE MODEL with side mounts and every conceivable extra. Examine this Graham from bumper to bumper and you'll agree that it still possesses all the original newness. Only $295.

PIERCE-ARROW — BROM., 1931 DE LUXE model. Finish is bright and shiny. The upholstery is luxurious. The motor is the last word. It's a sensational value at $495.

FRANKLIN—SEDAN, 1929 7 PASS; OWNED by a wealthy family who gave it the very best of attention. Every detail of the interior and exterior is 100%. Has a sweet running motor. This looks like a real $1,000 value. Just reduced to only $325.

OAKLAND—SEDAN, 1930: YOU'LL FIND this car a very economical purchase. In the first place—it's in dandy condition today. Second—it makes every drop of miles per gallon of gas. And thirdly—priced at only $145.

STUDEBAKER—SEDAN, 1928 7 PASS, THAT was a chauffeur-driven and now it looks and runs better than many cars priced at $300. For quick sale, just reduced to $95.
